The Anthropologist's Coat.

glance which laid bare to her quick eyes his simple, unselfish heart, and the possibilities that lay beneath the dust.

The remainder of the story is simplicity itself. When the Fellow reached home that night he sat up to a late hour, calculating what amount annually he would be worth if he lost his Fellowship! When he had settled this question he shook his head in a doubtful way and took down from the shelf those packets of manuscript which were the beginning of his "Epoch of the Mastodon." They had been neglected for two years, but from that hour he spent a large portion of his time in adding to and revising them.

He also developed socially, paying frequent visits to Barron under the plea that it was well to keep sight of an old school-fellow, and that he was greatly benefitted by change of scene. It was observed that after each visit he showed signs of further development in the form of increased activity. In six months he looked as many years younger.

His book went to press, and he visited Barron still more regularly. He found a friend there, he said, who was greatly interested in it, and who desired to see the proofs. It may be remembered, also, that at the time of its publication a chair of Anthropology was founded at the new Heximister University.

The "Epoch of the Mastodon" made a great mark in scientific circles, where it is still regarded as a standard. The most prominent candidate for the chair at Heximister was the author of that book, a neat scholarly fellow—they write it Fellow—whom few even of his enemies would have called a fossil. He was elected almost unanimously, and on the next day told his admiring landlady that he had resigned his Lectureship and his Fellowship, that he was now Professor Sand of Heximister, and that he was about to be married.

He also intimated that, in deference to the wishes of his bride, he had visited his tailor, and ordered a new coat. It was to be a black one!

Character in the Hair.

If your hair is fine it denotes gentle birth. If the ends cling together, it is a sign of great intellectuality, and a tendency to curl shows inherent grace and a poetic nature.

These are some of the things set forth by the science of hair reading, yet undeveloped, but likely to "give us away" in a manner often more accurate than pleasing.

This science tells us, too, that the person with straight hair has a firm, positive and practical disposition. Color shows the temperament. For instance, it is well to watch out for the person with black, lustrous hair. He's apt to be treacherous and jealous. The lighter the hair the more sensitive and "touchy" its owner. Brown hair belongs to him who has common sense, good judgement and reason in high degree, which would indicate that humanity isn't even half bad. Red hair shows honesty and cleverness.

Removing a Ring.

Most girls who have had baby rings have had trouble in removing them from their fingers. "There is really no necessity for all this ado about removing a ring," said a jeweller. "In fact, as in everything else, the secret of success lies in knowing how to do it. Here is a recipe that I have found unerring for removing a tight ring and there is no painful surgical operation involved either: Thread a needle flat in the eye, using thread that is strong, but not too coarse, then pass the head of the needle under the ring. Care, of course, must be used in this, and it would be best to soap the needle before beginning. The needle having been passed through, pull the thread through a few inches toward the right hand so.

By this time the jeweller had passed the needle and thread under the ring on his own finger and was prepared to illustrate the little lecture. "Wrap the long of the thread around the finger towards the nail in this manner, then take hold of the short end and unwind it—so. The thread, thus pressing against the ring, will gradually remove it, however tight or swollen the finger."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Remedy for Toothache.

Melt white wax or spermaceti, two parts, and when melted, add carbolic acid crystals, one part, and chlorol hydrate crystals, two parts; stir well until dissolved. While still liquid, immerse thin layers of carbolized absorbent cotton wool and allow them to dry. When required for use a small piece may be snipped off and slightly warmed, when it can be inserted into the hollow-tooth, where it will solidify. The ease produced by this simple method is really very great.

If our looking glasses tell us unpalatable truths, we may always see ourselves at our best in the mirrors of loving and friendly eyes. Let us at least study how to keep our hearts warm, to preserve as much sunshine as we may, and often count up what treasures we have garnered during the days of privilege. The warmth in our own hearts will depend upon our power to warm those of others. March Ladies' Home Journal.

Rise up ye Women that are at Ease

ONLY A DRUNKARD.

Only a drunkard! a pitiful thing, Whose rough, ragged raiment so closely doth cling To the rum stricken form; while the wintry winds rave

With the moans that will echo so soon 'round his grave. Yet pity him now, for the sake of the days

When his feet followed free in the happiest ways, And the marks on the fine open features, were not The skeleton brand of a sin-saddened sot.

Think of the time, ere the world drove him wild, When he lovingly laughed as an innocent child;

A mother prayed over him, over him wept, Taught him while walking and watched while he slept.

To crown him with culture, toiled early and late, And dreamed of a manhood both honored and great.

Somebody's darling, somebody's joy, Somebody's brother, somebody's boy, Somebody's hero, somebody's love, Worshipped as next to the Master above.

College friends flattered him, happy and gay, Conquering obstacles day after day—

Winning in wisdom the rich golden grain, Easy to him of the brilliant brain; Bright eyes grew brighter with love when he came,

Fond of his fancies and proud of his fame, And wept with delight and a worshipful pride, When he kissed her, and blessed her, and called her his bride,

'Twas then at the feast that he fell to his foe, As he drank to the day in the wine's ruddy glow.

