

Miss Lettie Huntley

Is the sister of Mr. W. S. Huntley of Cortland, N. Y., a well known carpenter and builder. Her frank statement below gives only the absolute truth concerning her illness and marvelous recovery by the aid of Hood's Sarsaparilla. She says:

"C. L. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'Dear Sir: Twelve years ago I began to have hemorrhages and four years ago became so low that the physicians told me

There Was No Hope and I should soon die. I could not be moved from my bed. Under my face were napkins continually reddened with blood from my mouth. I could eat nothing and had no action of the bowels for a week. The doctors said the cause was ulcers in the stomach. At this time my mother said she wanted to make one more trial, and asked if I would take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I told her it would be

A Waste of Money but finding it would comfort her, I began taking it. In a few days the bloating began to subside, I seemed to feel a little stronger, but thought it only fancy. I was so weak I could only take ten drops of Sarsaparilla at first. In two weeks I was able to sit up a few minutes every day. In a month I could walk across the room. One day I asked what they were to have for dinner, and said I wanted something hearty. My mother was so happy she cried. It was the

First Time I had Felt Hungry for Two Years

I kept on with Hood's Sarsaparilla and in six months was as well as ever in my life. It is now four years since I recovered, and I have not had a day's sickness since, nor my hemorrhage. If ever a human being thanked the good Lord on bended knees it was I. I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla, that alone, unquestionably saved my life.

Messrs. Sager & Jennings, the well known druggists of Cortland, say that Miss Huntley is a highly respected lady; her statement of what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for her is the highest commendation. Hood's Pills cure Liver Ills.

INNOCENT CHILDREN.

The lesson we read in the barbarities practised upon a weak, helpless child at Moncton, should go far to prevent the importation of young children from the old country to this, under the most foolish notion that good is being done by the orphans, by providing them with "homes" among families in town or country. Let the children remain at home where they were brought up, where they have companions and where they are looked after, even if in charity establishments. Imagine fifty or more of those children being brought out, and after arrival doomed to separate from each other, to be taken charge of by some crooked, bad-hearted applicant—separated forever it may be from their companions and placed on a farm to be buffeted and knocked about, according to the freaks or bad nature of the man or his wife, and then tell us if it is not a revival of the old slavery days in the United States, when families were separated—the only difference being that one class is sold to the highest bidder, while the other is only handed over to an applicant to be treated as if the child were a chattel of about the same slave value. True, we are told an eye is kept upon the children, and they are supposed to be visited periodically in their habitations by the "importers" or deputies. But is this followed up, and if so do the children feel that they can make known their grievances, if any, without risking punishment afterwards? Then as regards the habits of slavery, they are about like this in one particular. We are told that the children brought out are all placed in a room (not exactly an auction room) and the applicants to give them a "home" stand by and pick them out, the first having the first pick, and as they are selected and marched off the poor little things cry most piteously at being separated from their companions. Who knows what these little things have to go through? The cussidness of many people is answerable for a great deal of misery in this world. An ill-tempered man or woman must find vent for his or her anger upon some object, and if those animals know not how to treat their own children what consideration can they have for a mere orphan placed within their power? This poor little Mabel Stevens is a shocking instance of what we are writing about. But while the Moncton brutality may be an exception to the rule, there is enough in it to justify the belief that it is no uncommon thing for those children brought out from England from year to year, to be ill-treated and abused in the majority of cases. The government should have a law carried for the prohibition of all such importations—for the plan is not only cruel but barbarous, a repetition of the old slavery practices.

THE DEIL AMONG THE PARSONS.

"The deil among the tailors" has got to be an old story and nearly worn threadbare. The old boy tried to make headway with the lawyers, but they proved to be such an incorrigible set that he turned his back upon them long ago, although he has them hard and fast for future operations. He has now his attention on the clergy, his old enemies, and within the last six months has hooked no less than four good sized ones, while a fifth he expects to haul in soon. The old fellow is cunning as a fox. Those you would suspect as being the most vulnerable he gets round the quickest, by sending the women after them. As Eve tempted Adam through his wiles, he now uses the same weapons with which to slay his adversaries. He thinks if he can only kill off the clergy in this way his chances with the laymen will be much better, although he has a field large enough, already in operating upon the latter class. He says there is a weak joint in every armour; and that those who teach good moral lessons have weak spots like other men—licentious, soft cunning, devilish—not of course as a rule, for there is no class of men bad as a rule, however degraded, in general. The old chap has a rich and somewhat amusing harvest in the Scotch town case. The dispute he has started between two of his victims is in regard to the paternity of a certain little innocent, one trying to throw the blame on the other. The other case in hand is one that even puzzles the old fellow himself—that is how he could have got his victim so far in the soup, without the man knowing it. He says he has known great big boys to act as children, but he never knew of a six-foot boy writing love letters full of manifold sentiments, to a married lady and not thinking of the risk of being brought to destruction, through his sensual passion? When the devil himself is astonished at his own influence and the conquest of his enemies, it is time for the head of the church himself to keep his eyes open—for there is nothing in the world the old ceap cannot do.

THE GOVERNORSHIP.

It is said that the tenders asked for have been coming in very slowly during the last week at Ottawa, and there is quite a lull in the market. There is however, a renewal of a rumor of some two months ago, viz: that H. J. Justice Fraser's chances are about as good if not better than any of the other names mentioned. It is pretty certain that neither Burns or Boyd are in it; and rumor also says that Sir John Allen is in no way desirous of the position. The probabilities, after all, are that it will be either Fraser or Tilley.

The Snowflake Minstrels.

The Snowflake Minstrels are booked to appear in the City Hall Tuesday, Feb. 14th. The company is in every respect a first-class one, and is composed of 35 artists. The St. John Globe of the 8th, says:—"That amateur minstrelsy is popular in St. John was fully demonstrated by the bumper house which greeted the Snowflake Minstrels at their opening performance Tuesday evening. The entertainment also showed that in this city there is a great abundance of talent in this particular line. Last evening's entertainment may at once be put down as a success. It was well managed and everything went with vim and dash. The end men were thoroughly at home and made no end of fun, Joe Fox being a host in himself. The end songs were sung with great gusto and caught the house every time and were encored vociferously. The olio opened with some banjo and mandolin selections by Mr. J. C. Wilde, who received two encores. After a selection by the Snowflake quartette, the Leaman brothers, juvenile song and dance artists, made their appearance. This was the most taking event of the whole evening. The little chaps sang and shined their steps with the air of veterans. They were recalled a number of times. After Joe Matthews had danced a clog and sandjig to the satisfaction of the house, the final farce, "A Trip to the World's Fair," was put on in a manner that was really funny, the jokes and local hits with which the who performance bristled were new, appropriate and well conceived. The show, on the whole is the best and most unique ever given here by amateur minstrels and deserves every support."

St. John Globe, Feb. 9.—"The Snowflake Minstrels had an even larger houses last night than at their opening performance, and, as most of the tickets were sold yesterday, it showed that the public were well satisfied with the fine entertainment given them. As on the first night, the whole performance ran smoothly and every feature was heartily enjoyed. There were some slight changes, including some new jokes and songs. The general verdict is that the performance surpasses anything in the line of minstrelsy ever given here. So well has the entertainment been received, and so numerous have been the requests for a repeat, that the Snowflakes have consented to give a matinee on Saturday afternoon."

It is some time since our citizens had the opportunity of seeing a good performance and there is no doubt the minstrels will be greeted with a bumper house.
