AGRICULTURE

Notes and Suggestions of Practical Utility

FOR THE FARM, FIELD, GARDEN AND DAIRY.

Gleanings of Interest for Our Country
Readers.

Cut your hay early.
Keep the mangers clean.
Tar the noses of your sheep.
Set out a few trees each year.
Keep the water trough clean.
Don't allow weeds to go to seed.
Clover makes the best of stover.
Teach children to be self-helpful.
Well-fed animals enrich the soil.
Keep the feet of your sheep clean.
Use more brood mares on the farm.
Selling milk is selling raw material.
Keep about eight sheep to each cow.
There is no gain in mowing to close.
Good spring lambs never come amiss.
An overtaxed colt makes a slow horse.
Why not bell the dogs when off duty?
Slow colts sometimes make fast horses.
Make every cultivable rod of soil count.
Cucumbers need a good deal of moisture.
Alas! for the family that have no garden.
It is never profitable to be stingy of feed.
Alfalfa is growing into favor in the West.
Give your tomato plants plenty of room.
See that your sheep have plenty of water.
Cut down such weeds as cannot be pulled.
Blubber is not fat, though it may be fatty.
One unruly animal will spoil a whole herd.
Colts may be worked, but not over-worked.
Don't be afraid of cultivating a few flowers.
Flesh and milk are both made from like food.
Some exercise is better for both sire and dam.
Breed blooded sires on native ewes for a flock.
Medium-sized animals are in the best demand.
A weed killed is better than one removed later.
Let us improve and elevate the private dairy.
The model farmer allows nothing to go to waste.
Food soil and good work are the secret of success.
One barrel of lime will do lots of white-washing.
Pigs in a pen will eat many weeds if thrown into them.
Six months from sow to shamble gives the most profit.
Nothing is so good that it does not meet opposition.
Keep the ground clean around the trunks of fruit trees.
Keep a close connection with the experi-ment station.
It is a poor farmer who makes his farm annually poorer.
The beginning of progress in dairying is a well culled herd.
Plant pole beans with corn, if you want silage succotash.
No kind of business succeeds without proper management.
Milk-giving is a perpetual strain on the nutritive system.
When the horse gets scared the driver should keep cool.
A frightened driver is sure to have a frightened horse.
Cut back the tomato vines and keep them free from sprouts.
With more concentrated foods, straw may be fed with profit.
A horse that is worked every day needs good feed and care.
A little manure round the raspberry canes will do them good.
Stick to one breed, unless you cross intelligently for a purpose.
The more milk the cow gives, the more food she should have.
Don't cultivate black knot. Cut them off or cut down the tree.
In holding most products there is always loss from shrinkage.
Holding for a higher price is going without the use of money.
In sheep husbandry, you pay your money and take your choice.
Remember there is a difference between fattening and growing.
Young ducks should be kept from the water until they feather.
Wean the young in a way to give the least shock to the system.
Sheep on short pasture need extra feed as much as other animals.
The dairy thermometer is not so much of a curiosity as it once was.
The best floor for a dairy is a wooden one well patted and painted.
Cutting feed makes it easier to masticate and saves waste of energy.
The farmers have plenty of brains, but many of them need cultivating.
Graft the seedling when it is one year old; transplant it when it is two.
Fifty per cent of the value of barnyard manure is lost by improper exposure.
No man is likely to do better than he knows. Therefore strive to know.
The matted row of strawberries mulches the ground better than separate hills.
When the cows are turned into a new pasture, let the sheep have the old one.

ANECDOTES, HAPPENINGS AND GENERAL COMMENTS

Clipped and Condensed for the Readers of The Globe.

