Spirited Times Up North.

The Scott Act was still raging, and Inspector Menzies reports having been rather roughly treated in an engagement at Newcastle. He and Constable Hill made a raid on Murray's hotel, and found what they presumed to be two casks of liquor in the back yard of Staples' store adjoining the inspector believing it to have been shunted there through a hole in the hotel wall. They seized the supply of Dominion Day celebrant, and Hill went for a team. Then the inspector was assaulted with bottles, which were thrown at him from windows—by women folks he thinks, a bottle he had seized in the hotel was taken from his pocket and smashed, and the casks were broken in and their contents spilled. The inspector finally drew his revolver and retired from the yard in good order, when the gates were locked against him. He accuses several persons, including a Chatham publisher, of having aided, abetted and encouraged the assault on him.—Chatham World.

MARYSVILLE'S BAD BOY.

Not a wishin', dear teacher, to be licked or lectured, nor to be stood up as a horrible example nor to be stood down as a warnin', nor yet to be kep' in wich is monopolus, nor yet to be fired out wich is obnoxious—so now, here goes for a few ramblin' remarks on the subject uv Marysville.

The road to Marysville is gently undulating, but the scenery on Tom Wheeler's bug is rugged and mountaneous.

Marysville has a popylashun uv morn 2,000 mortal frames, the boss of wich is Mr. Gibson. The site is Sandy. It is bounded on the north by ole Sandy, on the south by yung Sandy, on the east by Jim and on the west by Uncle John.

It is situated handy to the affluence of the Pennoic. The Canada Eastern ralerode has a tendency to pause at this point.

It has two big dams. One is the mill dam wich can be herd morn a mile in fine wether; the other is ole Sandy's dam wich can be herd in stormy wether for a mile and a half.

It has a saw mill wich is run by yung Sandy, a store wich is run by Uncle John, a cotton mill run by ole Sandy, and a brass band wich is run by a marcell Providence and Jim. It has a skatin' rink run by Jim and Art in winter and the spiders and skeeters in summer; a meetin' house and minister wich is run by ole Sandy, 'ceitin' the Quire wich is run by wind and Jim. It has a town council run by Jim and yung Sandy on the shares. It has a town marshall wich never runs. But ole Sandy he runs hisself.

Marysville is sitoated on both sides and middle uv the Nashwalk river wich was constructed by Nacher till ole Sandy took hold uv the job.

The laadin' exports uv Marysville is cotton and cotton mill sooperintendents wich has rowed with ole Sandy. Its laadin' imports is more cotton mill sooperintendents.

The cotton mill is four stories high and ten stories long. Its roof is not flat but has a good deal of pitch and some tar.

It has a good hotel run by Mr. Foster. Mr. Foster cooks vittles for twenty men and has never lost a man.

Mr. Gibson used to run the Canada Eastern ralerode, but now Mr. Snowball, wich is a bigger man than Mr. Gibson, runs it, so Mr. Gibson he sits on the fence and watches the trane go by.

Mr. Gibson elected Mr. Tempel last election, but Mr. Tempel ain't got no post ordis for Mr. Gibson, so Mr. Gibson next election will neck the stuffin' out uv Mr. Tempel.

So this is all I know about Marysville. Wich takin' my pen in hand and hopin' it finds you the same, and pleas excuse bad writin' and menny returns uv the same, I continoo to remain yure dootifol poopil,

Young Goodwin succeeded in climbing on top of the upturned boat, but Langford remained in the water, clinging to the boat. Langford's body was recovered three hours later, a short distance from the shore.

On Wednesday last the firm of Carnegie & Company, of Pittsburg, Pa., attempted to gain possession of their works at Homestead, from which they were excluded by their locked-out workmen.

Two barges containing 900 Pinkerton detectives were taken up river by a tow boat. Thousands of armed strikers had possession of the works, and entrenched themselves behind piles of steel billets.

The strikers had two cannon, with which they bombarded the barges, and their firing was so fierce that the towboat was cut loose from the barges and steamed up river carrying seven wounded detectives. The barges were moored to the bank. Every attempt of the detectives to land was prevented by the fire of the workmen. The cannon produced but little effect. Unsuccessful attempts were made to burn the barges by pouring oil on the water and setting fire to it. Dynamite bombs were thrown against the boats.

About dusk the officers of the amalgamated association prevailed upon the strikers to allow the detectives to surrender.

At 5 o'clock the detectives hoisted a white flag and the strikers guaranteed the safe conduct to the detectives, provided they left their arms and ammunition behind and agreed to leave the place under guard. The detectives accepted these terms.

On the boats were found seven dead detectives and 20 or 30 wounded—some fatally. As the prisoners were being conducted through the streets the infuriated strikers beat them with clubs and knocked down and trampled upon many. In this way several detectives were fatally injured. The captured detectives were finally lodged in the Opera House where they were kept all night.

The strikers looted the barges and then set fire to them. So far as can be ascertained, 11 workmen and nine detectives were injured in the battle. At least 100 detectives were seriously injured on the way to jail. The Pinkerton men were not sworn in as deputy sheriffs.
