

IN KENTUCKY.

JAMES H. MULLIGAN.

S. M. Wallace, Camp Point, Ill., sends this rollicking bit of rhyme, which was written by Judge Mulligan, of Lexington, Ky., and read by him at a legislative banquet in that city in 1902.

The moonlight is the softest
In Kentucky;
Summer's days come ofttest,
In Kentucky;
Friendship is the strongest,
Love's fires glow the longest;
Yet a wrong is always wrongest
In Kentucky.

The sunshine's ever brightest
In Kentucky;
The breezes whisper lightest
In Kentucky;
Plain girls are the fewest,
Maidens' eyes are the bluest,
Their little hearts are trueest
In Kentucky.

Life's burdens bear the lightest
In Kentucky;
The home-fires burn the brightest
In Kentucky;
While the players are the keenest,
Cards come out the meanest,
The pocket empties cleanest
In Kentucky.

Orators are the grandest
In Kentucky;
Officials are the blandest
In Kentucky;
Boys are all the fittest,
Danger ever highest,
Taxes are the highest
In Kentucky.

The blue grass waves the bluest
In Kentucky;
Yet, blue-bloods are the fewest (2)
In Kentucky;
Moonshine is the clearest—
By no means of the dearest—
And yet it acts the queerest
In Kentucky.

The dove's notes are the saddest
In Kentucky;
The mountains dance on the gladdest
In Kentucky;
Hip pockets are the thickest,
Pistol hands the slickest,
Cylinders turn quickest
In Kentucky.

Song birds are the sweetest
In Kentucky;
Thoroughbreds the fleetest
In Kentucky;
The mountains lower proudest,
Thunder peals the loudest,
The landscape is the grandest—and
Politics—the damndest
In Kentucky.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm the Best Household Liniment.

There are few subjects upon which everybody agrees and there are few medicines in the market which please everybody, but as a general household liniment, Chamberlain's Pain Balm will be found in more homes than any other similar preparation. It is the universal opinion that for cuts, bruises, burns or scalds, it has no equal. It is antiseptic and when applied to a wound, will give prompt relief and heal it up in less time than any other treatment and prevent any danger from blood poisoning. Messrs. Chambers Bros., of Vinta, Tenn., say of it: "We have handled Chamberlain's Medicines for years and have always found them to give perfect satisfaction in every respect. Chamberlain's Pain Balm, especially, is the best seller of any liniment we have in stock."

Fermentation and Life.

A remarkable modern discovery is that vital processes are akin to what we call fermentation: that is, they are carried on through the agency of substances that possess the power of bringing about chemical change without themselves taking part in it or being affected by it. Ordinary fermentation, such as turns sugar into alcohol, water and carbonic acid gas, is thus caused by a substance secreted by the yeast plant. In the animal organism similar ferments, or "enzymes," as they are called, turn starch to sugar, bring about the oxidation of the blood in respiration, and build up from simple foods the complex protoplasm of the bodily cells. Carl Snyder, writing of these wonderful substances in a recent magazine article, says that in every cell of the human liver alone there are at least a dozen kinds of enzymes, making different varieties of sugar, acids, urea, bile, and colour stuffs; neutralizing noxious poisons; and performing a hundred other operations necessary to life. "In brief," he says, "for every vital function, a ferment. That is the latest word of biological chemistry."

To Get Rid of a Troublesome Corn.

First soak it in warm water to soften it, then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing the blood, and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn for a few days, to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequalled.

None for the Senator.

Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, tells of an old darky in his employ that he once permitted to make use of certain land for farming purposes, on condition that the darky should give to the senator one fourth of the crop raised.

At the harvesting of the crop the senator was amazed to find that the darky had not kept to his part of the agreement, for, while he hauled away three wagon loads of produce, he had not sent a single one to the senator's barn. Tillman called the negro's attention to the fact that he had taken the entire crop, asking:

"Now, how's that, Zeb? Wasn't I to receive a fourth of the crop?"
"You was Massa Tillman you was," excitedly exclaimed the darky; "but dere's only three loads, sah, only three loads!"

Afflicted With Rheumatism.

