If you are one of the bright ones and can read the above rebbs you may receive a reward which will not cost you any thing over for your trouble. The proprietor of THE LADIES' PICTORIAL WEEKLY offers a first-class Upright Piano or a cheque for Five Hundred Dollars to the person who sends the first correct solution of the above rebbs, a new riddle, a pair of genuine Diamond Ear Rings for the second correct solution, a complete Business Education at a Commercial College for the third correct solution, a solid Gold Watch for each of the next three correct solutions, a Silk Dress pattern (any size in a color) for each of the next five correct solutions, an elegant Diamond Brooch (solid gold) for each of the next ten.

Every one sending a solution must enclose with the same ten three cent stamps (or 30 cents in silver) for a post-paid subscription (five copies) to THE LADIES' PICTORIAL WEEKLY, Canada's highest-class, illustrated newspaper. The envelope which contains correct solution bearing first postmark will receive first reward, and the balance in order as received.

For the correct solution received last is offered a Swift Safety Bicycle valued at $500, fourth and fifth from the last will be awarded an elegant solid Gold Watch; for the sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth from the last will be awarded either a Silk Dress pattern (in any color) or a Swiss Music Box, playing six pieces.

It should be as many as one hundred persons sending correct solutions to this rebbs, each will be rewarded with a valuable Prize. Names of those receiving leading rewards will be published in prominent newspapers throughout Canada.

Extra premiums will be offered to all who will assist in increasing the subscription list of this popular illustrated weekly. The object in offering this rebbs is to attract attention to and introduce our publication. It should not be classed with catch-penny affairs. You can easily ascertain as to our reliability by inquiring through any commercial agency. Perfect impartiality is guaranteed in giving the rewards. All solutions must be mailed on or before June 24, 1892. Address:

DAIRY.

Cleanings of Interest for Our Country
Readers.

Keep the cost down.
Avoid the galling collar.
Meadow lands need manuring.
Oats make a good soiling crop.
Manure the orchard broadcast.
Systematise work to save time.
Train your colt—don't break it.
Sort and grade truck for market.
Keep the surface of the soil loose.
Wet soil should be underdrained.
Proper preparation of the soil pays.
Make the ration to suit the animal.
See that the calves have warm feed.
Push your work or it will push you.
Look to quality more than quantity.
Never mix your varieties in planting.
The profit is what you get above cost.
Feed and water stock with regularity.
Everything in nature has its antipode.
Bone meal is a slow operating fertilizer.
Study up on crops which you cultivate.
Very few things thrive without sun and air.

Plant deep in dry weather; shallow in wet.
Do a little thinking and contriving every day.
One can plant more than he can cultivate.
Broad tires on the farm save the moist turf.
Grow such crops as are adapted to your soil.
Never pile ashes around the stem of a tree.
Protect your trees by the use of woven wire.

An open-headed tree grows the fairest fruit.
Aim to do everything in just the right time.
A good farmer is never idle for want of work.
The source is a great aid in judging of merit.
Make experimental plots all over the farm.
When done with a tool, return it to its place.
You can't get your cellar too clean and sweet.

Right planning saves both time and labor.
The roots of a mature orchard cover the ground.
All fertilizers should be well mixed with the soil.
Don't approach a horse in a way to startle it.
Judgment must be used as to the depth of planting.
There are no weed seeds in commercial fertilizers.

A regularly well-fed animal is a contented one.
Save some choice, well-rotted manure for the garden.
Take strawberry plants from a young and thrifty bed.
Common sense ought to teach people some things.
The family always appreciates a supply of small fruits.

Some claim that orchards should always be cultivated.
Exercise breeding stock and keep up the bone and muscle.
You cannot have the best crop unless you use the best seed.
Letting an animal run down to save food is a double loss.
Blue grass, like other grasses, is valuable where it flourishes.

On the farm is where the laws of nature can be best learned.
Trees well thinned out at the top are not so liable to mildew.
Conditions are a better guide than the almanac or the moon.
The value of the droppings depends on the value of the food fed.
Do not be afraid of a little fresh air and sunshine in the house.

This is a good season in which to use whitewash plentifully.
See that your young trees do not make too much growth of wood.
Salt on soil at times works like a charm according to conditions.
Commercial fertilizers, judiciously used, work well in the garden.
Take good care of your tools this season, if you never have before.
Who ever saw an ear of corn with an uneven number of kernels?
Our farmers generally ought to grow a greater variety of fodder.

Chopped clover in bags is one of the new feeds in market for poultry.
Rotting manure before applying it is facilitating nature's processes.
A too concentrated fertilizer is like too concentrated food—injurious.
As soon as the frost is out, meadows and wheat field ought to be rolled.
Get as many varieties of grasses in your pasture as you can make grow.
Find out what it costs to produce an article before you figure on the profit.
It would seem that 87 per cent. of water is enough in milk without adding to it.

