OPEN LETTER.

Grand Lake Range, Queen's County, N. B.,

March 10th, 1893.

THE GRODER DYSPEPSIA CURE Co., Ltd.

GENTLEMEN:

I am 72 years of age and have had Dyspepsia for several years. I have employed numerous physicians and taken many patent medicines, but all were of no use in my case I began to grow worse. There was severe distress in my stomach; everything I ate, even the lightest food caused me intense agony. My appetite was poor and I could not sleep I was almost without hope when I saw a testi monial in the newspaper stating what Groder's Syrup had done for others. As a last effor to regain health, I thought that I would buy it. Just before Christmas last my son Fred went to St. John and brought me home a bottle of your remedy. I used with the following results;

I eat as I wish and have no distress from my food; my appetite is first-class, my food tastes good to me now, I sleep as sound as child, I do all my own work without the aid of a servant and can do a day's washing without feeling much tired whereas I could no do it at all before taking Groder's. I do feel grateful to you, gentlemen, for placing so valuable a remedy upon the market. I give all the credit for present state of good health to your medicine.

I am willing to answer any questions concerning the above, for I firmly believe your remedy will cure other sufferers as it has cured me, I conscientiously make this statement without any inducement or reward knowin it to be one of the best medicines in the market for Dyspepsia.

Respectfully yours,

ELEANOR BURKE.

At*the*Ball

Continued from Front Page.

that if he could have brought himself to tered it; and Mrs. de Morne's home was after all, he really—really—And now he the reach and power of princely or other cverlook her origin—her grandfather a hers since she came from school. He was ready to curse the delay that had not titles and coronets. clod-hopper, her father a day laborer—to was a f. ct of the universe; he had, in- made sure of every thing while he Shall I answer your questions categorioverlook the fact that she didn't belong deed all but coached her; he had told her might, that had not made this perfect cally Mr. Jack, one by one, before they to us by right, that she was like any what was desireable and what was to be creature his, blue blood or not to the are too many, or shall I answer them en other mushrom growth, Jack Murray avoided, and now the idea of anyone contrary, the spirit that had never let masse, as it were? she said lightly and would have been before the Prince here.

Just then the girl on the other side of all. the rose-curtain, trembling ever so little, raised her head to Jack Murray's shoulder, as space cleared, and their turn in herself that there had been a time, when having left Mrs. de Morne's side when meshes of her dress. Strictly speaking the dance came, took the time of the she first knew Jack, that if he had meant the two returned from their stay in the perhaps, I should not answer them at all. tune, and slipped away.

Murray, as he clasped her.

Oh, no. Why should I? To be sure.

One must pay the penalty of one's indiscretions, she said. If I had not lisdoes it matter any way? You would not her forehead now at the thought of it. suppose those women had young daughters of their own.

flashing of the recurent colors, the heavy with the cook's assistant. breath of the blossoms, she noted none of girl's nature, wondering what was this, tasted behind the rose-curtain there? In ness for it. earnest? Why shouldn't he be in earabout anything?

Handsome, careless Jack Murray, pull ing now at his mustache as they paused, you, perhaps, see the Azores, but are you He had a chance to ask her the ques- else? Isn't this rather serious business and looking at her with an absent- quite sure you make out the coast of tion himself, somewhat later in the night for a ball room? minded gaze as if he saw not her, but France? the coast of France behind her. But I was looking further, he said; at the lon, he wandered with her into the con- serious to me. And he leaned there what did it matter to her heart bubbling Transylvania mountains, at the Castle servatory, and brought her an ice, and sat with her own happiness; tender words ringing in her ears; a kiss yet warm and there. Don't look surprised; I have been thick banana-trees. pulsing on her lips.

and that look in Jack Murray's dark grown. Arpad Hegeralya is a real eyes, made her remember a time in those prince, and a prince of good fellows, too. beam of the light that never was on sea days of delight when she first came home and those diamond sparks in your array or shore in those wide innocent eyes of now. to Mrs. de Morne's, where Jack Murray are a mere dust beside the jewels the hers, that he had seen when she was was, so to say, the pillar of the house, Princess Hegeralya will wear. and he had found occasion to say to her, and the shock of it had been cruel. When a girl comes into this world of the privileged few, a pretty girl, a girl with a ently, I never yet have reached the romanticism which made them fancy not what in her voice—amusement, anger great fortune, but a girl sprung from no- depths of a woman's heart. where and nobody, she must be wise enough to hold herself well in hand. What do you mean, Mr. Jack? she had | she said, lightly. asked, defiantly, over the great basket of