"I was and am yet afflicted with rheumatism," says Mr. J. C. Bayne, editor of the Herald, Addington, Indian Territory, "but thanks to Chamberlain's Pain Balm am able once more to attend to business. It is the best of liniments." If troubled with rheumatism give Pain Balm a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. One application relieves the pain.

WHY ARE WOMEN NAGGERS?

Various Reasons for this Painful and Unwomanly Habit.

Washington Star: A doctor expressed the opinion that nine times out of ten the woman who nags is tired. One time out of ten she is hateful. Times out of mind her husband is to blame. The cases that come under the physician's eye are those of the women who are tired and who have been tired so long that they are suffering from some form of nervous disease.

They may think they are only tired, but in fact they are ill. In such cases the woman often suffers more from her nagging than her husband or the children with whom she finds fault. She knows she does it. She does not intend to do it. She suffers in her own self-respect when she does it and in the depth of her soul longs for something to stop it.

The condition is usually brought on by broken sleep, improper food, want of some other exercise than housekeeping and enough of out-of-door air and practical objective thinking. It is often the most unselfish and most affectionate of women who fall into this state.

They are too much devoted to their families to give themselves enough of any healthy exercise and diversion, enough of naps perhaps or theaters or concerts.

Sciatic Rheumatism Cured.

"I have been subject to sciatic rheumatism for years," says E. H. Waldron, of Wilton Junction, Iowa. "My joints were stiff and gave me much pain and discomfort. My joints would crack when I straightened up. I used Chamberlain's Pain Balm and have been thoroughly cured. Have not had a pain or ache from the old trouble for many months. It is certainly a most wonderful liniment."

The Whole Race in the Garden of Eden.

We are all in the garden just as was Adam, and before us as before him hangs the fruit of good and evil. It is a pity to charge upon Eve the follies of our lives. Poor mother of us all, she had sorrow enough of her own; why must we lay upon her name any blame for our misfortunes? We are in the same garden where she stood, and have exactly the power she possessed, of making the wiser choice. We are equipped with full power to choose the good or the evil. It is high time for us to conclude that if Adam did badly in the Garden of Eden, we are at full liberty to do better in the same place. We all see the situation better than it was seen by the first man. He felt that perhaps the forbidden tree bore sweet, good fruit; we all know that its fruit is the gall of bitterness. It is of no moment that our garden of trial is not by the Euphrates. The little spot of ground through which four branches of a river run spreads out and covers all the continents, and Adam and Eve stand for the human race. We are all in the inclosure, some sinning and dying, others obeying the Almighty and advancing to eternal life.—Professor Swing.

How to Treat a Sprained Ankle.

A sprained ankle as usually treated will disable a man for three or four weeks. This is an unnecessary loss of time, for many cases have recovered in less than one week's time when Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly and freely applied. It allays the pain and soreness and quickly restores the parts to a healthy condition.

The Influence of the Home.

When a mother takes a child into her arms she little knows the possibilities that lie within it, to be developed by careful training through the cultivation of the conscience and those virtues and graces that make up Christian character and form the genuine purpose of life. A child who has been well born and well reared has, to start with, an education and culture that transcend every form of knowledge. The moral bias given in those early years will so root itself in life and character as to be almost unchangeable. The most lasting impressions are received at home. It is there the seeds are sown that germinate and develop either into a noble and self-respecting purpose, or into a life of lawlessness, dissipation, and crime.

Lame Back.

This ailment is usually caused by rheumatism of the muscles and may be cured by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm two or three times a day and rubbing the parts vigorously at each application. If this does not afford relief, bind on a piece of flannel slightly dampened with Pain Balm, and quick relief is almost sure to follow.

Why She Named the Lamp for Him.

A promising young man of * * * recently presented his better half with a handsome piano lamp on her birthday. He was flattered when she told him that she intended to give it his name, until he asked her reasons for so peculiar proceeding. "Well," she said, "you know, dear, it has a good deal of brass about it, it is handsome to look at, requires a good deal of attention, is remarkably brilliant, is sometimes unsteady on its legs, liable to explode when only half full, flares up occasionally, it is always out at bed time and is bound to smoke."—Selected.

Brakeman's Children Cured of Cholera Infantum.

