Shirking Military Duty—How the Czar Travels—Jottings.

France intends to commemorate the memory of Marshal MacMahon by a statue, to be named after the distinguished soldier, and already there is much speculation as to whom the honor of executing so important a commission will be given.

The Matabele have a very singular marriage custom. The husband does not buy his wife, who, therefore, remains the property of her father, and when children are born of the marriage their own father has to buy them from his a'her-in-law.

Madame Nilsson (Countess de Casa Miranda) now lives in Paris in a most luxurious hotel in the Quartier Marabout. She has an unique collection of art treasures, among them being a beautiful clock which belonged to Charles XII of Sweden and a magnificent fan, once the property of the Swedish Queen Christina.

Over a couple of tons of ripe strawberries were recently gathered in England by some large growers. The fruit, if somewhat small, was excellent in flavor, and is, of course, a second crop, the plants evidently not having exhausted their rugged properties, owing to the exceptionally dry summer.

For the first time since 1844 a woman has been executed in Berlin. She was the cold-blooded murderer of her husband and her head was cut off on a block with a sword in the fashion of the middle ages. Her execution was witnessed by an excited multitude.

It is said that the Czar travels with no fewer than 300 trunks of considerable size sufficient to fill 14 railway vans! Several of the Emperor's packing-cases are filled with presents which he distributes with great liberality. About 10,000 francs were recently divided among the household at Fredensborg, and there were valuable rings for the pokers, and gold watches for station masters, railway engineers, guards and telegraphists.

A youth of Prince Bismarck's Duchy of Lauenburg, avowed to military service, dangled by copious libations of vinegar and rubbing his body with acetic acid to get into such a condition that he was rejected; but the foolish fellow, having communicated his recipe to some others, who blunderingly attempted to carry it out, the dodge was discovered, and he now finds himself serving in the artillery. A conscript, both in France and Germany, has to get up very early to avoid service.

The octro du y, so familiar to all in Paris, is an import precisely similar in principle and practice to the customs duty paid on goods entering a foreign country. You go out of Paris for the day to visit a friend who has a charming garden in the suburbs, and he hospitably loads you on your departure with new potatoes, peas and fresh salad. When you reach Paris there is, whether you arrive by rail or road, a functionary who wants to know "what you've got there," and unless it be of very trifling sort you will have to pay a percentage on its estimated value.

It Happens That Way.

I hear that you have been moving? said, as she found herself in the same seat with acquaintance on a Michigan avenue car.

Yes; we are down on Twelfth street now.

And do you like the new place?

Quite well but the family next door is just awful. There's about a million young uns, and the woman scolds and the men gets drunk, and my ha' bandie lures he'll have the whole lot arrested.

It's too bad you got a 'nside of such people. What did you say your number was?

No—

Why my sister lives at No—, right beside you! You must have reference to er!

Dear me, but—

I don't understand—

Excuse me, but I have to get off here. Do come down and see me. We never were so pleasantly situated. It is one of the nicest neighborhoods in all Detroit, and I'm almost lonesome to hear a child crying.

Mistress—So you are going to leave my service? Now, what motive impels you to go away?

Servant—It's no motive, mam; it's a soldier.

A teacher in one of the Brunswick public schools a few days ago asked for a comparison of the adjective "ill." The bright boy who answered the question replied by saying, ill, coarse, dead. The boy is still very much alive.

A Few of the Advantages of Woven Wire Fencing Made with the Kitzelman Machine

It is strong, easily handled, durable and ornamental.
It will not be injured by sleet, snow, heat, cold or floods.
It will turn horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, dogs and poultry.
It will protect fields as perfectly as the best board fences.
It will not pull the wool from sheep, thus saving many fleeces.
It will not obstruct or mar the beauty of the landscape.
It is a net work without bars, and will not injure stock in any way.
It will not allow wire to be pulled apart to make space to climb through.
It will cost less to put up this fencing and keep it in repair than any other.
It can be taken down, rolled up and carried to other points without injury.
It will make safe enclosures for the worst animals, and reliable line fences.
It is much stronger and more durable than any barb fencing, being closely woven.
It will not shelter enemies to crops and will last a life-time with very little repair.
It is fire-proof and cannot blow down, and will not injure persons or clothing.
The twist in the wires will not slip or permit expansion or contraction through heat or cold.
It is the only general purpose wire fence known, and will not collect snow-drifts or be injured by snow storms.
It is the strongest, cheapest and best wire fence ever made, considering the many different styles and variety of its uses.
It is the only combination wire fence in the world, and can be made high enough for cemeteries and narrow enough for lawns.
It will not cast a shade on growing crops, and will permit cultivation up to the fence; by this means you can keep your fence rows clean.
It will not rust and break in the twists, as it is made from the best Eastern steel wire, galvanized, thus making it proof against age and weather.

The above cut shows how style 2 can be put up after being rolled up and transported to another place. Any of the other styles made by this Machine can be put up the same way, or fastened to the posts as made.
