Poetry.

THE OLD HYMM.

There's lots o' music in 'em-the humns of long ago,

An' when some gray haired brother sings the ones I used to know.

sorter want to take a hand!-I think o days gone by; 'On Jordan's stormy banks I stand and cast a wistful eye!"

There's lots o' music in 'em-those dear sweet hynns of old .-

With visions bright of lands of light, and shining streets of gold;

And I hear 'em ringing-singing, where memory dreaming stands,

"From Greenland's icy mountains India's coral strands."

They seem to sing forever, of holier, sweeter days, When the lilies of the love of God bloomed white in all the ways;

And I want to hear their music from th old meetin's rise

Till "I can read my title clear to mansions in the skies." We never needed singin' books in them old days-we knew The words--the tunes of every one the dear old hymn book through!

organs built for show; We only sang to praise the Lord "from D., F. R. S. whom all blessings flow."

An' so I love the old hymns, and when my time shall come-

Before the light has left me and my singing lips are dumb If I can only hear 'em then, I'll pass without a sigh "To Canaan's fair and happy land where my possessions lie!"

THE SIFTING OF PETER.

In St. Luke's Gospel we are told How Peter in the days of old Was sifted; And now, though age intervene, Sin is the same, while time and scene

Satin desires us great and small, As wheat to sift us, and we all Are tempted;

Are shifted.

Not one, however rich and great, Is by his station or his state Exempted.

No house so safely guarded is But he, by some device of his, Can enter;

No heart has armor so complete, But he can pierce with arrows fleet Its centre;

For all at last the cock will crow, We hear the warning voice, but go Unheeding:

Till thrice and more they have denied The Man of Sorrows, crucified And bleeding;

One look of that pale, suffering face Will make us feel the deep disgrace Of weakness;

We shall be sifted till the strength Of self conceit be changed at length. To meekness.

Wounds of the soul, though healed, will ache,

The reddening sores remain and make Confession:

Lost innocence returns no more; We are not what we were before Transgression.

But noble souls, through dust and heat. Rise from disaster and defeat

The stronger; And conscious still of the divine Within them, lie on earth supine

No longer. THE LIFE FOR WHICH I LONG.

When on my day or life the night is fall-And in the winds from unsun'd spaces blown, I hear far voices out of darkness calling shipped a lady at a distance was one day

My feet to paths unknown Thou who has made my home of life so pleasant, Leave not its tenant when its walls de-

O Love Divine, O Helper ever present, Be thou my strength and stay.

I have but thee, my Father! let thy Spirit Be with me then to comfort and up-

No gate of peril, no branch of palm I merit, Nor streets of shining gold.

Suffice it if -my good and ill unreckoned, And both forgiv'n through thy abounding grace

I find myself by hands familiar beckoned Unto my fitting place.

Some humble door among thy many mansions,

Some sheltering shade where sin and striving cease, Where flows forever through heaven's green expansions The river of thy peace.

There, from the music round about me stealing, I fain would learn the new and holy

And find at last beneath thy trees of healing,

The life for which I long.

THE VOICE OF SCIENCE. Alcohol is bad both for beauty and comeliness of person. The face is greatly disfigured by it, both in regard to form, feature and complexion. It makes the features coarse, the skin unduly red, unsteadiness in facial feature, and in time undue size and form of the body at large. -Sir B. W. Richardson, M. D., F. R.

Sore throat, so-called colds, passive pneumonia, glandular disturbances and ulcerative lesions are ever present menaces which belong to the servant of the alcohol habit. Moreover, it may be claimed that chronic bronchitis is an almost invariable accompaniment to the vanities of the drunkard's cup.-Dr. E. G. Hope.

The effects of drink show themselves in the respiratory organs, the heart, the kidneys or the nervous system .- M. Joffrey, M. D. The use of alcohol is found to be followed by a diminution of the carbon dioxide and all waste elimination.-T. D. Crothers, M. D.

Alcohol in any dose capable of producing an appreciable effect, diminishes the We didn't have no trumpet then-no function of the lungs in direct proportion to the quantity taken .- N. S. Davis, M.

During the presence of alcohol in the system there is an actual reduction of temperature, a diminution of the amount of carbonic acid gas exhaled from the lungs. Instead of the bodily forces being exhilarated, they show a corresponding depression, and this in direct proportion to th amount of alcohol taken .- C. H. Newman, M. D.

Under the influences of alcohol there is a diminished output of carbonic acid gas, and this is due, certainly in part, to the action of the drug on the red corpuscles. Spectroscopic experiments by Dr. Kales have shown that the affinity of hæmoglobin for oxygen is reduced by alcohol, and this must affect vital action throughout the body.-Medical Pioneer.

Alcohol causes kidney disease in several ways. It unduly excites the activity of the organs; by impeding oxidation, it interferes with the proper preparation of ritrogen wastes which are brought to the kidneys in an untit state for 'removal; when more than a small quantity of alcohol is taken, some of it passes out of the body unchanged through the kidneys, and injures their substances. H. Newell Martin, M. D., F. R.S.

Tissue waste is necessary to the well being of the living organism. Constant molecular change must occur in living tissue, the dead, effete matter being removed to make room for the new living tissue which rebuilds and strengthens the system; therefore, alcohol as a food saver is like a man who rebuilds his sidewalk with rotten plank .- M. Willard, M. D.

The mistaken idea that small quantities of alcohol are harmless, permits men to drink beer and stronger drink without a question, yet a scientific study and measurement of the senses and functional activity of the body shows that twenty drops of alcohol interferes with the normal activity, and is manifest in the diminution of the sense acuteness and brain activity. Alcohol also obscures the color sense.-T. D. Crothers, M. D.

It is now generally recognized that children should never take alcohol, which, according to the highest authorities, exerts an exceedingly deleterious action on rapidly growing tissues, interfering with their nutrition, and preventing the development of their proper function. -G. Sims Woodhead, M. D.

Alcohol, even when diluted, as in wine, beer, and cider, is a poison that changes pathologically the tissues of the body, and leads to fatty degeneration. - August. -August Forel, M. D.

Bad Medicine.

A young physician who had long worsuddenly called to attend her. He found her suffering from no particularly dangerous malady, but she wanted him to prescribe for her nevertheless; so he took her hand and said impressively:

"Well, I should-prescribe-I should prescribe that you get married." "Oh, goodness," said the interesting invalid, "who would marry me, I wonder?" "I would," snapped the doctor with all the voracity of a six foot pickeral. "You?" exclaimed the maiden,

"Yes." "Well, doctor, if that is the fearful alternative, you may go away and let me die in peace."

Meat Cheese-Boil the meat scraps which you have on hand-the more kinds the better-in a very little water until soft enough to mash to a pulp. Add salt, pepper and a little sage, put in a dish with a plate and heavy weight on top. The next day turn out carefully, and serve cold. Cut the slices with a sharp knife. It is very nice for supper.
