

An Engineer's Story.

Suffered The Pangs of Rheumatism For Years.

Was Reduced in Weight From 180 to 130 Pounds—His Friends Feared That Recovery Was Impossible—Now Actively Attending His Duties.

From the Milland Free Press.

Alexander McKenzie is one of the well known residents of Brookholm, Ont., where he has lived for many years. A few years ago it was thought that an early grave would be his; on the contrary, however, he is now stout and the story of his recovery is on the lips of almost all the citizens of that burgh. The writer, while visiting in the village could not fail to hear of his recovery, and with the reporter's proverbial nose for news decided to put to the proof the gossip of the village. The reporter visited Mr. McKenzie's home and was introduced to Mrs. McKenzie. Enquiry elicited the information that Mr. McKenzie was not at home, but when informed as to his mission the lady freely consented to tell the reporter of her husband's case. Her story runs like this: "Mr. McKenzie is 40 years of age, an engineer by profession, and is now on a boat on the lakes. About five years ago he began to feel twinges of rheumatism in different parts of his body and limbs. For a time he did not think much of it, but it gradually got worse until the pain was such that he was unable to work, and could not get rest at night. I would have to get up two or three times of a night," said Mrs. McKenzie to try and relieve this intense suffering. Of course he consulted a physician who pronounced his trouble sciatic rheumatism. The doctor did what he could for him, but without giving any permanent relief. This went on for several years, sometimes he would be some better and try to work then the trouble would come on again and be as bad as ever.

He was pulled down from being a stout man of 180 pounds to about 130, and was so thin and miserable that all who knew him thought it would be only a matter of a short time until he would be in his grave. For four years did he thus drag along a miserable existence, until in the beginning of 1897 some one recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Tired of medicine, with some reluctance he procured a box and gave them a trial. Almost at once a change was perceptible, and as he kept on taking them, the improvement continued, and he was soon able to be about. By the time he had taken about a dozen boxes he was free from the slightest twinge of rheumatism, and as stout and strong as he had been before his affliction. So great is his faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that when he left home to go up the lake for the summer, he took three boxes with him as a preventative against a possible recurrence of the trouble. Mrs. McKenzie was quite willing that this story should be made public, and believes that she owes her husband's life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

Rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, nervous headache, nervous prostration, and dis-cases depending upon humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc., all disappear before a fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They give a healthy glow to pale and sallow complexions. Sold by all dealers and post paid at 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Do not be persuaded to take some substitute.

A Clever Trick, says the Dispatch

A funny story comes from Hartland, at the expense of a Parish of Woodstock constable. It is said that the constable wished to arrest a certain party in Hartland, to give evidence in a Scott Act case. Armed with that little brief authority that the law gives a constable, our friend of law and order proceeded to the city of the north. He was informed that the party whom he sought boarded to one of the hotels in room No—. The custodian of the peace started for the room in question and without much difficulty got in. He handed out the warrant whereat the occupant of the room proclaimed in astonishment. "Oh! you have the wrong man. It's my brother you want." The constable made a profound apology. The guest of the room was in a forgiving mood, and said he would show the constable the house in which the wanted one lived. So he took him out and pointing to a certain house said: "You will find him there." The constable profusely thanked the gentleman for his assistance in carrying out the law, and proceeded to the house pointed out thumped at the door till he made an entrance.

Alas! he found that he tried the wrong bird, and that he should have hung on to the party who so easily gulled him.

The arrest has not been made.

Why It Is Called She.

An Annapolis man has discovered the reason that a locomotive engine is called she, and his argument is that they wear a jacket, an apron, shoes, hose, and drag a train behind them; they have a lap, need guides, ride wheels, will not turn out for pedestrians, sometimes foam and refuse to work, they attract men, are very contrary, and it always takes a man to manage them.—Railway News.

False Report.

The report that the treasure of the Khalifa valued at £10,000,000, had been found and was being forwarded to Cairo, is without foundation. Equally baseless is the report that General Kitchener will resign the Sir-darship.

The oldest living graduate of Harvard, Dr. William L. Russell of Barre, who will cross the century line if he lives until October of next year, is still fond of walking and an expert at croquet.
