The Rev. Mr. Crawley, who has been confined to his house for some time is able to be out again.

Proof Positive.

The fact that the crows and bicycle agents are getting in their work is proof positive that spring is surely here.

Envelope Social.

The Envelope Social held in the vestry of the Free Baptist church Thursday evening was well attended. All present enjoyed a very pleasant evening. The proceeds amounted to $40. The F. O. M. W. Orchestra furnished the music.

Skilful Treatment.

Mr. Joseph Walker, merchant tailor, has now in stock the most complete line of cloths to select from, ever shown in the city. Call early, select your cloth, and leave your measure. First-class work and a perfect fit guaranteed. Call and examine his stock and be convinced that it will pay you to buy your spring suits at the West End tailors.

Married in St. John.

An interesting event took place in St. John Tuesday last, in which Mr. Wm. L. Anderson of the firm of Anderson & Walker of this city, and Miss Ellen S. Fallon, of Boston, were the principals. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. G. Macneil, M. A. The happy young couple arrived here Thursday evening, and occupy apartments at the Misses Smith's corner Brunswick and Westmorland streets. The Globe extends congratulations.

Died in Quebec.

Word has been received of the death, in the province of Quebec, of Mr. Allan Ramsay, son of Mr. Thos. Ramsay, of Marysville. The deceased was a civil engineer and had lived in Quebec for many years. He was very successful in business, and filled several lucrative situations at different times in the C. P. R. and other railroads. He married a Miss Pope, a near relative of the late John Henry Pope, Minister of Railways, who, with two or three children is left surviving.

The Print Department.

At Edgecombe's is exceedingly attractive just now. All the novelties in that class of goods being shown. The ladies are delighted, for they have never seen such beautiful patterns before in Fredericton, and they keep the young men very busy, showing them and cutting off dresses for themselves and children. Mr. Edgecombe aims at showing high class goods at low class prices—and judging from the quantity he sells he must be very successful in his efforts.

Successful Concert.

A very successful concert and pie social was held in the temperance hall at Gagetown last Tuesday evening. The following was the programme: Solo and chorus, Pulling Hard Against the Tide, Miss Nettie Coy; recitation, Holyhead Breakwater, Charles Watson; violin solo, Miss Blanche Tibbitts, accompanied by Mrs. Tibbitts, encore; solo, God Bless You, Miss Ada Coy; recitation, Over the Hill to the Poor House, Miss Clara Brooks; song, Going to Market, Miss B. Tibbitts; song, Old Home Down on the Farm, Rev. E. Reid, accompanied by Miss Nettie Coy; encore. Let the Lower Lights be Burning; recitation, Lady Ardleigh's guest, Miss Louise Weston; mandolin solo, Miss B. Tibbitts, encore. The usual vote of thanks were then passed and tendered after which the pies were sold, John F. Hohen performing the duties of auctioneer. Total proceeds amounted to $27. The money is for the benefit of the Baptist church.

"Brace up."

Is a tantalizing admonition to those who at this season feel all tired out, weak, without appetite and discouraged. But the way in which Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the tired frame and gives a good appetite, is really wonderful. So we say, "Take Hood's and it will brace you up."

For a general cathartic we confidently recommend Hood's Pills.

MR. GEO. W. ADAMS.

Leaves for New York Next Week Where He Will Take a Complete Course in the E. S. Embalming College.

Mr. Geo. W. Adams will leave next Wednesday for New York for the purpose of taking a course in the United States College of Embalming in that city. On his return trip he will spend a few weeks with one of the leading undertaking establishments in Boston, and thoroughly post himself as regards the latest methods used by practical undertakers in the leading American cities. Mr. Adams has rented the shop now occupied by W. E. Miller & Co., opposite the People's Bank and on his return to this city will open an undertaking establishment. The course taken by him will place him in a position to do the ordinary undertaking in a superior manner, while his ability to embalm will enable him to preserve bodies for any period of time. Mr. Adams is a well known and popular young man of good business ability, and his enterprise will no doubt receive a well merited patronage.

The deceased was 58 years of age, was married but had no family.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

What the Gossips have to Remark about

The Trend of Matters Political Parliamentary or Otherwise.

Some Touch-and-go notices of all Mentionable Matters.

The Memorandum Gold Mining Company intend having their machinery in its place next week and operations commenced immediately.