Mr. Norman Hart, a brakeman on the G. R. & D. Railway at Grand Rapids, Mich., says: "I have three little girls who had cholera infantum and bowel trouble. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured them. We think it a splendid remedy and always keep it in the house." Cholera infantum has long been regarded as one of the most dangerous and fatal diseases to which infants are subject; but this dreaded disease causes less apprehension since so successful a remedy for the treatment of this malady has come into general use.

THE EDITOR OF PAISA AKHBAR LAHORE, INDIA.

Testifies to the Good Qualities of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

The following is a translation of his letter: "I feel duty bound to inform you that I know Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is really a panacea for the diseases you advertise it to cure. I have tried it many times among my children and servants for colic and diarrhoea and always found it effective. In one instance a servant had a severe attack of cholera and I was not informed of it until the eleventh hour, and when I found the poor fellow he seemed to be on the point of death. He could hardly swallow when I gave him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I left instructions for this to be repeated, and I confess I was astonished to learn that the fellow recovered. Now I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to all who suffer from colic, cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea or any bowel complaint."

This remedy is a certain cure for cholera when given as soon as the first unnatural looseness of the bowels appears. It was used with great success during the epidemic of that disease in Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, a few years ago.

Titular Chronology of a Great Man.

Infancy.....Baby
Childhood.....Willy
At school.....Jonesey
In the office.....Bill
At the bar.....William Wirt Jones, Esq.
During the war.....Corporal Jones
After the war.....General Wm. W. Jones
On the stump....."Our distinguished fellow-citizen"
In Congress.....Representative William W. Jones
After the landslide.....Ex-Congressman Jones
"Taken care of".....U. S. Consul W. W. Jones
For his bread and butter....."Our elevator man"
Pensioned.....No. 1,935,610
Superannuated.....Old Bill Jones
In the obituary column....."A once famous soldier and politician"
—Smart Set.

What She Forgot.

A story is told that a lady traveling in the same railway compartment with Lord Rosebery on leaving, dropped her umbrella on the foot-board. He at once rescued it and restored it to the fair owner, who received it without a word of thanks and was going away, when Lord Rosebery exclaimed: "You have forgotten something madam." "Indeed! What is it?" she asked.
"To say thank you," said His Lordship, "such to the delight of the other occupants of the carriage. This was not so bad as the man who left home on a journey and forgot to take along a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, a preparation that he was almost certain to have need of."

Names and Their Meanings.

New York Daily News: Susan is Hebrew, the lily.
Alma is Latin, the kindly.
Guy is French, the leader.
Job is Hebrew, the mourner.
Paul is Latin, the small one.
Rachel is Hebrew, the lamb.
Hugh is Dutch, the lofty man.
Margaret is Greek, a pearl.
Clara is Latin, the bright one.
Gilbert is Saxon, bright as gold.
Ernest is Greek, the serious one.
Adeline is German, the princess.
Martin is Latin, the martial one.
Minnie is a diminutive of Margaret.
Ruth is Hebrew, and means beauty.
Sophia is Greek, and means wisdom.
Florence is Latin, the blooming one.
Rosamond is Saxon, the rose of peace.
Agatha is a Greek name, the good one.

James is of Hebrew origin, the beguiler.

Isaac, a Hebrew name, means laughter.

Lucy is the feminine of the Latin Lucius.

Edith and Editha are Saxon, happiness.

Lionel, the Latin name, is a little lion.

Leonard, the German name, is lion-like.

Douglas is Gaelic, signifying dark grass.

Lynisa is German, the feminine of Louis.

Ether is a Hebrew word, meaning secret.

WHOLE JURY COMES FOR

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. J. L. Leddy, a traveling salesman for the Crowds Drug Co. of Dallas, Texas, while calling at a drug store in Gilmer, that state, was confronted with convincing evidence that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is used almost exclusively for bowel disorders and his letter written from that town will enable others to judge something of its popularity down there. He says: "While in J. D. Ferrell's drug store to-day an incident occurred, which was amusing and at the same time showed very plainly how popular this medicine is. A jury of twelve men 'good and true', came into the store and three of their number requested the druggist to 'Fix 'em up a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy' as they were sick with bowel trouble. After each had a dose of it, they informed the sheriff that they were ready to return to court. I assure you I will always say a kind word for your remedies."

