Zulu.

The steam tng "Zulu" was being haulded up yesterday afternoon. But owing to the coldness of the day the men did not make as much progress as they otherwise would if the day had been fine. They went to work again this morning, and will have her up about noon.

Boats.

Nearly river boats are layed up for the winter. The ferry boats as well as the passenger boats "Andover" and "New Era," are still going, but their continuing will be brief. The tug boats, pilot schooners, woodboats and waterboats have all finished their summer's work.

Diphtheria 1 This dreaful disease is spreading its wings over the whole Province. Scarcely a local paper is issued without having some account of its ravages. Sunday a man about 60 years of age. named Fidele Wedge, from Carleton Station, died from it. He had been a resident of Chatham for about fifteen years, and had moved over to that ne settlement about a year ago.

Weather. On Sunday night we had a pretty heavy snowstorm; but by the succession of sunshine and frost, it has since nearl all disappeared. Wagons and carts are still in use, and the weather since Sunday has been agreeable. Any ice that has accumulated about the shores is descend ing the stream. It is generally nice to see an open harbour and observe the flow of the green tide; but at present many men are disappointed at not seeing the river freezing up-those who are in any way interested in the smelt fishing business, as the licensed term began on November 15th.

FRENCH, ENGLISH AND AMERI-

CAN INDUSTRY. The Toronto Mail in a late issue says: -It is a question whether any nation can pursue with equal success at the same time all the main lines of industry leading to wealth. France has succeeded better than most nations, yet while in the pursuit of agriculture and manufactures her success has been great, in the development of a mercantile marine she has not been so sucessful as Advices this morning from Boston in the other lines, her tonnage in vessels having fallen off year by year to 71-2 cents per lb. Smelt mongers since 1873, and of the total of her steam tonnage now, two-thirds belong to one company, the "Messageries cold snap puts prices up and a warm Maratimes," largely subsidized by the Government. England for a time seemed to be great in all lines. But the last ten years have proved that she must abandon largely the agricultural line, and that she has sensibly weakened in the manufacturing line during the last decade, the decrease being 16 per cent., while her development of marine strength has been truly won derful, her docks and her steamers being such as no other nations can begin to approach, even at a very long distance. The "fair trace agitation" in England is an attempt to secure for the manufacturing line its old pre eminence; but the genius of her people, which turns to the ocean, the ancient scene of her triumphs, for new developments, will probably prove too powerful to be strapped and bound to the workshop. The United States, with broad fields, extensive coast line, and rapidly increasing population, seem to be in the most favourable position to try for success where all others have failed. They are developing into mag nificent proportions in agriculture. They are securing a splendid expansion in manufactures, progressing as rapidly as Great Britain has declined in that
