

GRAND ORANGE LODGE.
The Business Transacted During the Annual Session.
 Messrs. Wilson, Colter and McKeown Fully Exonerated With Regard to the Bathurst School Petition.

The annual session of the Grand Orange Lodge opened in the Old Fellows hall, York street, on Tuesday evening. The attendance was unusually large, over one hundred delegates being present. Grand Master Fowler presided. The following committees were struck:

Suspension and expulsion—David Burgess, John Hewison, John Corbett, W. J. Hunter, Samuel Earl.
 Petitions and appeals—J. Walker, Wm Rogers, J. R. McLean, A. Delaney and W. J. Richardson.

Constitution and laws—A. O. Crookshank, R. Wills, A. J. Armstrong, Rev. G. F. Currie and J. Tracy.

Credentials—Wm. Rossborough, G. A. Dwyer, A. Watters, W. H. Barton and J. De V.

Correspondence—Dr. E. O. Steeves, S. E. Gambelin, D. McArthur, S. Ferguson, N. Morrison.

Finance—D. F. Merritt, J. A. Moore, James Kelly, H. H. Pitts, G. H. Parker.

County Master Pitts then read an address of welcome, to which the Grand Master made a brief reply before presenting his annual report. He referred to the Bathurst school matter stating that he had personally visited that place and thoroughly satisfied himself that the people of Bathurst had a real grievance. He organized a lodge there for the purpose of placing the protestant minority in a better position to ask aid from the Grand Lodge and make them better able to carry on the fight for their rights.

The Grand Master referred to the growth of the order during the year. He dedicated new halls at Fairville and South Bay and laid the cornerstone of the new hall in St. John. He concluded with a reference to Rev. T. F. Fullerton the Grand Secretary who had removed from the province. The Deputy Grand Secretary, D. L. Morrison of Sussex, reported a large increase in membership due principally to the large number of new lodges organized, many of the old lodges not having increased in membership.

Grand Treasurer Magee reported the receipts of the year were $897.67; expenditure $545.81; balance $351.86.

Several petitions and appeals were read and referred to the proper committees.

H. H. Pitts gave notice of motion dealing with the Bathurst schools question and the dismissal of a local government official for no other reason, he alleged, than that he belonged to the orange order, after which the meeting adjourned.

Wednesday—The Grand Lodge opened this morning at nine o'clock, Grand Master Fowler in the chair. The credentials committee reported 99 members enrolled.

Fredericton was selected for the 12th of July celebration.

Deputy Grand Master Colter called the grand lodge's attention to the reports derogatory to himself as an orangeman and a grand lodge officer, which had been published in the Reporter, and referred the lodge to sec. 147 of the constitution which says:—"Any member who shall utter, print, publish or be privy to the printing, publishing or circulating of any matter or thing derogatory to the association or the character of any of its officers, shall be suspended or expelled."

He demanded an investigation of the charges publicly made against him. The Grand Master suggested as it was a personal attack made upon him by Bro. Pitts of the Reporter, and not upon the lodge, the proper thing for Bro. Colter to do would be to bring a charge against the brother. Mr. Colter assented and the case was deferred.

AFTERNOON SESSION.
 Grand Master Fowler called the meeting to order at sharp 3 o'clock. Reports were received from a few counties and also a letter of regret from the county master of Westmoreland at his forced absence.

The report of the Finance committee showed a balance on hand of $381 with all outstanding debts paid.

John Kerr of St. John, was reinstated by a good majority of votes.

The Grand Master's report was then taken up section by section. The first three sections passed unanimously, but the fourth caused great discussion. At St. Stephen last year it will be remembered the grand lodge appointed a committee to see that the Bathurst school business was presented to the local legislature. The petition was sent, but was not brought before the house owing to the fact that Dr. Stockton, who was the counsel in the matter, advised Mr. McKeown to make no move at that time in the matter, as Mr. McKeown, one of the Bathurst school trustees, was then in the city, and stated that it would not be worth while presenting the petition to the house, as from the shape things were taking at that time in Bathurst in about six months the school trouble would be a thing of the past. Messrs. H. A. McKeown, W. Wilson and Thos. Colter proved conclusively to the grand lodge that they were not responsible for the non-presentation of the Bathurst petition, and Mr. McKeown moved an amendment that the words "Not desiring to censure anyone" be prefixed to that section. Mr. Pitts moved an amendment to the amendment censuring the orange members of the House for dereliction of duty. The question was fully discussed during the afternoon session, the speakers being Messrs. Armstrong, Kelly, Heine, Thompson and a few others. In the evening session the debate was proceeded with. Able addresses were delivered by Messrs. Vincent, Maxwell and Thomas. In closing the debate Mr. McKeown made a very vigorous speech.

