Prince Bismarck the great German Statesman is dead. He has been in failing health for the past year and his death was, therefore, not unexpected. Although he has not for some years past been in active public life, yet he always took a great interest in the affairs of the European nations. By his death Europe loses one of its greatest statesmen.

There is a large number of luke-warm people in the county who only need a little stirring up to place them on the temperance side. ST. JOHN LETTER.

Leigh Hunt has said "Think of the enormous multitude of dishes-of the endless varieties of food which nature has provided for man." Because man is the most intelligent of living beings his resources are larger than those of other creatures, but it is by no means evident that everything that he uses for food was produced for his benefit.

The herring feasts on innumerable small fry, and then he furnishes a dinner for the codfish, which in turn is devoured by the shark who varies his diet with provisions of all sorts which come to him from the stores of wrecked ships and occasionally his diet is diversified by a morsel of human flesh, which possible he considers the most dainty morsel that ever finds its way into his larder. There are few if any animate things that do not prey upon other animate things and so the survival of the strongest and most intelligent is inevitable. But even the latter must die, and, passing through the laboratory of nature they again are imbued with life. "The oak shall send his roots abroad and pierce thy mound;" the grass shall grow over thee-some time, may be, the wheat and corn. Physically we are of the earth, and physically, in one form or another, we shall be among its inhabitants, animate or inanimate, as long as it exists.

EMINENT AUTHORITIES DECLARE THE LI-QUOR TRAFFIC THE WORLD'S GREAT-EST SCOURGE.

New York Tribune: "The liquor traffic is the greatest clog on the civilization of the nineteenth century. It lies at the centre of all political and social mischief; it paralyzes educational agencies, it silences the voice of religion, it baffles penal reform, it obstructs political reform.

Gladstone, in a speech in the House of Commons in May, 1881: "This traffic has wrought more harm than the three great historic scourges, war, famine, and pestilence, combined. The London Times: "We must some how end this evil or it will end us." Dr. Williard Parker, one of the greatest physicians New York has known, in his introduction to Richardson's "Ten Lectures on Alcohol": Alcohol is responsible for 35 per cent of all lunacy, 45 per cent of idiocy, 75 to 90 per cent. of pauperism, and 10 per cent. of deaths.' The total number of deaths in the United States, on the basis of 18 to 1,000 and the population 75,000,000 is 1,350, 000 per year, and 10 per cent. of these deaths is 135,000. During the four years of the great Civil War, the number of Northern soldiers killed in battle was 58, 000; add an equal number for the South ern soldiers killed and we have the total of 116,000 killed in battle, in the four years of one of the most terrible wars the world has known; that is 10,000 fewer than are killed ever year by the liquor traffic according to the judgment of Dr Williard Parker.

Chief Justice Noah Davis, in the Homiletic Review, January, 1885: "Eighty per cent. of all crime is due to intoxicants;" and the late Lord Chief Justice Coleridge, of England: "If we could make England sober we would shut up nine tenths of her prisons.'

Dean (late Canon) Farrar: "Important as great questions in English politics may be, such as the franchise and the land laws, they are matters absolutely infinitesimal compared with the urgency of the necessity of controlling and limiting with a strong hand this drink question." This is no truer of England than of America. Those who fought slavery down and out are chief among America's great men and women of the last generation-Garrison, Phillips, Mrs. Stowe, Sumner, Beecher, Seward, Greely, Lincoln. Where are the young men and women of this generation who have in them the necessary courage, self reliance, independence, sufficient of the heroic element to fight down and out the monster evil of all ages-the liquor traffic? BY THEIR FRUITS YE SHALL KNOW THEM. None know the evil of drunkenness better than the drunkard-maker. By the measure of his great profits he knows the amount of poverty he produces. In every glass he sells, he drowns the reason of his customer. The house he builds for himself is founded on the ruin of many homes. young man of good family and character, Every joke in his bar-room costs many

NEARLY DISCOURAGED.

The Experience of Mr. Ralph Giberson, Who Suffered Greatly From General Debility.

From the Advertiser, Hartland, N. B. Ralph Giberson, postmaster at Monquart, Carleton Co., N. B., is also known as a prosperous agriculturist and an enthusiast in his line. Now stalwart and rugged, weighing 250 pounds, he scarce would be recognized as the man who six months ago was the picture of one suffering the terrible symptoms of general debility. He was run down in health, suffered much from dizziness, almost blindness, general dullness and depression of spirits. He had a poor appetite and such food as he ate gave him great distress. He was incapacitated for the work that fell upon him and was well nigh utterly discouraged. The symptoms bordered on to those by which hypochondria is manifested. Through reading the Advertiser he learned of the particular benefit that several of his friends in this vicinity had received by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and by the hope held out by their testimonials he secured a supply and took them according to directions. The result was almost magical; immediately his symptoms began to become less disagreeable, and he steadily gained until now he is perfectly free from his old troubles. He gladly and freely gives this testimonial, that all who may read it may know the remedy if ever they are troubled with general debility.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. The genuine can only be had in boxes, the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.'