Little by little before he fell, Following fate on the highway of hell; Deeper and deeper he followed it down, On to the damnable dens of the town,

Torturing, starving and cursing his wife, 'Till death gave release from her rum-ridden life;

And the city authorities laid her to rest, In a pauper's poor tomb with her babe on her breast.

How it pursued him! The Demon, desire; With its horrible thirst and its fancies of fire.

Forcing his feet to the terrible brink Of the pit in which rages the mad demon of drink,

Homeless, and hopeless, and loveless his lot, A whiskey-worm, rum-maddened, bottle-bound sot.

Only a drunkard! And yet let us throw Charity's cloak o'er his ways and his woe, Striving to lead him in love to the light, Piercing the gloom with the rays of the right—I, Edger Jones, in the Nat. Tem. Advocate.

Ask your druggist for Petty's Pills. If he hasn't got them write us, enclosing the price, 50 cents, and we will supply you.

Sunshine and Health.

Keep out the sunshine at your peril, dear housekeeper, says Good Housekeeping. Are the health and lives of your family less dear to your thrifty hearts than the freshness of carpets or curtains? We may be certain that a really intelligent person when driving about any locality whatever will form a correct idea of the mental status of the housekeepers about the road. Except in midsummer if he sees the shades drawn and blinds closed in the living and sleeping rooms he will conclude, that however intelligent housekeepers are in regard to current topics, they are ignorant of the science of life and health. That absolutely proves the presence of sunshine gives the best conditions for the germs of malaria, diphtheria, typhoid and consumption. It also lowers the whole tone of the bodily health and induces melancholy. Builders, often, too, even architects, show their lack of observation. Many a handsome dwelling has the hall and kitchen offices on the south and rooms in constant use on the north side of the house. Animals know enough to seek the sunny side of their shelters.

Do not scald milk receptacles by pouring the hot water from one to the other. It cools to rapidly to be effective on even the second can so treated. We should always bear in mind that the fungi and bacteria inhabiting milk vessels are of microscopic character, and seems which appear clear to the naked eye may in reality be teeming with millions of these vegetable organisms.

Petty's Pills are small—mere mites—but one is a dose, and every dose counts. There are no blanks.

A Conundrum.

"I heard the following conundrum," said R. A. Fallows, "which struck me as distinctly clever: 'What character is there in the Bible who possesses no name, who suffered death in different form from any inflicted before or since that time, a portion of whose shroud is in every household, and the cause of whose death has been made famous by a modern author?'"

"Give it up, eh? Well, the answer is, Lot's wife. She possesses no name; no one else met death through being turned into a pillar of salt; salt is in every household, and Edward Bellamy wrote 'Looking Backward,' so there you are."—New York Tribune.

The old-fashioned mother sometimes hears her daughter chatter to young men of subjects which even now bring a hot blush to her withered cheeks. But she does not reprove her. Susy has gone through college. She talks as flippantly of Huxley and Renan as if they had played with her in her cradle. She has spent a year without a chaperon in Dresden studying music. What is there that Susy does not know? How should this poor lady advise or correct her daughter as mothers used to do when they stood upon a higher plain than their children?—March Ladies' Home Journal.

Bob McCready.

Above is a splendid portrait of Bob McCready, one of the best football players in Canada. He is a member of the Ottawa University team, and has been in all of its championship matches. He is a splendid specimen of robust Canadian manhood, but, strong as he is, he has known what it is to suffer from dyspepsia. So seriously afflicted was he at the opening of the past (1899) season, that he was not able to go out with his team. Pains in the back and sides, intermittent headache, and the awful pangs he suffered after eating, the result of an impaired digestion, warned him that he was in no condition to play football, the hardest of all games. Besides, he lacked the energy to carry him through a campaign. He consulted his physician, but that gentleman gave him no relief. "At this stage," he writes, "I was advised to try Dr. Petty's Pills, the new remedy that one of my friends assured me was wonderful in its effects. I was skeptical, but he sounded their praises so persistently that I was at length induced to try them. The very first dose drove the pain away, and at the end of a week I rejoined my team, and I have come through one of our hardest seasons in the best form that I have ever been in. Dr. Petty's Pills are alone to thank for my fine condition. They are the best medicine I have ever taken. They make one so strong and so full of energy. I, for one, shall never take any others when I feel in need of a strengthener." Such is the recommendation of this well-known athlete, and such will be the experience of everyone who tries this wonderful remedy. If your druggist cannot supply you, write to us, enclosing price, 50 cents a bottle, six bottles for $2.50. Address The Dr. Petty Medicine Co., Ottawa, Canada.

In the Probate Court

Of Queens County.

To the Sheriff of the County of Queens or any Constable within the said County,