I mean, he answered, that she will be moment, and then glancing away. married for her money, not for her good looks, or for anything else at all, and that might as well abandon the undertaking, be somewhat wearisome and restraining? she should never let any nonsense of love she said. get the better of her. If a prince married her, she might allow herself to love rhythm into the dances of the northern rying princes, he said, between his teeth. -if she could. She might allow herself lights. to love him with some chance and security of happiness in love, for he could so a rather contemptible whelp. chasable order?

Blue blood in this country! Felicia had more savagely, though, directly.

At any rate, he said blood traceable through-

All its gutters! she cried hotly. He laughed at her spirit.

I am not laughing at you, he said; I am giving you advice, disinterested advice. No; fortunately I am not purchasable. My worthy mamma and her daughters would lead anyone, any—any woman of that is all? the people, you know, a pretty dance if I should marry her—poor thing! I shall play. If you will not dance yourself, let hardly give them the chance. I have a weakness for blue blood myself. previous condition, or he would not have young! been so brutal; he was amusing himself then with her surprise and anger. She recalled it all in a flash, as she saw him looking at her in this way now. But such a thing as that could not pain her to night, although that glance puzzled her.

He might well have looked at her, and have seen nothing else for the dazzlement of it all; her perfect shape, outlined in the every breath, and making her look, as to the banqueting room. the light streamed over her, like some young goddess.

having had a history, and yet who have coronet of a princess? never been known in an affair; whom women had long ago given over any idea time more than a title, with his strength Felicia, are you selling yourself for th of charming; his praise, fame to any de- and stature like that of his unconquer- coronet, this title -for the sake of being impertinence if not insolence. For all that those women had chattered why should she suppose he was more in alya came upon the scene, that the fruit of courts? Is there any title on earth, earnest about her now than ever before, was ripe for his own hand, that he had warming with his own eloquence and than about all the other women who had but to make the motion, and it was his, bitterness, o lofty, so noble as that of an smiled on him?

part of Mrs. de Morne's establishment, enjoying the present moment too much can citizen is to have compassed the last Well, well, I have an idea all the same going and coming ever since she had en- to bring about the next, uncertain if, and fullest point in civilization, beyond supposing he meant anything by it at care enough for anything to make it his laughing; yet with something a little more lingering, she herself-

those tabbies, as he called them, had had never really cared; she had observed before harm could be done. said of Jack Murray, as they sipped and that advice of his and she thanked good-out in the figure by another.

Hegeralya, and the Tokay vineyards by her in a corner sheltered by some there. It is a real castle, and they are Yet the gossip she had just now heard, real vineyards, where wine for kings is the smile about the corner of the perfect

> Is there anywhere in the world you haven't been?

woman's heart was such a shallow place, can be done in a ball room as well as on

Perhaps so. But she knows how to the strong, right hand its reward? orchids that had just been handed to trouble the waters so that you can never know, he said, looking at her intently a is its own reward, she said quietly.

This is lovely music. It would put

And then she was taken out again. Mrs. de Morne was not far away, and | you do not know this one is yours for the marry her for herself. He would be the Jack Murray, who was used to doing as taking? only one who could afford it. But any he chose, seated himself beside her for a other husband, she would have to re- moment or two. But his eyes followed to speak with me in this manner. member always, was brought by money the radiant creature flashing down the to her feet, that he was purchasable, and dance, always with a certain stateliness high air with which she carried it althat separated her from the general swarm | ready. By which I understand, Mr. Jack, she of dancing girls, and saw the color that You are colder than the ice you are eatcried, bringing all her strength to bear to suffused the beautiful pearly pallor of ing, exclaimed Jack, bending a little do so gaily, that you are not of the pur- her face when Hegeralya-or was it, he lower, the music reaching them in loud asked, with a sudden happy doubt, be- and strong tune. And then, in a sort of grandmothers would rise in their respect- color that stayed there afterwards as if you suppose that a prince of the production able old graves, if I married with blood sunshine had fallen through a rose upon ost nobility in all Europe is other than less blue than that they have given me. her cheek. He pulled his mustache playing with you? That he really wishes

She is happy when she is in that fellow's arms, he muttered. I thought she Murray had been the confidant of the was different from the others. But they're house, and why not have it out now? all alike. Affections are dust in the balance beside a title.