Mr. Pitts' amendment was lost by a vote of 68 to 18.

On motion the further adoption of the resolution was deferred until after the election of officers for the ensuing term which resulted as follows:

Geo. W. Fowler, Grand Master.
 James Kelly, Senior Deputy Grand Master.
 Dr. O. A. Steeves, Junior Deputy Grand Master.

Rev. B. H. Thomas, Grand Chaplain.
 Richard G. Magee, Grand Treasurer.
 W. H. Burton, Grand Secretary.
 Geo. W. Elnoy, Grand Lecturer.
 D. C. Gambelin, Grand D. of C.
 John B. Morgan, Deputy Grand Secretary.

On motion the lodge adjourned at 1.45 o'clock this (Thursday) morning, to meet at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Thursday—Grand Master Fowler called the lodge to order at 10 o'clock this morning. Mr. Colter's charge against Mr. Pitts was looked for to-day but upon a request from several members of the lodge, and on condition that Mr. Pitts's resolutions with regard to Mr. Lipsett's dismissal; that the present local government have forfeited all claims for the support and confidence of the Orange Association in this province, etc., would be withdrawn. Mr. Colter kindly consented to withdraw his charge, and the matter was settled.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The lodge was called to order at 3 o'clock, shortly after which it dissolved itself in a committee of the whole to allow the Rev. Mr. Sellars to enter and present his report setting forth the state of affairs at Bathurst. The Rev. gentleman spoke for about an hour, and left no doubt in the minds of his hearers that the school system at that place was not by any means what it should be. The matter was under discussion for some time, when it was decided to frame a resolution, setting forth the necessity of immediate action being taken in the matter and for the purpose of raising funds to carry the case into the courts.

Before adjourning for supper it was decided that the grand lodge should meet next session at Fairville, St. John.

P. G. M. Armstrong called the lodge to order at 7.30. Mr. Pitts resolutions in reference to the Bathurst school difficulty were withdrawn and the following submitted in their stead:

Resolved, That the present situation of affairs at Bathurst by which many of Protestant families of that town have been obliged to withdraw their children from the so-called public schools and are now making preparation to provide one or more teachers at their own expense to instruct their children, thus being obliged not only to educate their own children but assist as well in the support of the conventional schools, is a most grievous state of affairs, and that such should be a necessity under our public school system is an outrage upon the whole Protestant population of this province; that the course of the board of education in making it possible for the Roman Catholics or any other denomination to contravene the expressed instructions of the Public School act, as are now taking place at Bathurst and other places in the province, should receive the condemnation of every true Protestant.

Resolved, That this grand lodge do proceed immediately to put in operation the suggestions in the report of the committee on the grand master's address, in having a petition prepared and circulated setting forth the facts regarding the situation at Bathurst and praying that these regulations be rescinded, permitting members of religions orders to qualify and receive licenses without attending the Provincial Normal school, and the hiring of denominational buildings for public school purposes, which have been in force since the public school law was enacted; that the said petition be returned to the representatives from the various counties for presentation to the legislature at the coming session; if the said petition fail to accomplish its object within a reasonable time that the executive of this grand lodge be authorized to take such legal proceedings as they may deem necessary in the premises, and that an appeal be issued to the primary lodges in this jurisdiction soliciting contributions to a fund, to test this matter in the courts, which contributions shall be forwarded to the grand treasurer to be at the entire disposal of the executive.

The resolutions were adopted unanimously, whereupon the remaining clauses of the committee's report on the grand master's address were accepted as presented.

R. W. Geo. W. Fowler was then installed at the hands of P. G. M. Major Armstrong and he proceeded to install the remaining officers in the usual form. Numerous matters of no public interest occupied several hours, when the grand lodge adjourned at 1.15 a.m., sine die.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

What the Gossips have to Remark about

The Trend of Matters Political Parliamentary or Otherwise.

Some Touch-and-go notices of all Mentionable Matters of Things.

