GREAT BABIES.

The St. John papers are still crying over the appointment of Mr. C. N. Skinner to the office of Judge of Probatesone of these papers in particular devoted a half column, a leader at that, on Tuesday last to a second or third lamentation over the matter. It is a great pity that our contemporaries should not have something else to engage their attention, besides those subjects which for the last year or two have kept them stewing in their own fat from day to day. Now it is the Leary plan for providing wharves and docks. Now it is a harbour commission. Now it is a corporation undertakinn to do something themselves in the way of wharf building, but cannot agree as to site, whether Sand Point, or further up. Now it is a grain elevator. Now a truss railway bridge from Govern ment Pier to Reed's Wharf. Now it is the Harris "job." Now it is harbour fortification (the Yankees and Annex ationists will be sure to be upon them? Now the cry is over Skinner's appoint ment In fact our friends by the sea are the greatest set of crying babies of any city in the Dominion. And yet knowing their wants, they do not lift a single fin ger to help themselves, but cry-crycry-out to the great big Hercules a: Ottawa to come and help them. Then. they have a Board of Trade, so called whose business it is to meet semi-occasionally to talk and pass resolutions calling upon Dominion and Provincia governments, to open their bowels compassion and help. The "Liverpool of America" is slighted. Abbot and Bowell and Foster have all turned their backs upon their great port-a port by the way. Without wharves, docks, ele vators, or anything else, even if adopted by the Dominion Government as a shipping port. But the last blow seems to be the worst of all to the office seekers. The party, whatever that means had a man all cocked and primed for the office of there will be precious few people left in of Judge of Probates, and he should Canada. have been the man because he was a great Liberal! if you know what that means? And yet he is a descendant of the class of politicians who were the greatest Tories that New Brunswick ever had to contend with in years gone by. True, these folks, or rather their offspring may now be great Liberals, especially if good fat offices are in the way. The government have no rights of their own to appoint. It is the "pairty" who are to be considered, failing which the "devil among the tailers" is sure to be played upon the great organs which think themselves to be absolute as regards public opinion. But take St. John for all in all, and it is a mighty queer place—so it is. In short the press of St. John reminds us of the old-fashioned town 'pumps, havfellow who comes along seizing upon the order to quench their thirst (for office) and make the owners believe that said than they should, or cause it to run John and many other cities. to waste upon the highway and so be lieve that the public laps up the waste

When permission was granted to erect a lumber shed on the bank of the river, opposite the Parliament building, it was with the distinct understanding that no lumber of any kind was to be piled along the bank. Dr. Parkhurst, who has raised so great a stir in New York by his vigorous methods of breaking up disreputable houses, has been telling some pretty plain truths about the police of the to say that they are unaware of the character of such house as are kept in that city. They know that these dens are in full blast, and they lift not a hand to close them because they are in fear of Tammany Hall, which controls most of the municipal offices in New York city. They can execute the law impartially on the ruins of Tammany Hall, and this democratic institution shows no signs of decay. The Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, however, promises to make life a burden for some of the keepers of disreputable louses. He has had one woman, who perjured herself in court, sent to the louse of correction for nine months, and ill the other women against who charges have been brought will probably suffer in the same way. If this clergyman gathers about him a band of men as fearess as he is he will be able to accomplish some good work, despite the corrupt and pathetic police.

An article which appeared in a recent ssue of a French paper, published in Paris, is of a natute to open the eyes of the French people to the importance and greatness of the American exposition The writer is fresh from Chicago, and being a man of quick perception, he has apprehended the situation at the future of the show at a glance. He declares inreservedly that the exposition will be success, and urges his countrymen to be alive to the occasion offered them to make known to the 65,000,000 of Americans the workmanship, the taste and the genius of their race.

In his remarks the writer says: "The rench will have much to learn from mericans. correspondents happened into a post office not far from the city of Quebec a few days ago and found that 90 per cent of the letters come from the United States, and that 50 per cent of them contained money sent from that country by French Canadians to help their friends to emigrate from Canada. It also comments on the fact that the French Canalian papers are "bewailing the flight of population," but that it continues in spite of the efforts of the cures to turn it eneath its comments lacks the intimation that if some remedy (of course not annexation) is not soon resolved upon

It is a curious fact that the protests of American tourists against the evil o tipping servants in Europe, which has become a great tax on the traveller, has led to an agitation among continental waiters in favor of regular wages. A society has been formed in Germany, to compel all employers of waiters, porters, etc., to pay them their wages, so that they may not be forced to harass guests for gratuities. The reform deserves success, for it will remove one of the most offensive features of travel at the present

Would it not be much better for the Chief Engineer to make a regulation in his department that when a fire breaks out at the upper end of town, only the ing a plentiful flow of water, with every hose-reels of the upper wards should respond, excepting when really required, handle, especially the thirsty ones, in then orders could be given to do so, and the same with a fire at the other end of the city. ### Why Can't They Marry?

A young lady and gentleman are in love with each other, but will not marry because the lady's mother's brother in-law is the young man's father. What relationship exists between the young lady and gentleman?
To the first person sending the correct answer to the above problem the publishers of "The Ladies' Pictorial Weekly" will give seventy-five dollars in cash; for the second correct answer fifty dollars in cash; for the third correct answer an elegant gold watch: for the fourth correct answer a first-class boy' or girl's safety bicycle; for the fifth a French music box; for the sixth a pair of genuine dia mond earrings in solid gold setting; to the seventh a first-class Kodak Camera, with a complete lawn tennis outfit; for the ninth

Berthelot now claims that acetylene forms the primary material, or starting point, for the information of other hydrocarbons. If this fact is established it is quite possible that such compounds of metals with carbon, upon coming in contact with water under conditions of more or less pressure, may give rise to the production of the immense stores of natural hydrocarbons, such as these which exist in the petroleum wells of Russia and the new

A SUICIDAL POET.

About 2,400 years ago there lived

The Story of a Disgusted Honest Politician

Chinese poet of classic fame. His name was Kuh Yuen, and, strange to say, he was a politician of unblemished reputation, though he served under a profligate worthless boss, Prince Cho. His purity was a stumbling block to his fellow-politicians, and they used their pull to have Millinery Establishment his head, figuratively, lopped off. Kuh Yuen took his dismissal very much to heart, and so resolved, before committing suicide to revenge himself. This he did, and wrote a long poem denouncing his enemies and telling in thrilling Chinese pathos the story of his sufferings. Having finished his ode he quietly slipped out of the world by dropping into an affluent of the Ting Tung lake. The common people, who even at that early time had faith in reforms, were much grieved at his death, and though they did all they could to find his body it was never recovered. A temple was erected near the spot of Kuh Yuen's exit, and every year since then the search for his body is resumed and food is offered to his shade. The legend on which Kuh Yuen's fame rests says that on one occasion he re-appeared on the banks of the river and complained to the Chinese that the offerings of food never reached him, but were devoured by water reptiles. He, however, suggested a means of alleviating his attenuated and ghost-like condition. Now all the food is tied in small bags with five threads of different colored silks, or with leaves of bamboo, and it is presumed that the ghost of Kuh Yuen is well fed, as no further complaints have been made. In China, and especially in Canton, today, the anniversary of the drowning of the poet-statesman, the river will be crowded for miles with gayly decorated boats of every description, while the evil to examine the Stock at the spirits, to borrow the phraseology of the War Cry, are "routed" from one end of China to the other, and food is offered to the shade. As these spirits do not frequent San Francisco bay there is no water celebration in that city, but there will be great feasting, special performances at the theatres and a general holi-The difference in length of the cables day, the food being eaten by the cele-