Edgecombe's carriage factory is again shut down. The men have no idea when it will be running again, and several have decided to leave for the States.

The ten years lumber leases which have about expired, will be sold for a term of twenty-five years. The length of the term caused a warm discussion. Mr. Gogaine, of Kent voted with the government.

The ice in the river is getting very treacherous in places and parties traveling on it cannot be too careful, and should always go prepared for accidents, as several teams have already gone through.

Numerous petitions have been sent to the legislature from all over the province, in regard to the free school law. Several were presented Thursday by some of the members. The Bathurst school matter will come before the house on Monday next.

The remark made by the Hon. Provincial Secretary to Mr. Pitts last week, on the floors of the house, in which he stated he thought "some parties not then in the asylum should be there," contained more truth than poetry. York has sent two more representatives there this week, and "still there is room."

The St. Andrew's Beacon in referring to the amendment to Dr. Atkinson's petition by the Attorney General says: "The amendment of Mr. Blair, if we interpret it aright, requires the petitioner to put up a deposit of $1,000 to be used to defray expenses whether he wins or loses." The editor of the "Beacon" did not interpret the amendment aright, as the security for costs was only in case he failed to prove his claim, the cost of the investigation would not come out of the province.

The members of the Order of Unity are somewhat less enthusiastic about their prospects of receiving $1,000 from that seven-year endowment order. Friday of last week an injunction was put upon them by Justice Knowlton in the Supreme court at Boston. Although only temporarily enjoined from doing business, the order has collapsed in every sense of the word. The branch in this city consisted of 116 members who will sustain an average loss of $100 per member. The order has about $50,000, which amount would not pay half the certificates in force in this city.

The entertainment given the University and Normal students Thursday evening by the ladies of the W. C. T. U. was largely attended and proved a complete success. The chair was occupied by Dr. McLeod. Mrs. Hunt, the well known temperance lecturer, Chief Supt. Inch and Dr. McLeod addressed the students. Before the gathering broke up a vote of thanks to the ladies was moved by a University student and seconded by Mr. Avarit, of the Normal School.

Coming and Going.

T. H. Colter, ex-M. P. P., was in town this week.

Judge and Mrs. Steadman left yesterday for Florida.

Albert Palmer, ex-M. P. P. for Queens, is at the Royal.

Mrs. E. R. Machum, of St. John, is visiting in the city.

Mr. Paris of Millville registered at the Royal this week.

Mr. Bell and wife, of St. John, registered at the Queen this week.

Mr. W. L. Anderson returned home with his bride Thursday evening.

Mr. A. D. Macpherson was in St. John this week on business.

Miss Mary Ebbitt, of Keswick, is visiting at Mrs. T. C. Atherton's.

Mr. J. D. Fowler and Mrs. Fowler took a trip to St. John this week.

Judge and Mrs. Landry, returned to their home at Dorchester yesterday.

Mr. A. B. Connell and wife, of Woodstock, registered at the Queen this week.

Mr. Nelson Arnold, of Sussex, is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. T. C. Brown.

Mr. W. W. Hubbard, attended and took part in the discussion of the Nova Scotia Diarman's meeting at Truro, last week.

Mr. Geo. Winter, son of Mr. H. G. Winter, of the customs department here, left Wednesday for Boston, where he has accepted a situation.

Deputy Sheriff Hawthorne and Sergeant Phillips took the prisoners, Gordon and O'Rhee, to penitentiary at Dorchester yesterday.

Mrs. Biggs, accompanied by her son Charles, will leave for Boston next Wednesday to be present at an interesting event in which her son Percy will be one of the principals.

GIBSON, March 24.—Work has been resumed by the C. P. R. on the connecting link between Gibson and F'ton and it is understood the trains will land in F'ton in the early part of the following week.

We take the opportunity of saying goodbye to our genial agent.

I believe we are to lose the services of two of our prominent clerical men this spring.—Rev. Mr. Nobles will remove to Hillsborough N. S., and Rev. Jacob Howie will send in his resignation to take effect in June. We wish both these gentlemen success in their new field of labor.

The late census shows a great increase in the population of Gibson and accordingly the Trustees have awakened to the fact that another department is necessary to the school, and they will soon begin to put this into effect. The school house is a very large building and the top flat which has hitherto been unoccupied will be made the primary department.

TORY FAMILY JABS.

Vote in Censure of one of Their Colleagues

For His Treasonable Utterances at a Public Meeting.

