A. J. MACHUM, Publisher and Proprietor. FREDERICTON, N. B., NOV. 26, 1892.

HON. A. G. BLAIR ELECTED.

The Hon. Attorney General Blair has been elected by the people of Queens county by a sweeping majority over J. DeV. Neales, who was induced through the efforts of Mr. Pitts and his supporters to oppose Mr. Blair, the victory being an overwhelming one for the Attorney General; every parish in the county giving him a majority. The opponents of Mr. Blair used the religious cry for all it was worth, but the electors of Queens were not to be taken by any such filthy bait. and showed their disapproval of such desplicable canvasses by electing Mr. Blair by a majority of nearly 900 votes. The Presbyterians at Chipman, which place is also a strong orange parish, whom Rev. Mr. Thompson thought to influence by the Bathurst school question, gave Mr. Blair a rousing lead at that poll.

Following are the returns compared

Blai	Neale	Ferris	Woods
Brunswick 57	23	45	28
Cambridge228	35	181	52
Canning 98	22	75	42
Chipman196	42	228	39
Gagetown117	86	89	184
Hampstead176	134	110	137
Johnston 197	101	155	104
Petersvile184	177	147	251
Waterborough158	57	153	84
Wickham154	14	81	81
1583	691	1254	968

It will be seen from the above figures that Mr. Blair's majority was 892 against a majority of 286 for Mr. Ferris, a month ago. The votes polled numbered 2,274 against 2,222 at the general election, so that the result was not due to any decline in the interest felt by the public. The meaning of the election is that 52 persons who did not vote at the general election came out to vote for Mr. Blair Tuesday, while 272 persons who voted for Mr. Woods a month ago voted for Mr. Blair. Mr. Neales failed to poll one half as many votes as Mr. Blair and loses in his deposit of $100.

The day has gone by when the religious cry should be used in this province, and the men who attempt to array creed against creed, merely for personal gain, are men only in name. Such persons are more good to a church, society, or their country, when they are conspicuous by their absence.

LABOUR STRIKES.

Within the last two decades labour strikes have been unusually common. Capital and labour from time to time have come into serious conflict, both sides atternately carrying the day, while the immense losses to business and the immediate community have been incalculable, and the blow falls the heavier upon those the least able to resist it, that is the working men. The Homestead struggle, loss of several millions of dollars, and the sacrifice of a dozen lives. The workmen were at length obliged to that it must be on reduced wages. This dear bought experience ought to be a lesson to all hot heads, those who ininterfere with men who are satisfied with their positions, yet forced to strike because others do so, in hopes that they themselves (the instigators) may profit by the venture, after a miserable shiftless set of "scabs," incompetent workmen, too offen dissipated, but belonging to the combination they are connected with and share alike the gains of their craft to the disadvantage of their more provident and meritorious confrares. It should be constituency has received a blow from healthy condition. If you feel worn out or Grapes, Lemons, Apples, and Prize remembered by such organizations, that which it will take many years to recover. have "that tired feeling" in the moring, do labour like anything else can never fail water it will find its level. A good work things most interesting.

man has nothing to fear, he will like an article of merchandise, command the market according to its worth-while a poor workman, or a shiftless one, will always be a laggard, and only make head way he thinks by hanging on to the others and gaining as they gain. As well might our merchants combine flour they can find and fix a price upon it and compel the community to purchase from them, or go without. This would create a panic for the time until other methods are worked to bring in a better article independently of said combination. So with mechanical strikes, In punishing their old employers they are punishing thenselves more so-but, as the world is broad and its resources are great the panic soon subsides-with the incoming of new appliances the trouble gradually passes away and the normal stage is once more freached, while the real sufferers are those who raised the standard of revolt, and lost their situations. Unions are all very well in a certain sense. If men combine to aid their fellows in sickness or distress of any kind it is humane and well; but when they attempt to dictate to their employers whose capital alone provides the employment, they go out of their way and run their heads against themselves. It is through thrift, prudence enterprise and intelligence that men accumulate capital to enable them to set up business for themselves. Unlike the men they emhands, they have involved their business large sums, perhaps twenty, thirty or forty thousand dollars, and that business is in competition with others, all vieings with each other for some thus invested rests upon anything like a sure foundation. Take the carpenter or the mason-in large cities such men are often working upon capital of fifty and a hundred thousand dollars. Sometimes they lose upon the contract, so sharp is the rivalry. Employment is given, through the enterprise of such men, to hundreds of workmen. Is it fair then to combine to the injury of such men, to kill the hen that lays the golden egg, when, as remarked above, skilled labor will always find its reward. In the one case the man who provides the employment is sought to be crippled by the man who gives nothing but his labor, which accordance with quantity and quality. Combinations or unions are therefore of no benefit to employers or employees, but rather an injury, specially if pushed to a revolutionary point, and we know of no better illustration of this than is contained in the collapse of the Carnegie strike at Homestead, Pennsylvania. Innocent families suffer by those inconsiderate strikes more than the strikers day last, to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons, caused by the resignation of C. N. Skinner, resulted in fayor of Mr. John A. Chesley, who defeated the liberal son, by two hundred and thirty-one votes. script. The contest seems to have been very interesting, not many more than half the qualified voters considering it worth the trouble to cast their ballots. The result was rather a surprise to most people, 'as it was thought that Mr. Robertson, backed as he was, by what is known as the government machine. as well as whatever influence could be brought from Ottawa, would have an easy victory. A Mysterious Tragedy.

Intense excitement has been caused at Rome by a mysterious tragedy at San Paucreazri, a suburb of the city, where Father Bloudet, a priest, lived with his sister. A laborer named Mazzieri, employed about the place, on Sunday entered the room occupied by Father Bloudet. He had been in but a short time when he rushed out with blood pouring from wounds in his body. To his neighbors, who were passing, he declared that when he went into the room he found Father Bloudet in a very excitable mood. The priest drew a revolver and shot him. As Mazzieri fled from the room he heard another shot and heard the priest fall. The people ran to the house and found the body of the priest's he resides, and he was the recipient of been murdered. The body of Father Blondet was found on the floor. One of the club appended their autographs and killed his sister. Another is that
