THE DAIRY.

Over-Ripening of Cream. One of the curses and great sources of waste in the dairy is the over-ripening or rotting of cream before churning it. The tendency is to hold cream too long. We believe in sweetcream butter. It will rot soon enough after churning without making it of rotten material. In an institute, the president of the New York state dairymen's association was asked he had invented this comedy in low life if good butter could be made from cream that in order to gain his wife's affection. There is one thing which we would like to make every dairyman discontented with, and On All Subjects of Current Note that is the cow that makes less than 300 pounds of butter a year. At a recent dairy conference in Kinderhook, N. Y., the question was asked: "How much butter per cow per year would satisfy you in a four-cow dairy?" The answer by Mr. Gilbert was: "Not less than 400lbs. per cow; and I would strive to make it more. Why keep a scrub, or, as they say out West, 'penny-royal' cow ? One costs no more for keep than the other, The potato crop will be disappointing to but one yields profit, the other loss.