OTTAWA, March 22.—In the House of Commons yesterday there was a lively family row in the Tory party over Clarke Wallace's disloyal speech at Kingston, and it looks as if the orange and green coats were not pulling well together.

Mr. Casey rose to call attention to the speech made by Mr. Clarke Wallace at Kingston advising the sending of assistance from Canada to the Ulster Orangemen in the event of an uprising against home rule. He quoted Wallace's speech and said nothing had ever been uttered more calculated to incite armed rebellion. Here was a member of the administration encouraging the people of Ulster to resist the authority of the British queen. If physical resistance to law was not treason, why was Beil hanged?

Mr. Wallace admitted that his speech was correctly reported. He expressed his opinions and he did not propose to withdraw anything. The record of the Orangemen was one of unimpeachable loyalty. He had merely repeated what Lord Salisbury, when prime minister said in May, 1892, and was not accountable to the house for what he said regarding British politics. He was as free to express opinions upon Irish affairs as Mr. Costigan.

Mr. Dawson, (Liberal member for Addington) an Orangeman, expressed his regret at Wallace's admission. All lovers of free institutions should be prepared to submit to the rule of the majority, and in the United Kingdom the majority of electors had voted for home rule. Mr. Wallace's speech was an incitement to rebellion against the queen's authority. Mr. Wallace's speech was a violation of the highest principles of the Orange order. He closed by moving a resolution reciting Wallace's Kingston speech; his admission of its accuracy, and declaring it to be the duty of all her majesty's subjects to submit to the law; that the constitution provides a means of redressing grievances; that no changes ought to be brought about by ARMED RESISTANCE, CIVIL WAR or other physical force; that any attempt to coerce her majesty in respect to any portion of her empire is unwarrantable and treasonable and should receive the uncompromising resistance of all loyal citizens; that the action of Mr. Wallace in expressing sympathy with and holding out a hope of active aid to those who threaten to levy war in Ireland against her majesty is deserving of the severest censure at the hands of the house and it allowed to pass unmodified would expose Canada to the imputation of being disloyal to her majesty, the reverse of which is the case; and further, that it is the duty of this house promptly to repudiate the said utterances of Clarke Wallace, lest his political connection with parliament and the government might lead the public to the erroneous conclusion that his views, so expressed, were shared by this body, a conclusion which would give additional influence to such utterances and endanger peace and good government throughout her majesty's dominions.

Mr. Devlin said that Mr. Wallace had no right to pledge assistance to treasonable movements in Ulster.

Mr. Kenny said Wallace's speech was injudicious and unwise but as the motion was no confidence in the government he could not support it. (Groans.)

Mr. David Mills said the government should leave it in open question. Mr. Wallace had taken an oath to serve her majesty, but was now encouraging armed resistance to her authority.

Mr. Foster as leader of the house attacked the opposition and then admitted that Mr. Wallace had perhaps gone too far, but the matter did not justify a resolution.

Sir Richard Cartwright said the government must either endorse Wallace's speech or leave it in open question.

Mr. McInerney said he considered Wallace's speech one which should not be approved by the house. It was one calculated to provoke strife among British subjects. He would vote for the amendment.

Hon. Mr. Costigan created a sensation by saying that he agreed in the main with Mr. McInerney. The Huntingdon case, which Mr. Foster had cited, was not a parallel to Wallace's, as Huntingdon had not said anything touching the matter of allegiance to the Queen. He condemned Wallace's utterances, and said he would vote for the amendment. This announcement caused a commotion in government circles.

Mr. Curren, solicitor-general, regretted that Mr. Wallace had not repudiated his utterances, or stated that he did not mean armed resistance to British rule if home rule was granted.

Dr. Bergin (Conservative) said the house was face to face with a question more fraught with danger to Canada than anything it had before it for years. Wallace had practically repeated his speech in the house, and the matter must, therefore, be dealt with. The British government had undertaken to take care of the men who were fomenting rebellion in Ulster.

Before the house met at half-past eight o'clock, the ministers had a hurried cabinet council, to discuss the situation, but the result was not announced.

Dr. Bergin on the house resuming said the leader of the government should state at once whether the resolution was to be treated as a non-confidence or not.

Hon. Mr. Foster said that if the resolution passed it would not be by the aid of the friends of the government.

