

THE LITTLE WOMAN.

Don't talk to me of Olympus' maids,
"Divinely tall or fair,"
Of Cleopatra's imperial form,
Or Juno's stately air.
Those mighty dames, with redoubted names,
May erst have held their sway;
Tis the little woman — bless her heart! —
Who rules the world to day.

With her willful, witching, winsome ways,
Her artful, artless smiles;
Her airy grace and her fairy face,
Her wisdom, wit, and wiles:
She mocks the pride, and she sways the strength.
She bends the will of man,
As only such a despotie elf —
A little woman — can.

Though her pathway lead thro' the darkest,
way,
She always finds a light;
Though her eyes be dazzled by fortune's rays,
She's sure to see aright;
Though her wisdom be of no special school, Her logic, "just because," —
The first has settled a kingdom's fate,
The last has made its laws.

Tis the little woman that goes ahead
When men would lag behind;
The little woman who sees her chance,
And always knows her mind;
Who can stily smile as she gives the word
To honor, love, obey,
And mentally add the saving clause
In a little woman's way.

Would the diamond seem such a perfect gem
If it measured one foot round?
Would the rose-leaf yield such a sweet perfume
If it covered yards of ground?
Would the dew-drops seem so clear and pure
If dew like rain should fall?
Or the little woman seem half so great
If she were six feet tall?

Tis the hand as soft as the nestling bird
That grips the grip of steel;
Tis the voice as low as the summer wind
That rules without appeal;
And the warrior, scholar, saint, and sage May fight and plan each day,
The world will wag till the end of time
In the little woman's way.

Three Lives Saved.

Two Parisian gendarmes were walking along the banks of the Canal d'Oureq one day a few weeks ago, says the Gazette Aneecdotique, when they came across a beautiful Russian deer-hound, evidently astray. On his collar was nothing except what was evidently his name—"Dimitri."

Tying a stout cord to his neck, the policemen led him along with them, meaning to take him to the pound.
Destiny seemed to be luring him to his death, for unless he were claimed within a week or two, he would surely be asphyxiated according to law.

Suddenly the trio arrived at Quai de la Marne, where a large crowd had collected. A child had fallen into the water and was drowning, while its mother was running up and down crying in agony:

"Oh, save my child! Who will save my child?"

Finally a man named Emil Nolle jumped into the stream and swam out to the boy. Encumbered with his clothing, he was seized with a frantic grasp by the struggling child, and both were disappearing, to the horror of the spectators, when like a flash of light "Dimitri" sprang into the canal. He had bitten his rope through.

In two minutes the drowning pair were at the side of the canal, where willing hands drew them from the water. In the excitement of the work of resuscitation, the bystanders forgot the dog. When at last they looked around for him, he had disappeared.
His captors never saw him again, and there were three lives saved.

More Osteopathy.

A member of the Legislature, one who favored the bill incorporating the osteopaths, said Friday that he believed the fight would be renewed next year and that the apostles of the new science would be on hand in force, prepared to fight the bill. He looks for the coming to this province during the year of two or three practitioners of this school and says they will appear before the Legislature next year, meet the old school practitioners and fully explain the science.—Globe.

McAdam Notes.

It seems about settled that McAdam is to have a handsome station shortly.
The sight, it is said, will be below where the repair shops are now, a considerable distance removed from the present site. Work will be commenced shortly. It is said that there is not a vacant house in McAdam. There are two schools, one taught by Mr. Perkins and another by Miss Hoyt. The junction house changes hands the first of the month. Mr. Matthew is leaving and it is said that Colin Campbell, of Woodstock, will likely be his successor.—Dispatch.

A Bicycle Testimonial,

I have just had my 1897 model Crawford set up and find it as good as last year. I am perfectly satisfied with it and believe it the best value for the money I know of.
