BIG SNOW STORM.—After a very warm month winter set in on Sunday with a big snow storm, the day was quite cold and a gale of wind from the northeast piled the snow in banks as it fell. On the level about one foot of snow fell. Sleighs were out on Monday morning, as the waggoning is over for the present. From our Exchanges we learn that the storm was a universal one and that large falls of snow are reported from all quarters. The steamers made the usual trips on Monday.

ACKERMAN VS. BOYD.—The case of Ackerman vs. Boyd was up for argument before the Supreme Court on appeal from the decision of His Honor Judge Wilson. It arose out of a case of summary ejection tried before John Parkhill and Andrew L. Flemming, Justices of the Peace for Queens County, in which Robert Ackerman was claimant. The Justices of the Peace made an order that the claimant be given possession. There decision was reversed by Judge Wilson and the present appeal was taken to the Supreme Court and argued by John R. Dunn on behalf of Mr. Ackerman and Mr. Mont McDonald on behalf of Mr. Boyd. The Court considers.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S PAPER.—A copy has reached us of the first number of the YOUNG PEOPLE'S PAPER, published by T. J. Shanks & Co., at Kingston, Ontario. This journal is intended to be to the young folks of Canada what the Youth's Companion or Harper's Young People is to those of the United States, so far as the much lower price—half a dollar a year—will permit. The number before us contains an interesting selection of short stories, anecdotes, accounts of travel and adventure, glimpses of natural science, bits of useful information, and other matter especially suited to the youthful mind. In an article addressed to parents particular stress is laid on the importance of seeing that their children are supplied with something better than the trashy and degrading literature so common at the present day.

BASE BALL GAME.—A very interesting game of baseball was played on the grounds of Mr. R. F. Davis on Saturday afternoon, between the Grammar School Athletic Club and the Gagetown team, the former winning by a score of 44 to 42. The game was a very interesting one and good playing was done on both sides. John Palmer acted as Umpire. The Clubs were composed as follows: Grammar School Athletic Club—W. Hopewell, C. E. Shields, P.; M. Fox, 1st B.; H. Gilbert, 2nd B.; H. Farris, 3rd B.; G. Dingee, S. S.; B. Farris, R. F.; B. Robertson, L. F.; John Law, C. F. The Gagetown Club—R. Scott, C.; A. Belyea, P.; R. Murder at Sea.

Shipping circles and the community at large were startled yesterday morning when word reached this city from Lepreaux that a sailor on the American schooner J. B. Vandusen, which left here Saturday afternoon, had murdered the captain, and for a time the story was hardly credited. Many reports were soon in circulation, some most sensational, but generally ranging from a simple murder story to a wholesale mutiny, in which the crew were said to have run off with the schooner and were heading for the West Indies. While the facts, so far as known, are not so gruesome or sensational as some of the reports had them, they are horrible enough.

The first report to reach the city was the following telegram sent by the mate of the schooner to J. M. Driscoll of the west side, one of the owners of the schooner:—

"PT. LEPREAUX, Nov. 11.—Row on board Vandusen, off Musquash. Capt. Baisley stabbed by Seaman Maxwell. Afterwards falling overboard. Mate with one man took boat to rescue captain, who died on boat before reaching Dipper Harbor. Left Steward and Maxwell on board. Last seen was sailing away from us in the dark directly for land. I think vessel must be ashore between Dipper Harbor and Musquash. What will I do? Answer."

(Sgd.) A. T. CAMPBELL. Mr. Driscoll informed the police at once of what had happened. The insurance underwriters also received several telegrams from Lepreaux, and bit by bit more particulars of the tragedy were gleaned.

The J. B. Vandusen, a schooner of 211 tons, sailed from this port Saturday afternoon in charge of Capt. Geo. Baisley, with a cargo of long lumber and laths for New York. She went out short-handed, there being only four men on board beside the captain. Among these was a man named Maxwell, who had previously sailed in the schooner as mate. Maxwell, it is understood, was under the influence of liquor when he shipped, and it is supposed that in a fit of drunken rage he committed the deed.

There was considerable speculation among all interested as to the whereabouts of the schooner. About two o'clock word came from St. George that the schooner had reached Beaver Harbor and had come to an anchorage in safety.

Before this telegram was received, Chief Clark, in company with Sergt. Kilpatrick, had started to drive down. Detective Ring wired the chief at Musquash telling him where the schooner was, and last night Capt. Jenkins received a message from the chief stating that he would proceed to Beaver Harbor. In the meantime word had been sent to arrest Maxwell.

The following telegram was received at this office last night from Point Lepreaux:—

"Mate Campbell of the three masted schooner J. B. Vandusen reached here at one o'clock this morning to report the trouble which took place on that vessel last evening. His statement is as follows: We left St. John yesterday, and when six miles off Musquash light, Capt. Baisley called Seaman Maxwell on duty. Maxwell had been drinking, and after four hours sleep sobered up. The captain called to the mate for help, as Maxwell was using his knife. The mate separated them, the captain going aft. Maxwell followed him, and shortly after there was a cry of captain overboard. The mate took one seaman, leaving the vessel in charge of the steward, and guided by the call through the darkness for help, finally reached the captain and got him in the boat. He was unconscious and expired soon afterwards. The vessel had then disappeared, and it is supposed had run ashore east of Dipper Harbor. The mate sculled the boat into Dipper Harbor where the captain's body will remain until further instructions. Reports today Miss Lulu Peters went to St. John on Monday accompanied by her cousin, Miss Armstrong.

state that the Vandusen reached Beaver Harbor at 10.30 last night, with the seaman and steward on board. Three extra men were placed on her until the owners arrive."

John L. C. Sherrard, the pilot who took the Vandusen out, when seen last night by a sun reporter stated that Maxwell was under the influence of liquor when the steamer left her berth, but seemed rater good natured than otherwise, although he was bothering the captain to some extent, and once Capt. Baisley pushed him away, making some remark that he did not hear. When he was leaving the schooner the captain told him he was going to run into Beaver Harbor and try and get an extra man; he also remarked that he was afraid Maxwell might try and make trouble. Mr. Sherrard was very much surprised when he heard of the occurrence, and said that Maxwell was one of the last men he thought would have used a knife.—Sun.

The Yukon Country.

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—J. R. Tyrrell, the well known explorer of Canada's barren lands, who severed his connection with the geological service some time ago, has arrived here after having spent some time in the Yukon. He is convinced the business of the Yukon is becoming permanent, but many difficulties must be overcome before stability is really felt. He says that 10 per cent. royalty exercises a deterrent effect. If it were reduced by half the government would receive more besides encouraging development. He states the indecision between creek and hillside claims and between hillside and bench claims cause much litigation. Tyrrell is devoting himself entirely to mining, having succeeded in obtaining several good claims and intends returning to Dawson in February.