On July 6 the earth is farther away from the sun than at any other time.
There is not now a ship in the British Navy without a temperance society on board.
It is reported that an English syndicate has purchased Anheuser Busch brewery for ten million dollars.
A party who left Liverpool to make a tour of the world, returning via Vancouver, completed the circuit of the globe in eighty-six days.
200 pounds of giant powder exploded in the Black mine, Idaho, last week. Four men were killed and some others are missing, supposed to be dead.
A paint mine has been discovered 20 miles above Liverpool, N. S. also an isinglass mine at Chelsea, good specimens of which have been sent to parties in the United States for inspection.
The Queen is to be the guest of the Duke and Duchess of Westminster at Eaton next year for a few days, probably in August, when on her way to Balmoral for the usual autumn residence.
One pair of rabbits can become multiplied in four years into 1,250,000. They were introduced into Australia a few years ago, and now that colony ships six million rabbit skins yearly to this country.
The wife of a New York banker has invented a machine for making wire rope, the patent of which she has sold to a San Francisco firm for ten thousand pounds cash and a royalty. The way she came to hit upon this was from a device she used to twist her worsted.

THE POULTRY YARD.

Weakness of the Legs.

When the hens become suddenly lame without apparent cause it denotes that the male is too heavy and the fowls fat. A subscriber at Frankfort, Me., writes: "My hens are troubled with a disease which I am unable to do anything for. If you can suggest something will you kindly reply through your paper? They grow weak in the legs for a few days, and then swell up behind and are unable to stand, so as fast as they are taken now I kill them. Would they recover from it if given time and what is the nature of the disease?"
It is a common occurrence and is due to the weakness of the spine, the hens being injured. It seldom occurs except when the flock is in a fat condition, and the male clumsy and heavy. We suggest that the male be removed from the flock, as he is of no value at this season.

Large Eggs.

There are some breeds that lay very large eggs, among them being the Black Spanish, Minorcas, and Houdans. The best way to increase the size of the eggs is to use a male from any one of the breeds named, and cross on the largest and best hens of the flock, selling off all the stock next season except the pullets from the cross, which should be retained. These breeds are not considered equal to some others for market, but if the pullets of the cross are mated with males of some choice market variety the chicks will be equal to those of any other cross. In this way the flock may be improved with but little expense, only the purchase of a male being necessary.

Poultry at Fairs.

If fair managers will offer the same inducements to poultry as other stock there will be larger displays. The poultry department is often the most attractive at the fairs. It is not expected that the poultry should receive the same inducements as horses, cattle, sheep and swine, but the choice fowls should at least be on an equality with heads of cabbage and lots of potatoes, which is not the case at some fairs.

Dust Baths.

What is meant by a dust bath is a box nearly full of fine dry dirt that has been sifted. Coal ashes are excellent, but at this season the dirt is more easily procured. If the hens are at liberty it will take but a few minutes to scoop out a hole and fill it with dry dirt, and the dirt should be removed after each rain, as damp earth is not easily dusted into the feathers by the hens. The use of dust by the hens is to drive lice away, and this will be accomplished, provided the poultry house is kept clean and free of vermin.

Green Food in Pens.

When green food is given the hens in confinement in yards it should be first cut up, as they cannot easily pick off the leaves should the green food drag after them. They pull off their green food, not being able to bite it, and know nothing about holding it with their feet in order to pick it, hence if the food is not to be wasted, always cut it up fine for the hens before throwing it into the pens, and they will eat it up cleaner.

Sulphur in the Food.

Sulphur may be allowed in the food in the summer, as it is excellent for molting hens. A teaspoonful in the food intended for a dozen hens, given twice a week, during dry weather only, will be beneficial and assist in preventing disease of the bowels. It will cause rheumatism if given in large and frequent doses, and should be avoided altogether as an ingredient in the food of chicks.

Nature provides a remedy for all diseases, and in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, women have a remedy for all those ills peculiar to their sex. Suppressions, bearing-down pains, nervous headaches, etc., speedily yield to their treatment and restore the sufferer to perfect health. Try them. Sold by all dealers or sent on receipt of price (50c. a box) by addressing Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

JINGLES OF HUMOR.

