There is nothing which turns the past answer to a no more welcome des | aged 6 years and 2 months. cree, and no fiat draws to the imaginative memories which have greater charm to please. Again we visit the college ball which saw us rigged for the stormy voyage of life; once more we tread the convent walks where our first steps were watched by eager eyes once again we bend within the hadowed shrines of learning rendered dear by youthful reminiscences.

Such a seance we witnessed today at St. Vincent's Convent, (Cliff Street.) an 1015, Noble, Gloucester, Mass., order. institution under the guidance of those good ladies whose labors for humanity Beven & Co.; Lecunda Emilie, 406. are an everlasting prayer which rises, Bremen, do.; brigt Susanah Knap, 178, like incense from the altar, unto the Davis, Tenereff, do. Throne of the Omnipotent.

"Where want and affliction on mortals attend, The Sister of Charity there is a friend."

Seated in the front honoring the asylum of erudition and encouraging the march of education by their presence were His Lordship the Bishop, Rev. Fathers Connolly, Oulette, McDevitt and O'Leary, Sir Hector L. Langevin, His Worship the Mayor, Senator Boyd, Silas Alward, Esq., John V. Ellis, Esq., Senator Dever and numerous others. The rest of the room was occupied by the parents. of the children whose bosoms swelled youth, mantled in the robe of virtue, and wearing the ruby blush of modesty, ascended the platform and performed their various parts.

After the programme had been finished Senator Boyd arose and expressed the great pleasure which he felt in presenting to Miss K. Moran the Sr. class Silver Medal for best attendance and noteworthy application during the past year. He was followed by Sir Hector Langevin who bestewed upon Miss L. Maher of the Jr. class another silver medal for the same good qualities. In a few brief but happy words he referred to the advanced state of learning which he found there and passed some complimentary eulogies on the Sisters as teachers.

We do not say too much when we class the closing exercises as, "excellent:" it is true we might find other words more rhetorically brilliant still we can think of none more eloquently expressive,

A Mr. Lawson read an essay on "Momentum;" if we pass over his numerous mispronounced words we would say that the only mistake he made was in calling it an essay.

Papers were read on composition and various other subjects. Quite a discussion arose on the "Look and Say" method; under this new style it is proposed to teach the pupil how to read before committing memory the letters of the alphabet? OUR SENATOR AND HARBOR MASTER.

To the Editor of the Star.

SIR, -The very gross attack made by the apologist of our Harbor Master on our Dominion Senator displays very bad taste. Our "Senator" got him the position, and of course naturally thought that any man with brains, even if unacquainted with the duties of an office. could learn them after a reasonable time. But if, after a long period, he found that the same incompetency characterized the official's acts, as at first, is he to be blamed for desiring his removal?

If the official had any sense of honor, he would, when he knew his inability to do his duty, step down and out. He has had through the Senator's influence a fine soft time, and a good round sum THE public are hereby cautioned of money for every little work, and now him those, ugly names, he should at least