President Cleveland will be inaugurated president of the United States a week from to-day, March 4th.

The vacancy on the Supreme Court bench has been filled by the appointment of Mr. Sedgwick, deputy minister of justice.

The Irish Nationalist has issued an address to the friends of Ireland in the United States Canada and Australia, asking for moral and financial aid in their endeavor to secure the passage of Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule bill.

The difficulty among the Baptists in St. John over the case of Rev. Sidney Walton has been enhanced by the action of his late congregation. Instead of accepting the advice of the advisory council to withdraw fellowship from their pastor, they ignored this advice, accepted Mr. Walton's resignation and gave him the usual dismissal papers. This placed him in the position of a resigned minister in good standing, which position the representatives of the other Baptist churches think he is not entitled to occupy. This action also put the church in antagonism with the other Baptist churches, leaving it not only pastorless, but with little chance of getting any one to occupy the place of the former incumbent. It is evident that this affect was not foreseen by the members who voted in the majority, as some of them are moving in the direction of resigning the former resolution.

Mr. H. H. Pitts has evidently arrived at the conclusion that there are a great many "mugwump" orangemen, (as he terms those who do not support him last election) even in the grand lodge, and instead of the officers and members of that most worshipful body falling down and worshipping his "Royal Nibs," as he no doubt they would, he was raked over the coals for the methods he used to secure his election, and it is to be hoped the lesson will be of some benefit to him and his lieutenants. The charges to be preferred against Messrs Wilson and Colter by Pitts never materialized, as Mr. Colter having entered a charge against Mr. Pitts for a violation of the constitution, and which, if pressed, would mean either suspension or expulsion, Mr. Pitts gladly withdrew his charges and the resolution he proposed passing with regard to Mr. Lipsett's dismissal, and took back all he said in the Reporter with regard to Colter. "How the mighty have fallen."

Mr. John Neil, father of Mr. James S. Neil, hardware merchant of this city, died at his home at Gibson Sunday afternoon after an illness of a few weeks. Mr. Neil for years carried on an extensive hardware business in this city and was widely known and highly respected. He was the oldest living member of the Fredericton Society of St. Andrew's. Mr. Neil leaves surviving him a widow, five daughters (among whom are Mrs. J. F. Murray, Mrs. Wm. McKay, Mrs. W. R. Logan and Mrs. Sewell), and two sons.

Dartmouth, N. S. furnishes a bigamy case. On January 25 1893, Martha Jane McLeod and William Staken were married by Rev. W. Mellor, Episcopal clergyman of Dartmouth. Mrs. Stakin admits that she has two husbands. No. 1 she married some years ago and he is still living at Musquodoboit. All parties concerned know the facts of the case. Mrs. Stakin says she is very happy with No. 2 and thinks No. 1 will not disturb her peace. Her reason for leaving husband No. 1 she says, was because of his neglect of herself and her two children.

The handsome grammar schoolhouse at Sussex was discovered on fire at half-past ten o'clock Wednesday morning. The fire started in the roof from a defective flue. About two hundred and fifty children were in the building. If the fire had caught in any other part than where it did there is no doubt but that a general panic would have resulted. As soon as the fire was discovered nearly the whole population of the town gathered at the scene, but nothing could be done to save the school, as there was no fire engine to work with. The building was erected in 1875 and cost $8,000. It was insured for $5,000. The out buildings in the rear, containing cord-wood, etc., were also destroyed. There was no wind at the time, and as there was no buildings close at hand no other damage was done. The scholars will be given apartments in Monday buildings, and it is expected by Monday all departments will be to work again.

OCCIDENTAL ODDITIES.

A Graphic Description of a Trip across the Continent in Winter.

By a Frederictonian.

"Engulfed" is hardly strong or forcible enough. The "gorgeous colouring" etc is blotted out—gone—swallowed up in the mantle of thick mist enshrouding the mountains. Then again the guide book loquitor six—The jaggedness of profile observed from the plains is now explained. These mountains are tremendous uplites of stratified rocks of the Devonian and Carboniferous ages, which have been broken out of the crust of the earth, slowly heaved aloft. Some sections miles and miles in breadth, and thousands of feet thick, have been pushed straight up, so that their strata remain almost as level as before, others are tilted more or less on edge (always on this slope towards the east) and lie in steeply slanting positions. Still other sections are bent and crumpled under prodigious side pressure, while all have been broken down and worn away until now they are only colossal fragments of the original upheaval. This disturbed stratification is plainly marked upon the faces of the cliffs, by the ledges that hold the snow after it has disappeared elsewhere, or by long lines of trees which there alone can maintain a foothold, and this peculiarity is one of the most striking and admirable features of the scenery. Many ranges of prodigious mountains like these must be traversed before the Pacific coast is reached, and grandeur and beauty will crowd upon the attention without ceasing, as the train speeds through gorge and over mountain, giving here a vast outlook and there an interior glimpse, then exchanging it for a new one with the suddenness of a Kaleidoscope.