A Little Nonsense Gathered for Leisure Reading.

"No, Bobby," said his mother; "one piece of pie is quite enough for you."

"It's funny," responded Bobby with an injured air. "You say you are anxious for me to learn to eat properly, and yet you won't even give me a chance to practice."

She. "Don't you know that there is a deftness, a lightness, a certain superlative skill about a woman's touch that man is too awkward to attain?"

He. "Don't I know it! Do you suppose I've been touched for a new bouquet every three months for the last ten years without learning something?"

A little girl who likes to keep a box of candy for a long time, but as it is usually discovered by the other children, she fails to do so. The other day she went to her mother: "Please give me a piece of camphor gum, mamma."

"What do you want of it, Elsie?"

"To put in my candy to keep the mouths out of it," was the quick reply.

Judge—Prisoner, the jury has found you guilty of manslaughter in the first degree, and sentence you to punishment for life. Your crime was a most—

Prisoner—Now see here, Judge, I know what yer going to say, an' I object right here. I don't mind being sent ter jail for life, but I draw the line at bein' abused, see?

The professor of logic to himself: "I laid my hat somewhere in this room. Nobody has come in since I've been here. I can't see it anywhere, therefore," putting his hand beneath him, "I have sat on it. Another proof of the irresistible power of logic."

"You say you are ambitious to be president eh? Well, Pat, it's hopeless. The Constitution requires that you shall be born in this country before you are eligible."

"Ah, the Constitution! Phwat's that? Me frin's in Washington'll fix th' Constitution."

A despairing swain, whose girl shows signs of jilting him, declares that if she does he'll drown himself or perish in the attempt.

Hereditary Feature—Mrs. A.: "What black eyes that baby has?"

Mrs. B.: "Yes; his father is a puglist."

Briggs: "Poor Robinson. After his wife died he married her dressmaker?"

Griggs: "How are they getting on?"

Briggs: "I understand that he still owes her money."

Wee Miss: "Mamma, mayn't I take th' part of a milkmaid at the fancy ball?"

Mamma: "You are too little."

Wee Miss: "Well, I can be a condensed milkmaid."

Mr. Camera: "Now, Miss Hunter, please look pleasant—that's it—keep that for a moment until I catch it. . . . There. Now you may resume your natural expression if you wish."

The famous St. Bernard dogs are very carefully trained. A traveller who visited one of the monasteries of the monks of St. Bernard a few years ago found the monks teaching their dogs from the earliest stages of puppyhood. Not only is physical and mental training included in the teaching, but spiritual culture is by no means neglected. At meal-time the dogs sit in a row, each with a tin dish before him containing his repast. Grace is said by one of the monks, the dogs sit motionless with bowed heads. No one stirs until the "Amen" is spoken. If a frisky puppy partakes of his meal before grace is over, an older dog growls and gently tugs his ear.

Supposed Murder Near Campbellton.

The body of a man was found on the 19th of August at Point Legard, about 12 miles below Campbellton on the Quebec side. The only articles found on him were a baggage check and a ticket from Chicago to Point de Chene. The baggage was traced by the authorities and found to have passed through Moncton on the 8th of August. The trunk contained an assortment of gentlemen's wearing apparel of first-class quality, and also two large cabinet sized photos, a $5 counterfeit American bill and a letter addressed to James Shaw, La Grange, Cook Co., Illinois, from his sister, M. A. Shaw, dated Manitou Springs, Colorado. From the nature of the letter it was evident that Shaw was on his way to P. E. Island to see his mother, at the request of his sister. It is supposed that Shaw was on the Quebec express on the night of the 7th, which passes through Campbellton about midnight, though nothing positive is known of him nor of the mystery which surrounds his death.

The fact that no money or other valuables were found on his person leads to the suspicion that the stranger might have been foully dealt with, and also recalls the fact of the mysterious disappearance of a stranger found on the Sugar Loaf Mountain at Campbellton, a few years ago.