ANECDOTES, HAPPENINGS AND GENERAL COMMENTS

Clipped and Condensed for the Readers of The Globe.

Four fifths of the engines now working in the world have been constructed during the last twenty-five years.
While a butcher was cutting up the carcass of a pig he found a valuable diamond ring in the animal's stomach.
A famous temple in Ceylon was entered by burglars, who carried off gems and gold valued at £5,000. Twenty persons have been arrested.
Prince George of Wales' dukedome will be announced in the "Birthday Gazette" which is to be published on the evening of Monday, May 23.
The czar of Russia has recently found time to be interested in the game of cricket, and has organized two elevens among the young men of his court.

A Warwickshire farmer, a teetotaler of thirty years' standing, in the Birmingham County Court recovered £10 from a policeman who had wrongly charged him with being drunk.
Queen Margherita of Italy wears a necklace of numerous rows of pearls, which is increased by the row the King gives her every year. The chain is too large to be pretty.
The Empress of Austria lately ordered that 50,000 rose-trees should be planted around the statue of Heine, on a rock over 2,000 feet above the level of the sea.

The Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Company have arranged that their steamers shall make twelve visits to Hobart, Tasmania, for the purpose of taking to England a consignment of 240,000 bushels of apples.
A rat plague in Dorset is inflicting loss on the farmers. One farmer at Wareham noticing that three ricks were infested, had them thrashed. The ricks were found to swarm with rats, and no fewer than 550 were killed.
As far as can be calculated, the average length of life, which is computed in the seventeenth century to have been only 33 years, was in the eighteenth increased to 20, and in the nineteenth to 36. Men used to be considered old when they passed 50.
New York matrons and maids, especially those who have plenty of money to throw away, are always taking up some new fad. The latest of all among the elder ladies is to make large collections of old lace. Mrs. Vanderbilt has actually a collection which is valued at £100,000, and Mrs. Astor has spent £60,800 on hers.

During last year the takings at the Parisian theatres amounted to £843,986, or nearly £23,000 more than in 1880. The houses standing at the top of the list are the Grand Opera, £122,739; the Comedie-Francaise, £78,141; the Opera Comique, £70,511; and the Hippodrome £63,296.

The members of the Sparrow Club at Rickidg, which is situated in the northwest corner of Essex, destroyed upwards of 1,000 sparrows last winter. Several of them have been fined for not killing the number they are bound by the rules to destroy according to the extent of their holding, one paying as much as 16s.
Some interesting and rather surprising statistics are published on the use of the telephone. In Germany, Switzerland, Norway, and Sweden, from 100 to 400 persons in every 100,000 of the population are subscribers. In Great Britain only 58 persons in 100,000 use the telephone. In Berlin 11, and in Paris 42 out of every 100,000 inhabitants use it.
Skirt-dancing appears likely to be all the rage during the coming season. The graceful performances of professional dancing girls, such as Miss Kate Vaughan, Miss Letty Lind, and some of the Gaiety actresses have inspired aristocratic amateurs with a desire to learn the pretty accomplishment, and a skirt dance now often takes the place of a song or a recitation at fashionable soirées. Not content with appearing in private, some of the highborn amateur skirt-dancers have pirouetted in public, always, of course, for a charity. The skirt-dancing of the beautiful Misses Saville Clark and Mrs. Crutchley was the feature of the Guards' Burlesque last year, and during the past week Lady Russell and her sister, Mrs. Dick Russell, with some other amateurs, have been skirt-dancing on the boards of the Royalty Theatre, on behalf of the National Lifeboat Institution.—Tidbits.

An Apparent Injustice.
There is a question which it is strange thoughtful women do not ask. Why should the schoolboy, if we have any prefix at all to his name, be called master and the adult man, married or single, Mr., while the schoolgirl and the mature woman are alike styled Miss unless married, in which case the more dignified title of Mrs. is bestowed? A woman never knows whether the man to whom she is introduced is married or single, but a woman is labeled. She must marry something no matter what, so it have the semblance of a man, before she is permitted by society to assume the title of dignity and maturity.

Bone for Little Chicks
As soon as the chicks begin to feather, they require very nourishing food, as the production of feathers is a severe ordeal, and they should be fed four or five times a day. Bone meal is excellent for them, and a box of it may be kept within their reach.

Mr. Hugh Caldwell, Clydesdale, Ont., writes: My daughter was troubled with female weakness, and for more than a year was under the care of doctors and taking medicine without getting relief. I then got Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her and they have completely cured her. Sold by dealers or sent on receipt of price—50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. Address Dr. Williams Med. Co., Brockville, Ont., or Morristown, N. Y.

Druggist—What did that man want? Clerk—He wanted something for the grip. Druggist—What did you give him? Clerk—Don't know; didn't look. Everything is good for the grip.