A GERMAN ELECTRICAL FARM.

Light, Telephone Communication and Power Supplied to Every Part.

World's Work: In the application of electricity to every day work, Germany has, perhaps, gone farther than any other nation. Electrically heated and operated cooking and laundry apparatus is in common use there, but the most striking single development is the electrical farm. Take, for example, Prof. Backhaus' estate, near Quednau in Eastern Prussia, which is only one of a large number of German estates run by electricity.

The Quednau farm covers 45 acres and its dairy handles 1,000 gallons of milk daily. Every part of the farm is lighted by electricity and is in telephone communication with every other part. The dairy has an electric churn; the barn contains electrically operated feed and carrot-cutting machines, and even the grind stone is turned by a small belt from the shaft connected with the barn motor. The water-pumping apparatus is run by electricity; all the buildings are lighted by incandescent lamps, and there is an electrical pipe lighter at the doors of all the houses. This farm has, also, its own threshing and grist mill, the machinery of which is turned by a current from the miniature central station, and finally there is a small saw-mill which gets its power from the same station. On the farm are all kinds of electrical agricultural machines, including an automobile plow, all run by batteries charged from sub-stations in the fields.

The power for all these various operations—lighting, heating, telephones, threshing, cutting, grinding, pumping, and sawing, comes from a fifty-horsepower stationary engine moving two dynamos.

From the station the power is distributed to all parts of the farm, and the switchboard is so plainly marked that the commonest farm hand can regulate the supply to fit the need. At Crottorf a number of small farms have grouped to support one station and have the work done by it.

Such plants as these do more than merely lighten farm labor. Fewer workmen are needed and greater profits are possible, and the whole business of farming is made more attractive. The barnyard is lighted by an arc light; night work is possible in the fields when it is necessary; the stables are warmed in winter and ventilated in summer by the turning of a switch; indeed the entire farm runs like a machine at the call of the electric current.

Something Every Family Should Keep.

Too much dependence cannot be placed in the physician; he may be busy or out of town just when most needed. Attacks of illness are liable to come on at any time and every family should be prepared. Mr. W. A. Baggett, a merchant at Reddock Springs, Ala., relates his wife's experience, which would have resulted fatally had it not so happened that he had Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on sale at his store. This medicine can always be depended upon and should be in every home at all times. He says: "About two years ago my wife was taken with hemorrhage of the bowels, and so badly that according to my honest opinion, she would have died before I could possibly have gotten a doctor, as I was six and a half miles away from one. I gave her Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and it cured her entirely. In twenty-four hours she was as well and sound as she ever was in her life."

Here is a tale that comes by way of New York. During his recent engagement here at Powers' E. H. Sothern found in his mail one morning the following poem:

To Mr. E. H. Sothern—A Rare Rondeau.
If I had two, O Ed, if I had two,
(Muse, with Love's longing these lame lines imbue)
To Powers' playhouse straightway would I go,
And hear F. Villon sing his songs of woe
With roses redolent—replete with rue.
I'd hate to sit upstairs, O Ed, for who
Would be a cheap skate gallery god when you
Are on the stage? For me, parquett first row—
If I had two.

It is said that the name of a prominent attorney was signed to the communication. He was a stranger to Mr. Sothern, however, and the note in all probability was sent not so much in the hope of securing passes to the performance as to see what the actor would reply. Mr. Sothern did not send the desired tickets, but mailed the writer the following:

To bed, Deadhead! and dream, for dreams are cheap.
Learn, we who sing must sup, who sow must reap.
We get no passes for our steaks and ale.
From bread to blessings, all things are "for sale."
The guard will have to snore at heaven's keep.
Fre you pass in for nothing—hush! to sleep!
And dream you are working for the coin you keep.

NOTHING BETTER

Than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"During all the years I have been engaged in the drug business, I have never found anything better than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for all bowel troubles," says R. W. Burke, a druggist of Empire, Mich. "I have sold dozens of bottles of this remedy to my customers and always to their satisfaction. No family should be without a bottle of this remedy in the house."

Pitied the Lion.