Qu'as tu, mon pauvre Jack? asked Mrs. de Morne. Is it that there is not a friend left in the world?

Philosophical observations on society,

Be less philosophical, if it so spoils others dance, Felicia for example. Look at her. She reminds me of a sunbeam on He had not, perhaps, known at that water, she glitters so, she floats so. Ah, early time, either accurately or fully her she is young! What a thing it is to be

And to be happy.

ed the dear girl her happiness.

to make it myself. Just then the one with whom she had been dancing drew aside the curtain of bave accepted him. woven roses, deep crimson, palest pink. and white and golden, holding it an inwhite velvet, all whose front was covered appeciable moment, with his head bent with a golden network that seemed to and his eyes full upon her, while the flow from a knot of rubies at the breastf light, sifting through the flowers, shed. and in each mesh of which glittered a for that instant, all the colors over her, tempt, the bare sufferance of that nodiamond spark, giving an indescribable gleaming and glancing in her jewels, and bility, who will resent your existence,

It isn't the dowry this time, murmured Jack. Hearts are trumps, and I high-bred dames who share your blue But Jack Murray was one of those im- should like to break his neck for him! blood? dames who share your blue blood? perturable fellows who have the air of And she? Will she sell her soul for the she laughed. The Princess Hegeralya

To be sure, Arpad Hegeralya was somebutante, his indifference something to be able old Slav ancestors, with their spirit called a Princess? Will it give you anylooking out his clear eagle's eye, with thing in the way of enjoyment which you as to be allowed a degree of mastery over the gentleness of mothers of some south. haven't now, or cannot have with your others, which, in anyone else would be ern race in his manner, with his voice of own wealth? Will castles, hunting lodmusic, his air of courtesy, his bearing of ges. palaces, be more than so many gilded and he had been dallying as he had dal- American? Don't you agree with me, as DON'T BE DECEIVED. He had been you might almost say, a lied through all his five-and-thirty years, she was still silent, that to be an Ameriby any effort!

She hated to remember it; it seemed a It was in the swift moment while Jack certain heart-beating to be divined from sacrilege; but still she would confess to Murray was thinking these thoughts- the tumultuous glistening of the jeweled | Silks, anything—if his glance had been any banquet-room and having had to endure Is there not almost an impertinent li-Do you mind those tabbies? asked Jack tenderer for her than for other girls, any a fusilade from Charlie Exminster and berty taken in asking them? Deshon about his funeral face in a ban-An well, young girls were fools, she quet room, that a sudden cry, a sudden friends! he exclaimed. said. She could have loved Jack Murray, movement, and a sudden clashing stop of Yes she recalled the possibility; it was of the music, were followed by the in- Where did you begin? Am I selling mynever anything but a possibility thank stanteous thrust of a powerful arm and self? No. Will I have more happiness tened, I should not have heard. What heaven!—yet a blush of shame mounted he saw that one of the huge silver chan- than I can have through my own wealth? deliers with its hundred lights had fallen Yes. Will my home seem like a prison? She had known from an early day that down its chains just over his head, a Never. Can I breath ethe air of intrigues he regarded her as at an immeasurable weight and a blow that would have cast and courts? The Princess Hegerala will But as she swam on in the dance, with distance of birth and breeding and would him into outer darkness, but for the pow- have nothing to intrigue for. Is there the beating of the dream music, the as soon have though of allying himself erful arm that had seized and sent it in any title given among men loftier than another line, sliding to the floor in a that of a free American? It depends al-Yet she would have made him a good directing grasp, relieved at once by the together upon the American. Can I bear these things she loved so much in her wife-a faithful, loving wife. But, as it throng of guests and servants that sprang the contumelious lip of nobles to the was, she had never let herself go; she to help hold it and extinguish the lights manner born? I am an American sover-

that instant Jack saw from what he had ization has nothing finer than the possi-And then, those tender words, sound- been saved, and who had saved him, and bilities afforded in being born an Amerinest? In earnest about what? Whoever ing in memory, were ringing in her ears saw Felicia looking at them both with a can, and that a man who is an American heard of Jack Murray being in earnest again, and it was her turn to be taken sparkle in her eyes—was it of horror at citizen should be on a higher plane than his danger, or of admiration of the arm | that of any titled dignity whatever? I Well, she said, when she came back, and soul that had averted it.

