Golden plover is said to have been found in goodly number in the marshes the past week.

The Island Crops.

A gentleman who has just visited the Island informs us that large areas of hay and potato, and oat crop have been rained by the late rains.

Personal.

Mr. Samuel Adams has arrived from the West and is now in Bathurst on mining matters. He visited Chatham vesterday and attended the meeting held there on mining matters.

"Fishy."

Picnic.

The Star described the cartoon of the Presidents body, showing the bullet, printed in the Sun, as a "huge codfish." The same cartoon appeared in the Toronto Globe and the Mail called it 'scraggy finnan_haddie."

The sunday school children of St. John's church had a very successful picnic yesterday at the Perley "Birch 1004, and 856 year after the Esterbrook Grove." The party was provided with Steel PenCo. turned out their first Pen. well filled baskets, and the little ones and their teachers and guardians enjoyed the beautiful day to the fullest.

Lobsters.

Messrs. J. & R. Young, Wilson, Fleigher, Anderson, Bain and others are shipping large quantities of preserved lobster by rail for England and the States.

Something Needed,

Those of the grit party who occupy high "social condition" here, ought to try if they can't get the filth off the streets before Mr. Blake comes here. That would be much more creditable than to expend their energy trigging up the old pasture.

Removal.

Carmichael Brothers are about moving their business to Bay Du Vin. There they propose to carry on business on a larger scale, in forwarding fresh fish, fowl, &c., to the local and foreign mar kets, as they see the opportunity.

Heavy Steers:

Mr. J. L. Black, says the Post, has three months old. Mr. Black is more as a politician.

Coles Circus

As will be seen by advertisement in another column Cole's circus will visit the Miramichi on the 20th September. We are quite sure it will draw a much larger crowd than Mr. Blake.

Destruction of Bass.

If we are informed correctly a fishery regulation prohibits the taking of bass But we are informed that large quantities President swallowed 18 1-2 ounces of of small, worthless bass are taken with liquid food. He has had no nausea, and the hook and line, while a net with a his pulse and temperature are not essen. theory is too valuable to adopt the last despatch. If there is any change it rational way.

Ship in Trouble

The Norweigan barques "Noird" and "Vesta," arrived in port yesterday, having been caught in the fog during the week and ran aground on the spit o Fox Island, after a heavy sea and with an east wind. The Noird struck heavily and Captain Semb who is master of her is inquiring for divers, and is to have the necessary arrangements made to have the bottom examined; but we do not know what action will be taken by the captain of the "Vesta."

The Bathurst Mines. We learn that a number of gentlemen interested in mines in Gloucester met in Chatham yesterday, and formed themselves into a company for working one of the Bathurst mines. The company is to be stocked for $259,000 in shares of $5 each. Stock will be is sued in a few days, when, we presume, now that the mining fever is at its height, numbers of our young men wil embrace the opportunity then open to them to place their surplus earnings to account. We wish all concerned ver good luck in the chierprise.

The good-humored inhabitants of a whole pecially so, when he makes as incoherent country side gathered for the annual holiday, with no great purpose but to thoroughly enjoy themselves. What did the telegram taken from the Tub:they care for speeches? It was fun they were after. The crowd in Leitrim, not so fat or well dressed as a general rule, had the appearance of dead earnestness; they hung with eager eyes and parted lips on the speakers, who, without any allusion to religious differences, told the story of their hard lives, their wants and their sufferings as a class in the community. Many of the leading gentry of the neighborhood, or members of their families, were on the Orange platform, with orange favors in their buttonholes. It was a very gay scene. brilliant with colors and bright with enjoyment. In spite of the great demonstration, and year of his age. a great demonstration it was, there is considerable discontent in the North on the land question, whether reasonable or unreasonable, who can tell? The discontent in the North may be unreasonable, in some cases I dare say it is, but it is there. I do not suppose that the opinions of the tenant farmers on what they consider their rights or their wrongs is to be classed as gossip any parts, allaying trritation, give relief in Asthmore than the opinions of land owners. Each expression of opinion is entitled to some weight in determining the reason for the present agitation. "There is always some fire to produce a great niskillen I was more than surprised to

It has given me great pleasure to know that all the grievances which worked up tenants to a declaration of that kind are the baseless fabric of which visions are made; that the old gentleman whose age, politics and religion are worthy of a sneer has been laboring under a mistake in common with many others. If all which the tenants told to me was false, it must also be false that Lord Cole had looked into complaints and redressed grievances. It is worthy of note that Mr. Lilburn, the courteous and impartial editor of the Belfast Weekly News, publishes two temarkable fair and gentlemanly editorial articles on the sub-There were 78 big drums and as many ject, along with the Earl's letter, but Chatham August 30 1880 .- tf flags, and nine tenths of the people col- does not publish the notes on the Ennis-

After all, the fine old family should be aware of "the little rift within the lute" which slowly widens. If my Lord of Enniskillen ant his people are only as well and as firmly bound together as I wish them, they will do, as Burns would say. For myself I almost expected a testimonial for the service I have rendered to the Enniskillen family, but I am content with what I have got which is testimonial enough. I am very glad to hear that another landlord has at last lowered the excessive rents with which he harried him suffering people. If he bad had the justice to do this some time ago, he would have saved the country a great deal of useless outlay, and himself from much ill-will. It was with a thrill of no common pleasure that I read in the papers of honfires on the hillsides in Mayo to mark the gratitude with which a little kindness from the Earl of Arran to his tenants was received.

GARBLING.

To the Editor of the Star: -DEAR SIR: - Would it not been as well for the E O of the Tub to have published the telegram from the Queen to Mrs. Garfield without comment, esas it is possible for a womanly woman to make it. The following is a copy of

"I am most anxious to know how the President is today, and to expres. my deep sympathy with you both."

Now I would like to know from the Ed. of the Tub whether or not a woman without the "womanly" would not have written, expressing her sympathy without first stating that she was most anxious to do so?