"Fine prospect was it not? All this nice scenery, and we 'not in it!' I suppose if we had been under legal compulsion to pass through the Rocky mountains on the most possible day and in the most disagreeable weather prevailing upon the face of the globe, we could not have carried out the injunction more perfectly than we do this day. At the beginning of day, when we were in the lower elevations of the Rockies, it was as I saw, raining very heavily, but as we ascended and passed into the higher atmosphere, the weather grew colder and by the time we had reached Castle mountain it was snowing heavily.

It snows up here on these mountains in a way which would shame the average penny sleet storm of the Eastern provinces. Although the weather was apparently warm and muggy, the flakes came down thick and large and heavy, and the whole atmosphere presented the appearance of a vast, circling, dense white cloud incessantly moving down to the already snow-burdened earth. The white peaks of the mountains on either side seemed to have emptied their burden of snow simultaneously into the valley, and so silent and ghostly was the continuous fall of the flakes, that the very noise of the moving train, puffing and toiling up the eastern slope of the Rockies, seemed hushed and subdued into an awful mysterious undertone. Thickets of tall, pine saplings, standing like innumerable billiard cues, or the bayonets of warlike battalions on either side of the valley their straight stems and degenerate tops nearly void of twigs and branches, seemed to be thrusting their spearlike bodies into the midst of the storm, and reminded one of the stories told of the spike covered valleys of the Alpine Mountains, into which in the old days of religious persecution the living bodies of martyrs were hurled from the neighbouring ledges. Everything here is in a whirl—the flying storm and the rivers and trees and mountain tops are continuously shifting and changing as the train advances up the slope and each turn of the road brings into view a new and more weird panorama of terrible winter grandeur, resembling the sudden transformation of the groups of a kaleidoscope. We stand on the rear platform of the hindmost car and silently wonder at the grandeur of this stupendous country landscape. But we have not yet seen the mightiest of the mountain scenery on this route. We pass Mount Massive and the snow peaks far to the west, enclosing Simpson's Pass, a sharp turn in the road discloses right ahead the great heap of snowy ledges that form the eastern crest of Pilot mountain. As we leave the western limit of Rocky Mountain Park, Castle mountain looms up ahead on the right, a sheer precipice of 5000 feet which the guide-book characterises "a giant's keep—with towers, bastions and battlements complete." After passing this peak the mountains on each side become more grand and prominent.

On the right or Northeast are the bare rugged, sharply serrated peaks of the saw-back sub-range, with a spur running out to Laggan. On the left the lofty Bow range fronts the valley in a series of magnificent snowladen promontories. By the time we reach Eldon, this whole array of splendid peaks is on plain view, and as we look back to the left, the central peak of Pilot Mountain comes into view leaning high like a pyramid above the ledges below. We pass the entrance of Vernullon Pass, permitting a view of the spires and crests along the continental watershed, from whose glaciers and snow fields the Vernullon river flows westward into the Kootenai. West of this entrance and over Mount Temple, is seen the physical powers flagging, should take these PILLS. They will restore his lost energies, both physical and mental. Every woman who is weak, or who suffers from irregularities, which inevitably entail sickness when neglected. Young men should take these PILLS. They will cure the results of youthful bad habits, and strengthen the system. Young women should take these PILLS. They will cure all ailments of the female system. For sale by all druggists, or will be mailed upon receipt of price (50c. per box), by THE DR. WILLIAMS' MEDICINE CO., Lowell, Mass., U.S.A.

From this point, the guide book says, a view may be obtained of Mount Hector, and the first of the great glaciers; 1300 feet above the railway and a dozen miles away. We didn't see it, of course. But we saw what was probably the chemical equivalent of the great Glacier, snow