when, in a convenient pause of the cotil- Very serious, said Jack Murray. Very

There was still the flush upon her cheek mouth the light like a violet planet's a

Could it be possible that such a being my fortune, and who can, as a matter of the cheek, the sweetness of the serious mouth, was only one of the rabble of American fact, aspire to the hand of royal ladies? the flicker and glitter of her dress like a sep-Oh. yes, he said. And he added, pres- girls mad for titles, possessed of an idiotic she said, with a slight ring of he knew some peculiar virtue inherent in a tiara? mockery. Are there depths there? I thought a I suppose, he said that heroic deeds a battle field. And you feel like giving

An action done through native heroism

Did you never think that daily life in If she doesn't mean you to know, you company with such native herosim would Never. It would be uplifting.

> One can find plenty of excuses for mar-Where there are princes to marry, yes. You don't pretend to say, Felicia, that

I pretend that you have no authority

He could hardly help admiring the

I? he cried. Oh I. A procession of my cause he himself was looking at her?—a insolent desperation: he said: Felicia, do Felicia!

to marry you?

She hesitated a moment. But Jack

I know he does, she said, calmly, and went on with her ice. I suppose to Dann millions will not be unacceptable even to-

You flatter me, she said.

You think he would lay the Hegeraly a princedom at your feet if-if-

If I were a poor girl, as those wonier remarked? I think we won't discuss it. Pardon me, I think we wi.l. It is matter of some moment to me. I have been your friend too long to be thrust

That is true, she said.

But she looked up a little annoyed at I should think, to hear you, you grudg- his tone, and still more so at his glance. Why shouldn't I ask you? I have a Only, he said, between his teeth-only right to frankness from you. Are you going to accept Prince Hegeralya?

Since you have a right to frankness-I

He started, in spite of himself. But in a moment. Do you expect to be happy? he asked.

Why not? Can you bear the contumely, the con

Will it be worse than the scron of the can bear much, she said.

That is it, then! That is why I ask And yet Jack had thought, till Heger- girl breathe while in the air and intrigues Goods, Chiua, Glass and Silverware.

ominous in the glitter of her eye, and a

There can be no impertinence between

Well then let me see, she laughed. eign myself, prouder than all and any It was the affair of an instant; but in of them. Do I agree with you that civildo. Let me think—was there anything with his eyes on the ground. I agree with you that Hegerayla is not seeking you for the sake of-because-Because I am an heiress. But you will nct so exonerate my other friends. No; Hegeralya does not know how to spend the revences of his principality

Then you concede that, on the whole, I may trust a man who has no occasion for of her starry eyes, the unwonted flush upon

Oh Hegeralya's part is plain enough, I have said, he answered. It is you that I am thinking of, when you wake and find listening to the music of the wild Hungarian vourself wretched in the midst of your splendor.

happy. I owe it, perhaps, to you, Mr Jack. Yes, I owe you a great debt. I remember it he still surveyed her. was you that warned me against losing my heart to any of the men about me, the men in society. You told me I should have more chance and security of happiness with a foreign prince, thinking you named the impossible, who would take me for myself. I was very young. It is four years since. But I profit ed by your advice, and held myself well in hand. By the aid of the powerful illumination you lent, I saw through all these pertenders who wanted nothing of me but my poor father's money, soiled with oil, and paint, and gas, as it was. There was only one o the men whom possibly I might have loved she said more slowly, but for that advice, and but for fear of his grandmothers rising from their graves, of the dance his mamma and her daughters were ready to lead me-take them easily. The most delicate women use them. In fact all ladies can obtain very great benefit from the use of Parsons' Pills. One box sent post-paid for 25 cts., or five boxes for 31 in stamps. 30 Pills in every box.

MCNALLY AGAIN

Read Extraordinary Prices Below.

Three more Car Loads of Chairs, Bedsteads, Bedroom Suits and sheeny splendor to every movement, to then Felicia and he stepped behind it in and. having to receive you, will scorn Fancy Furniture Just Received. New Upholstered Goods are being turned out of our Upholstering department daily.