We Behold their Workings and Stand Amazed.

How doth the lovely Diamond Dyes Improve the days and hours, By giving profit and surprise, To those who test their power's.
How skillfully they do their work At morning, noon and night, On dresses, jackets, wraps and suits, To every one's delight.
They spread their colors like a charm In shades both dark and gay; There's nothing 'bout them that can harm, Or cause the least dismay.
A child can with the greatest ease These lovely colors use, Can get results that always please— That no one can refuse.
This lesson then is surely fraught With hints so true and wise; It means, if you would 'r be caught, You must use Diamond Dyes.

JINGLES OF HONOR.

A Little Nonsense Gathered for Leisure Reading.
School Teacher—Bobby, you may define "profit." Bobby (whose father is a druggist)—Four hundred per cent.
From Chicago—Stranger—Whose little girl are you? Florence—I'm poppa's little girl. Stranger—And why aren't you mamma's little girl? Florence—Cause the deuce gave me to poppa.
Mrs. Bancroft—Your husband has never taken any active interest in Sunday school work, has he? Mrs. Rhinelander—No; you see he is employed in a bank, and the directors keep a pretty close watch of him.

Mrs. Wayback no longer believes in newspapers. The other day one of them informed her that everybody was out of town, and when she went shopping she was nearly jammed to death at a draper's cheap sale.
Her Lawyer—Now, madam, don't you think that if we brought a little pressure to bear on him we could render the divorce proceedings unnecessary? Mrs. Mulvaney—In duce an' we couldn't, Judge. Oh had him under 'r' kitchen stove wid me settin' an' 'an' up at it for four hours yesterday, an' 'divil th' more dacinter he bekam.
What kind of a man is he—good, bad, or indifferent? Well, that depends a good deal who teeters on the other end of the plank with him. How so, sir. Well, if you size him up alongside of Judas Iscariot he looms up middling fair; but when you come to sit him down 'between such fellows as you an' me, Judge, he does dwindle terrible surprisin'—he does, for a fact.

Will you please give me some dinner, ma'am? begged a tramp. Yes, was the reply. Will you have a plate of soup? I'm not particular, said the tramp. There was a time, he went on, mournfully, when I wouldn't think of sitting down to dinner without soup; but things is different now. You kin start me on roast beef, or pie, or even on ontry, for all I care.
Tramp—Good mornin' mum. Is yer husband ter home? Ancient Lady—I never had a husband. Tramp—I don't see no dog here. Ancient Lady—I never kept a dog. Tramp—I s'pose some o' yer male relatives lives with ye. Ancient Lady—(suddenly regarding tramp closely and suspiciously)—No; but I ought to have a man around to— Tramp (hurrying away)—Woo! I forgot this was leap year.

Applicant for insurance—No, sir, I neither drink, smoke, nor swear. I don't go to the theatre or attend balls, and have no evil associates. I am at home always by ten o'clock; an Sunday school teacher, and my morals are above reproach. I never had a day's sickness in my life. Agent—That is an extra, very laudable risk, young man, and we can't take it. Applicant—What? Agent—No; the good die young, you know.

Royal Hobbies.
Those folks who possess a passion for hobbies—and we suppose their name is legion—will doubtless be interested in knowing that this particular characteristic is also exhibited by the blue blood of the earth—many Kings and Queens being hobby-lovers in a most interesting and varied fashion, as the following authentic details will prove.
Queen Victoria is very fond of gardening, and all her children have been taught to dig and plant flowers and vegetables in season. Her Majesty is also passionately fond of dogs and ponies, her special favorite being an old black pony named Jessie.
The Duke of Edinburgh is an ardent stamp collector, and now possesses one of the finest collections of stamps in the world.

The Queen of Italy has a peculiar hobby. She delights in the collection of gloves, boots and shoes which have been worn at different periods by Royal and Imperial personages. She has a pair of white slippers and a fan which belonged to Mary Queen of Scots, also shoes worn by Queen Anne and the Empress Josephine.
King Humbert of Italy takes great delight in amateur cooking, in which he shows no mean skill. The Emperor of Russia is very fond of fishing, and spends many consecutive days every season at his favorite resort, the Langilla Salmon Fishery, Finland, amidst the most romantic scenery. The Empress and family assist in cooking the fish at a spacious villa built for the purpose.

The Queen of Denmark is an enthusiastic musician, and is extremely fond of playing piano-forte duets with her daughters.
The Empress of Germany is quite a champion knitter, and uses large wooden needles for the work she does.
The Empress of Japan is distinguished for her clever manipulation of the koto, a Japanese instrument resembling the zither.
The Queen of Greece spends a deal of her time in fancy needlework, and is said to be the finest Royal needlewoman in Europe.
The favorite employment of the Prince of Montenegro is the composition of war songs and historical dramas, in which he delights to sing and act with great vigor.
