IRISHMEN AT THE FAIR.

Listen To Blake's Speech and Gladstone's Letter.

Exciting Episode Over the Hoisting of Ire land's Colors—Officials Issued Contra-dictory Orders and the Flag Went Upand Down.

CHICAGO, October 2-Undaunted by steady downpour of rain or the water on the mud-covered roads, the sons of Ireland living in Chicago and other cities of the distinctive powers and attributes marched on Saturday morning throung of all these races in the grand effort to Jackson Park to the old strains of Hiber- create a commonwealth greater and richer 1833. nian music. The grand Marshal Timothy in its reseurces, more potent in its in-E. Ryan of Chicago, rode a horse bedeck fluence upon human progress than any ed in green and carried the unsheathed individual race in the old world. It is those who rode in the closed carriages were Hon. Edward Blake M. P. of Toronto; Arthur O'Connor M. P.; O. Driscol] M. P., of Ireland and Lord Mayor Shanks to disturb Europe; to disturb those Euroof Dublin.

When the Hon. Edward Blake's turn came to address the great Irish gathering in the Old World. What have been the he received a flattering endorsement of his course in leaving his Canadian home the World's Fair be the answer. The to fight for Ireland in the British Parliament. Mr. Blake said :

A few weeks ago, after seven years of struggle on new lines, and a debate in Parliament more severe and prolonged than any which has preceded it, you have seen the people's house in Parliament pass a measure of home rule by a sufficient majority. We may expect to see it a law at no distant date. This measure means that all this gs which affect the material and moral interests of Ireland's peopl · are to be controlled in the future by themselves. There are defects in the bill; we don't claim it as perfect, but we hope to eliminate the errors in time. In conclusion Mr. Blake read an important letter

In a case now before the courts two natives who are being prosecuted are shown to have rented a shed in a compound, and to have arranged and fitted it up for the express purpose of gambling. They paid a monthly rent at 250 rupses for the shed, and divided it into eleven stalls, which were let out at 100 rupses a month each. The stalls were taken by men who carry on the business of book-making, with the important difference that they do not themselves lay the odds. They register bets and hold the stakes, levying a commission of half an anna in the rupee on the amounts won. This business, it is said goes on from early morn till midnight, the number of those present varying from 300 to 400, The odds are shouted -up to 2 o'clock 5 to 1, up to six o'clock droped that branch of business, 10 to 1, and so forth. The bet is determined by the rain falling in a stream and within a certain time from the roof, particularly from a building on one side of the shed. The question now the sailor pulled down the green flag. is whether the all-important clock, the betting books, and a rain-recording roof can be brought within the definition of instruments of gaming.

> DOWNING STREET, WHITEHALL, September 2, 1893.

Dear Mr. Blake,-I learn with great pleasure that there is to be an Irish day during the World's Fair at Chicago, nor am I less satisfied to know that you have undertaken to attend the gathering on behalf of the Irish people and of their representatives. There could not be more interesting nor, except on the day of the final victory, a more encouring occasion. After seven years of close and and sustained struggle throughout the country, a House of Commons was elected last year which has passed, after 82 days of debate, a bill for conferring upon Ireland the management through a freely elected Parliament of her own domestic affairs. And when at the close of next week, the bill will be rejected by a large majority of the House of Lords, we shall know, the people of Ireland will know, the world at large will know, and even the House will know that this rejection will mean no more harm than a dilatory vote.

You are about to address .Americans, who, in all ranks and in all parts of their magnificent country, have shown an active and almost universal sympathy with Ireland, and more especially Irish Americans, through whose energies and inexhaustible affection for Ireland has the world. And you are in a condition to when point out to them these two things: of First, the distance which has been actually travelled over between the physical misery and the political depression which marked the early years of the country, and the victory recorded last night is immeasurable: second, the distance between the recorded victory and self-governing control over her domestic affairs is not only measurable but short. It was unanswerably observed during our where opinion has been most hostile, viz: change of opinion in England. Scotch, Irish and Welsh votes were with us in 1886, but we stood in a minority of nearly change in England that has converted this minority into a majority of 40 for Home Rule. Yet England still as not a separate nation recognized by to him on the eve of his departure for the United States its flag could not be hoisted on any of the departmental buildings. Chief Barrett wrote to Mr. Millet, who is a New England man, asking him to have the Irish flag hoisted for this day. Mr. Millet refused, and the Chief of Electricity appealed to the Director-General, who passed the appeal to the Council of Administration. That body took the diplomatic precaution to communicate with the Royal British commission for the purpose of ascertain ing if there would be any objection in that quarter to the hoisting of Erin's emblem of nationality. Sir Henry T. Wood, the secretary of the commission, replied that Great Britain had no chjection, but would be pleased to see the Irish flag floating with those of the nations from the top of the Electricity building. So the council granted a permit for the hoisting of the flag. Early J. Allen Hornsby, Chief Barrett's assistant, instructed two men to hoist the silk flag which had been donated for the occasion by Chicago Irishmen. This was done, but from his office Mr. Millet had watched the act. He summoned Jimmy Hunt, captain of the sailor's crew, which attended the flag business, and ordered him to haul down the Irish flag. Hunt is an Irishman, but he had his orders and obeyed them. No sooner was the flag taken down than Chief Barrett's men raised it again. For the second time He encountered Chief Barrett's man on been effected the most remarkable oceanic the roof, who told him that he could migration ever known in the history of touch the flag only at his peril, but it came to 8 question physical force the electricity men did not feel like fighting for their Irish flag and down it came again. Then Mr. Hornsby became beligerent as well as indignant, and summoned the Columbian Guards, who offered to eject Hunt from the roof if ordered by Chief Barret, but the order was not given. Mr. Hornsby then got a small the final investment of Ireland with full Irish flag and hung it out of his own office building in defiance of Mr. Millet, and with Chief Barret hurried over to Administration scot, finished in white and gold, to the Building to find out why Mr. Millet had ig- bottom of the deep cove cornice, of papier debate that our recent success has been nored the order of the Council of Administra- mache in an elaborate design, representbrought about by a change of opinion tion.
