Poetry.

MIDNIGHT AT THE HELM.

"What seest thou, friend? The frail masts bend, The ship reels wildly on the tossing deep; Thy fearless eyes Regard the skies, And this broad waste where through white chargers leap; Seest thou the foam?" Helmsman:—"I see my home, And children in a white soft couch asleep."

"What seest thou, friend? The tiller-end Thou graspest safely in the firm, strong grip: Thine eyes are strange They seem to range Beyond sea, sky and clouds, and struggling ship, Beyond the foam." Helmsman:—"I see my home— Brown cottage-eaves round which the swallows dip."

"What seest thou, friend? Black leagues extend On all sides round about thy bark and thee; Not one star speck Above the deck Abates the darkness of the midnight sea; The waves' throats roar— Helmsman:—"I see the shore, And eyes that plead with God for mine aid me!"

THE WOMAN ACROSS THE WAY.

My windows open to southward, And the sun shines in all the day; Her windows all look northward, My neighbor's across the way.

My windows are draped with curtains Of lace, like a filmy spray; She has only shades of linen, The lady across the way.

There are diamond rings on my fingers That over the casement stray; I have never noticed any On my neighbor's across the way.

But what cares she for sunlight, This lady over the way, When a baby face illumines the places Like the light of a summer's day.

What need has she for curtains Of rare and costly lace When the light shines through a golden mesh Of curls round a baby's face.

Jewels are plenty for money, But cold to the light that lies Reflecting the image of souls that meet In the heaven of baby's eyes.

And I sit alone in the darkness When night comes down, and pray That God will keep her treasure safe For the woman across the way.

A FIG FOR PROVERBS.

At every turn of "life's dull round" (I've heard good people say), A wholesome proverb may be found To light one on the way, But though I've often sought the aid Of maxims old and trite In application I'm afraid, They've seldom worked out right.

"Faint heart fair lady never, never won—"

What courage in the thought, Till some one adds and not in fun, "O'erconfidence wins naught!" To "wed in haste," says the old song, Is to "repent at leisure," While others sing, "Engagements long Ne'er end in wedded pleasure."

Thus "absence makes hearts fonder" might Seem clear and well defined, Until we're told that "out of sight" Means also "out of mind."

"Fine feathers make fine birds" 'tis urged, Yet that we, too, must ban, In "clothes don't make the man."

"Home, home, sweet home! No place like home!"

What joy those words impart! Though some confess who sadly roam, "Home is where rests the heart." "Tis money makes the mare go," Of course you all know that, Yes, 'tis the "root of evil," too, So what would you be at?

"Silence is golden" may be true Where wordy warfare spreads, Yet, there's another adage, too— "Still tongues lie in calves' head." Again, "Time will for no man stay." To suit his loves or hates, But "All things come," they also say, "To him who calmly waits."

When proverbs thus in puzzling maze Each other contravene, Where lies the wisdom that we praise? What do their teachings mean? Where's so much choice there must be flaw,

Or I'm a senseless elf, 'Tis therefore best to simply draw The one that suits yourself.

"So Alice has decided finally to marry an officer?" "Yes; she captured him in what she positively declares to be her last engagement."

COOK'S ANODYNE LINIMENT.

Parrott Hanged.

HAMILTON, Ont., June 23—Benjamin Parrott was hanged in Hamilton gaol yard this morning at 7.43 for the murder of his mother on February 8, last. He was pronounced dead in fourteen seconds, his neck having been broken. He said not a word until after he had been pinned and the black cap adjusted, and then he expressed sorrow that he could not get at the hangman. He also said he was sorrow he had not finished the constable who had arrested him. Radcliffe, the official hangman, did not arrive, and an Englishman named Thompson, who had done similar work in the old country, officiated. The plea of insanity failed to save him. While awaiting execution the prisoner had little desire for anything except plenty to eat and whiskey to drink. Many clergymen, Protestant and Catholic, visited him. At times he expressed sorrow, but in every case contradicted himself immediately afterwards.

Hard to Explain Away.

"I gave you that parrot as a birthday present, did I not, Matilda?" he asked. "Yes; but surely, Albert, you are not going to speak of your gifts as if—" "It was young and speechless at the time?" "Yes," with increasing wonder, "and it has never been out of this parlor." "There are no other young ladies in this house?" "No, there are not." "Then why—why when I kissed your photograph in yonder album, while waiting for you, did that wretched bird imitate your voice, and say, 'Don't do that, Charlie; please don't.'"—Tit-Bits.

His Reward.

"You have been very good this morning Willie" said the fond mamma. "Now what reward would you like?" "I would like to be allowed to be naughty all the afternoon."

"I admit I am troubled," said the fashion editor. "What's the matter," asked the society editor.

"Why, I can't quite make up my mind whether it is all right, in view of prevailing conditions, to speak of five pairs of bloomers, a dozen shirt waists and two dozen pairs of golf stockings as a trousseau."—Chicago Post.

"My boy Johnny has such a cheerful disposition."

"Yes?" "Oh, yes. When I make him wash his neck, instead of grumbling, he just says he is glad he is not a giraffe."