Mr. Bergin—That means that any man who votes for the resolution is not a friend of the government. He condemned the government for refusing to call its supporters together and explaining its position to them. Because of the reply given by Mr. Foster he would vote for Dawson's resolution even if his vote caused the government to resign.

Mr. Davin said there was a time when a man who spoke as Mr. Wallace did would be sentenced to penal servitude. The Irish Protestants of Canada did not regard the controller of customs as a representative man. Here Mr. Foster interrupted and Mr. Davin advised the finance minister not to be rash, as his steps as leader of the house were not successful as they were when he was but second man. If the house did not censure Wallace's words it must approve them. He ridiculed Wallace's pretensions and said he would soon have an utterly illiterate ministry. As he could not approve of seditious utterances he therefore must vote for the resolution.

Several Tory members followed condemning Wallace's language but begging their friends not to help defeat the government in the absence of Wallace.

Sir Hector Langevin condemned Wallace and said he would vote for the resolution.

Sir A. Caron said the resolution was an attack upon a member of the government and therefore must be considered a motion of non-confidence in the ministry.

Mr. Davin.—But Mr. Costigan supports it. (Laughter.)

After further discussion the house divided, and 105 Tories voting in favor of reasonable utterances, and 12 Conservatives voted with the Liberals against treason. The Conservatives were Messrs. Costigan, Curran, Kenny, Bergin, Langevin; Hearn, McInerney, Adams Davin, Depine, Pelletier, and McDonald of P. E. Island, voting with the opposition.

Before the house adjourned Hon. Mr. Laurier called attention to an interview with Sir Charles Tupper in which he stated that the government would have to carry the French Treaty through the house or resign.

Hon. Mr. Foster—I have not taken any notice of the statement nor do I intend to criticise it.

Hon. M. Laurier.—Nor give any information.

Hon. Mr. Foster.—No not at present. The house then adjourned.

HIT IN THE FACE.

Judge Clarke and Mr. Macmaster Exchange Blows.

The Scene Took Place Before the Railway Committee of the Privy Council.—Mr. Haggart Acted as Referee—An Apology and a Hand Shake.

Judge George M. Clark, the C. P. R. solicitor, and Mr. Donald Macmaster, Q. C., of Montreal, had a stand up fight this week before the railway committee of the privy council. Both gave and received blows. They were separated and finally apologized to the committee before shaking hands.

The case under consideration was the application of the Toronto Junction Street and Railway to compel the G. T. R., and city of Toronto to pay an equal share of the cost of maintaining the crossing on the Davenport road. The committee some time ago ordered the Street Railway Company to bear the entire cost.

The matter today came up by way of appeal from the Street Car Company. Hon. John Haggart, minister of railways, presided. There were also present Hon. Messrs. Bowell, Foster, Daly and Clarke Wallace forming the committee. Mr. John Bell, Q. C., represented the Grand Trunk Railway; Judge Clarke the C. P. R.; the interests of the Street Car Company were looked after by Messrs. Donald Macmaster and A. W. Atwater, Montreal.

The room was filled with a large audience, including Mr. Wm. Wainwright, assistant manager of the G. T. R.; Mr. T. Tait, assistant manager of the C. P. R.; Mr. C. W. Spencer, superintendent of the C. P. R., as well as a score of lawyers engaged in other cases.

He gave way to an outburst of temper. Mr. Macmaster then followed. He said he desired to humbly apologize. Perhaps he should not have interrupted, but he believed Judge Clark assigned to him an argument he had not made. The judge did not allow him to explain and told him to hold his tongue. He regretted the incident, as they had always been friends.

"Shake hands," suggested Mr. Foster, and both accepted the advice.

The excitement during the row was tremendous. The room is small and was crowded to the doors. As the combatants swayed to and fro, after they got to close quarters, the cabinet ministers stood up and vainly attempted to restore order. Mr. Atwater helped to separate them.

All who know Mr. W. D. Wentz give him the best of recommendations for honesty and integrity. For many years he has worked for Mr. D. P. Wilson, the harness maker and member of the Geneva Board of Health. He says:

"I was taken sick last October with gastric fever and my chance for recovery was considered almost hopeless. After 7 weeks the fever slowly left me, but I could not eat the simplest food without terrible distress. It seemed that I had recovered from the fever to I took peptic compounds, bicarbonate, cod liver oil and malt until my physician confessed that his skill was about exhausted and he did not know what else to try.