PRICES: Walnut Parlor Suites in Tapestry with Plush Trimmings $25.50. Solid Oak Chamber Suits, $25.00, French Panneled Antique Oak Bedsteads with engraved headboard and varnished Side Rails, $1.85, Woven Wire Mattrasses, $2.65, Dominion Coppered Wire Beds reduced to $4.50, Oak Chairs 38c., Cane Seated Chairs 65c., Oak Bent Back Rockers, 85c., Platform Carpet Rockers, $3.50, Bamboo Easels, 90c., Bamboo Fancy Tables, $1.35, Good Strong Lounges with Steel Springs, Tapestry overing, $4.50, Soft Stuffed Easy Chairs, $400, 10 Piece Ivory Toilet Sets, $2.25, ive Bottle Polished Castors, 95c., Silver Plated Castors, 16 inches high, 5 engraved Bottles, stamped Quadruple Plate, only $2.75.

New Cheval Chamber Suites 18x36 beveld plate, 7 pieces, best Well, she thought now, as she adjusted command. Yes, he was a prince among cages, under the conditions in which you value ever offered. New lines in Polished Oak and Walnut Chamber her glove, he was amusing himself now too. men, and wore his purple by right divine, will live in them? Can a free American Suits, Book Cases, Secretaries, Hall Racks, Desks, Pictures, Fancy Children's Carriages, came in late, at $7.50 to close out.

We employ no peddlers but make our PRICES sell the Goods.

Orders by mail promptly attended to and Satisfaction Guaranteed.

JAMES G. MCNALY.

FULL LINES of the following Department are in stock which intending purchasers do well to examine.

Tweeds, Velvets, Velveteens. Plushes. Ribbons, Dress Goods, Winceys, Cloths, Hoisery, House Furnishing Goods, Cotton Warps,

Flannels. Cotton Flannels, White Cottons. Unbleached do. Ginghams, Shirtings, Prints, Ducks, Harberdashery. Men's Shirts and Drawers Oilcloths

HASLIN.

B. B. BLIZARD Agent for Maritime Provinces, St. John, N. B.

Yes, it was a foolish speech. I forgave it long ago. We are the best of friends I hope. How beautiful she was, with the calm gaze erating atmosphere.

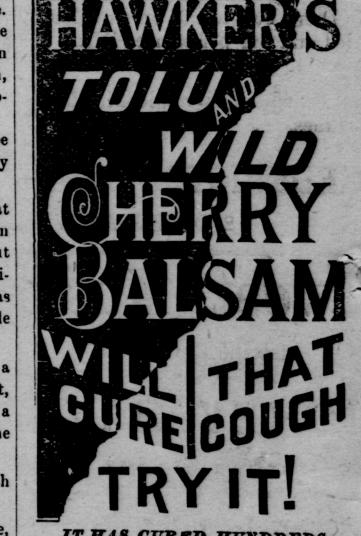

Is it too late—is it too late, Felicia, to be more? he murmured, passionately, his hungry eyes more elequent than he.

She did not heed the question, but sat waltzes that stole with a muffled melody about them. Then she rose and looked in the di-I? Oh, have no concern for me. I am rection of the dance. But she paused and was silent for the space of a few heartbeats, while

To a woman, Mr. Jack, said Felicia, after a moment, one is neither a noble nor a peasant, a patriot or a citizen of the world. He is a prince he is a backwoodsman. It is all the same; he is her lover.

You are marrying Prince Hegeralya with that thought? he asked hoarsely.

I am marrying Prince Hegeralya, said she, looking up with an enchanting smile, because I love him. Then she turned, and in quite another tone, she said: Shall we go back now? That ice was quite refreshing. When I was a child, at my play, piping wells with the little German childern, or riding on a log in a saw mill, I should have thought it a morsel for the gods, if I had ever known of gods. I am afraid that we have missed a figure. Did you ever hear such music out of Eden.

of cases considered hopeless after all other rem edies had failed. Do not despair, take courage, be persuaded, and try this truly wonderful

IT WILL CURE YOU. For sale by all Druggists and general dealers. Price 25 and 50 cts. a bottle.

Manufactured by St. John, N. B.