The Dominion government has arranged for a three-cent postage rate on mail matters up to one ounce throughout the British empire, instead of as hitherto five cents for half an ounce to the United Kingdom, and a larger sum for some other parts of the empire.

Twenty-five men arrived at Seattle, Wash., on Sunday direct from Dawson city. They were divided into two parties, the last one of which left Dawson October 16th. They are reported to have between them sixty thousand dollars. All tell stories of food shortage in Dawson that is almost a famine.

The members of the Austrian ministry on Sunday tendered their resignations to Emperor Francis Joseph, who accepted them and entrusted Baron Cautsch with the task of forming a new cabinet. The Reichsrath has been adjourned. There were several street demonstrations in Vienna, which were broken up by the police and militia. Many persons were wounded in the conflicts. The resignation of the ministry gives great satisfaction to the masses.

Lt. Governor Paterson of Manitoba has been summoned to Ottawa. It is said that Sir Henri Joly will likely retire from the ministry and if Hon. Edward Blake is to succeed Sir Richard Cartwright in the ministry, the latter going to London as high

The Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, recently made a speech at Birmingham. He dealt with the domestic policy of the Government, and mentioned that he expected that one of the most important subjects that would engage the attention of Parliameut, when the session opened. wonl? be the granting of local government to Ireland.

He did not enter into any precise details in regard to this most important subject, but the fact remains, that it is the intention of the Government, if we are to believe Mr. Chamberlain, to devote their best efforts to pass a measure that will be acceptable to all parties.

If such a bill is passed, it will remain for the people of Ireland to refute the charges that they are incapable of manag-

Mr. Chamberlain also remarked that the Government would deal with the question of reforms in the army. While discussing this topic he said that the army ought to be "strong enough to meet the possible, though improbable emergency of a breakdown in the navy.

the Institute of France. In 1816, it was reorganized, and it now embraces five academies: the French Academy; Academy of Inscriptions and Belles-Lettres; Academy of Science; Academy of Fine Science.

The members of the French Academy -the "Forty Immortals"-include some of the best known literary men of France. They constitute a body which is "the highest authority on everything appertaining to the niceties of the French language, to grammar, rhetoric, and poetry, and the publication of the French classes." The members are elected for life.

Periodically, the question has been brought to public attention in England, of establishing an English Academy, on much the same lines as that of the one in France. Such men as Gladstone, Ruskin, Swinburne, and Justin McCarthy, have been proposed as worthy of being members of the English Academy.

Swinburne, the poet, in a letter to the London "Times" has been severe in his denunciation of the idea of aping the French in such a scheme. In his letter he says: "The notion of an English Academy is too seriously stupid for farce, and too essentially vulgar for a comedy."

One great result that has been attained during the negotiations to end the strike between the engineers and their employers, has been the acceptance by both sides of the principal that each has the right to manage their own affairs. That is, that the engineers must not meddle with the carrying on of their employers business; and on the other hand, that the trades unions must not be interfered with; or, in other words, that employees have a right to become members of the unions. It took two days to settle this question, but now that it is disposed of, it is to be hoped that the way is more open to end the strike.

The result of the municipal elections recently held in Belfast, Ireland, was the election of six labor and eight National Councillors. Ex-Lord Mayor McCammond was defeated.

The Princess Christian opened the Windsor Bazaar in London, in aid of the Royal Albert Institution. There were photo, had been signed by her Majesty, apiece. After they had been all sold, the Princess sent to the Queen for more, who not only supplied them, but continued doing so for the three days during which the bazaar was open.

New South Wales, Australia, will in future prevent negroes from entering the country, except those who are British subjects.

The details of a curious crime have been received from Cape Town, Africa. A masked man entered a bank at Claremont, a suburb of Cape Town, and in some way broke the neck of the cashier, although there were no marks of violence on the body. The robber attempted to shoot the manager of the bank. The report of the shot brought the police, and the robber finding his escape cut off, shot himself dead.

In regard to the Germans having seized China, there was published in one of the New York papers, a year or two ago, an article in which the writer claimed to know that the Great Powers had agreed to divide China up among themselves. The author further claimed that there were in existence maps showing exactly the extent of power that each territory will occupy.

On the 25th ult. the public school children of Wilmington, Delaware, presented to the gunboat Wilmington a bible the common and crude package and soap the cost of which was $100 and which grease dyes, giving muddy and blotchy was paid for by their own contributions. Soon after the presentation had been made a massive silver punch bowl, the gift of the city, was presented by Thomas F. Bayard, late ambassador at the court of St. James. Thousands of people were present when the ceremony took place. A use will doubtless be found for both the bible and the punch bowl, just as a use is found for the missionary and the rum and firearms that accompany him to the field of his labors. It is doubted, however, if the last does not make more converts than the first. Hawaii had 150,000 inhabitants when the missionaries first arrived there 80 or 90 years ago. They have dwindled to about 30,000 and the islands are practically owned by three or four thousand foreigners. Civilization is a tremendous octopus; a Jay Gould or Rockafeller on a bigger scale; a sponge of mighty proportions.
