Canadians took an Important part in bringing it about.

London, Feb. 27.-The War Office has also received the following additional despatch from Lord Roberts:

"PAARDERBERG, Feb. 27, 7.45 a. m .-General Cronje and all of his force capitulated unconditionally at daylight and is now a prisoner in my camp. The strength of his force will be communicated later. I hope that Her Majesty's Government will consider this matter satisfactory, occurring as it does on the anniversary of Majuba."

London, Feb. 27.—The Secretary of State for war, the Marquis of Lansdowne, announced in the House of Lords this afternoon that the prisoners captured with Cronje numbered 3,000 men. Cronje will be sent to Cape Towm.

PAARDERBERG, Feb. 27, 11.20 a. m.-From information furnished the intelligence department it became apparent that Cronje's forces were becoming very depressed; discontent among his troops and discord among the leaders rapidly in-

This apparently clinched matters, for at daylight a letter signed by Cronje, in which he surrendered unconditionally, was brought to our outposts under a flag

My reply told Cronje that he must present himself in my camp and his force must come out of their laager after laying down their arms. At 7 a. m. I received Cronje and despatched a telegram announcing the fact.

morning.

Frequent cheers were given for "Bobs" who is the hero of the hour, and one of the old soldiers became so excited in recounting the details of the victory that he fell dead.

In more frequent parts of the metropolis flags were few and far between and in Pall Mall where the war office is situated there was not a bit of bunting flying, while only one flag flow over the Strand. But in the east end of London there were many small flags waving from windows and squalid dwellings and as evenunrestrained enthusiasm.

The situation is certainly extremely favorable to the British and the relief of Ladysmith is regarded as a foregone conclusion within a few days; skilful movements of French's or some other division of Roberts' army should succeed in hemming in a large force of Boers between Roberts and Gatacre and it is expected that Roberts will immediately advance against Bloemfontein, towards which place a column was advancing before Cronje's surrender. This column probably found itself opposed by Joubert with an army partly drawn from Natal and partly from Northern Cape Colony and Pretoria. It would be useless to speculate regarding the Boers plan of campaign but there appears little reason to credit the many rumors that it is the intention of the Boers soon to sue for peace.

Correspondents with Roberts have not yet succeeded in forwarding details of the termination of Cronje's resistance but there are brief references to a final attack by the Canadians and their comrades which indicates that they charged among the Boers.