A little boy was being shown a picture depicting a Roman arena, in which there were a number of Christian martyrs. A pack of lions were in the act of springing upon their victims.
"It isn't fair," said the little fellow, excitedly.
"No, my son," agreed his mother, "it isn't fair; all those big, hungry lions—"
"But," interrupted the young hopeful, "there's one poor lion that hasn't got any Christian!"

By the Preacher's Son.

A blooming young dude from Bellairs To a pretty maid murmured "Ah thaire!"
But the effort was lost.
For she gave him a frost,
Which destroyed his supply of hot aire.

HOTEL KEEPER RECOMMENDS

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. N. H. Crook, Proprietor of Crook's Hotel, West Branch, Iowa, says: "During the past twenty-five years I have many times suggested the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to guests who were ill. A short time ago a Davenport drummer came down from his room at midnight and wanted me to ring up a doctor. I told him that was unnecessary and gave him a large dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In a few minutes he retired to his room and slept soundly until morning. I have repeatedly used this remedy myself for cramps with complete success." Many hotel keepers find it to their advantage to keep a bottle of this remedy in the house, and especially in towns where the drug stores are closed at night.

Misplaced Sympathy.

During the recent coal strike a company of Pittsburg militia was stationed at Scranton with the mission to protect the scab and strike terror to the hearts of the union men.

One of the men in uniform was strolling through the town while off duty, and was soon surrounded by a crowd of strikers, who sought to enlist his sympathy.

"Would you shoot at your fellow men?" asked a burly striker.

"Certainly not," answered the militia man. "I never shot at any one in my life, and wouldn't begin at this late date!"

"Good for you," cried the miners, enthusiastically; "come in and have something."

After they had regaled the soldier to his heart's content one of the strikers said:

"But if you are in sympathy with us, why did you obey the call to come here?"

"I didn't say I was in sympathy with the strike," replied the Pittsburger.

"You said you wouldn't shoot at us!"

"That's true. You see, I blow the trombone in the band, and never carried a gun in my life!"

The Dealer Ought to Know.

The merchant who handles an article any length of time ought to know its merit. Messrs. Seymour & Denny, of Truett, Ala., have been selling Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for five or six years, which is certainly time enough to give it a fair trial. They say of it, "Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has a splendid reputation in this section for the cure of diarrhoea and dysentery."

Nationality no Difference.

They are laughing in Washington over a rebuke that a sentry of one of the departments administered recently to the Russian Ambassador's coachman.

The coachman, it appears, wished to drive his master's carriage along a road way that for some reason was barred. When the sentry refused to let the carriage pass the coachman remonstrated.

"I drive," he said, "ze Russian Minister."

"I can't help it," returned the sentry.

"Let me t'rough," persisted the coachman. "My master is ze Count Cassini, ze ambassador extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of ze Tsar of all ze Russias."

"Frenchy," said the sentry, "I wouldn't let you through even if your master was a free born American citizen."—New York Tribune.

Smallpox and Chronic Diarrhoea.

It often happens that small-pox or malignant fevers leave the patient with some form of bowel disorder, which lingers on for months after all traces of the disease have disappeared and sometimes baffles the physician's skill for years. Mr. J. R. Thompson, a merchant of Ansley, Ala., relates an incident of this kind in which Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy effected a permanent cure. He says: "I have a customer, whose mother contracted bowel trouble when she had small-pox, which became chronic and caused her great suffering for several years. I sold him one bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which his mother used. He came back and bought the second bottle, saying at the time that the medicine was worth a dollar a bottle. He afterwards told me that the second bottle cured her entirely. I consider this a remarkable cure."

A Good Cough Medicine for Young Children.

There is no better medicine made for young children than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It quickly cures their coughs and colds and prevents pneumonia or other serious consequences. It is also a certain cure for Croup and has never been known to fail. When given as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It is especially valuable for Whooping Cough and deprives that disease of all dangerous consequences. It contains no opium or other harmful drug and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is pleasant to take. Children like it. It is a favorite with the mothers of young children everywhere.

A Leader.

Messrs. J. M. Johnson & Co., of Norwich, Iowa, say Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is their leader and they sell as much of it as all others together. It gives complete satisfaction wherever used, children especially liking it. There is no better medicine made than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for children. It gives prompt relief from coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. It contains nothing injurious and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult.