

LOVE.

BY FRANK J. BROWN.

(Article No. 16.)

Love is the main-spring to every Division of Sons of Temperance that is true to his mission to "destroy the destroyer of millions, to conquer the enemy of our people, and to promote the virtue and happiness of mankind."

Not that kind of love that is described in romance, or that which makes "Silly fools" grow still more "fooler", but that divine attribute so broad as to embrace the entire race of man.

Bewilder a victim of intemperance with logical argument, or pile up reason and "wherefores", and you often strike a death blow to their lingering self-respect.

Condemn him, shun him, create a clan in the Division-room, and you make him think he is a thing to be abhorred; leave him to himself, sick in body and mind and weary in spirit, and he will fall still lower into the vortex of ruin.

Condemn him not; give him the warm hand of brotherly love, a helping, sustaining hand. You need not descend with him to his degradations, but enfold him with your sympathy to draw him upward to a purer and better life.

There is no nobler work than saving men from being drunkards; but to be successful requires patience, self sacrifice, and above all, a whole souled personal interest—a heart pulsating with love for humanity—and seeing in every man a child of our common Father.

Temperance societies are doing a great deal, but not a tithe of what they are capable. Many are in the temperance ranks for position, honor, personal gratification or amusement.

Division rooms should be as inviting and attractive in all their appointments as possible, but real temperance work should not be forgotten or neglected, though its duties may be hard requiring a sad knowledge of humanity's weakness that we would fain be blind to, and an acquaintance with wickedness and misery in all its wretched hideousness. If we have a particle of the element of a true lady or gentleman, seasoned with a desire to be true to our obligations, we will strive to make the Division room attractive to the ill-favored and less attractive members. Let us banish our personal love affairs till a more appropriate time and occasion, remembering that our work does demand much of the heart throbbing with a great, warm compassionate Love for humanity. Love is a duty we owe to our neighbor and our God, and its influence in the Division is salutary. Laconica, N. H., U. S. A.

New Jersey Notes.

WESTFIELD.

On Thursday evening, February 14th, Westfield Division, No. 217, held a sociable in the W. C. T. U. room, that reflected much credit upon those having it in charge. The rooms were filled to repletion, and an elaborate programme, consisting of addresses, recitations, vocal and instrumental music, was presented and thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

We note the death of one of the former members of the Division, Van P. Drake, who resided at Montrose, N. J. Rev. N. W. Cadwell and other members of the Division were present at the funeral ceremonies. Appropriate action has been taken by the Division, and a committee consisting of Bros. Alfred W. Burdick, W. J. Conroy and H. B. Miller have drafted resolutions expressive of the regard and esteem in which he was held by his associates. A. G.

OCEAN CITY.

Six propositions for membership were read on Thursday evening, the 14th ult., in Ocean Wave Division, No. 206. This Division is being greatly prospered, and its future appears bright with promise.

The Deputy, Bro. Wm. Lake, who is a P. W. P. of this Division, was in New Brunswick on the 21st and 22d ult., attending the sessions of the Grand Lodge of the K. of P., of which order he is also a prominent member. The celebration of the 25th anniversary on the eve of the 21st ult. proved of so great interest that the delegates, who are also S. of T., were prevented from meeting with Columbia Division, No. 200, and the District Division (Middlesex, No. 2) as was expected. A. G.

NEWARK.

On Friday evening, March 8th, Searles Division, No. 31, will celebrate its twentieth anniversary at their new rooms, 194 Market street. The grand officers are expected to be present, and an invitation is also extended to all members of the National Division representing the state of New Jersey to be present with us on the occasion, and let it be one to be remembered by all present. SOUTH RIVER.

Washington Division has had a steady growth since last November, the time of its organization. It started with fourteen charter members—until now it numbers about twenty-five members. Meetings are held every week, and the interest in the cause is constantly increasing.—Canada Gazette.

What Prohibition Would Do.

What if every saloon in the United States and every other place where liquors is sold or given away for drinking purposes could be closed, and hermetically sealed for one year, can any man estimate the advantage that would result both to the laboring man and the capitalist? The closing up of these drinking holes would be a saving to the laboring men of this country of not less than $500,000,000 every year, for that is the amount which, according to the most reliable statistics, the laboring men spend annually for intoxicating drinks. The saving of this $500,000,000 to the laboring men would certainly greatly improve the condition of the men and their families. It would not only relieve them from the physical and moral effects caused by drink and drunkenness, but it would add to their homes many of the comforts and conveniences of which they are now deprived. It would give them more wholesome food, better clothes, and good homes instead of hovels to live in. The effect on capitalists and manufacturers would be equally relieved. Stagnation in trade would give way to activity. Idle capital which has for so long a time been stored away in bank vaults would find investment. Prices both of labor and of the products of labor would be improved.—The Lever

No Place for Saloons.

The saloons in Van Wert, Ohio are closed, and drinks can not be had for love or money. There is no excitement in town, but the county is aroused, and already petitions are in circulation to submit saloon closing to a vote in at least three townships, and more are coming. There is, however, great excitement in Union Township, where a saloon has been driven out and the building torn down. F. C. Arnold, who went out of business in Van Wert on account of the dry ordinance, attempted to remove his saloon to Covette, a station six miles north of there, on the Mackinaw Railroad. He bought a building and the other morning hauled two wagon loads of goods and fixtures to his new location, where upon his arrival he met a warm reception. The country people, old and young, rich and poor, joined the villagers the night before and tore down the house. The sills were chopped into fire wood. A person who was present says there was not enough left of the building to make a bee-hive. When Arnold arrived there was assembled a crowd estimated at two hundred, most of them armed with axes, while the leader swung a rope. Arnold and his men were given five minutes to leave town, and they obeyed the command, the women encouraging the men by waving handkerchiefs and cheering, and the entire concourse escorted the wagons three miles to the township line, where they were given a parting cheer and were warned to never return.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Coffee Houses in Brooklyn.

It is a Prohibition axiom that whatever touches the money-till of the saloon touches its life. A practical agency in this direction has been in use for a number of years. It is the coffee-house. The general object of these coffee-houses is to furnish wholesome and warm food and drink, which, in the spirit of benevolence accompanying their foundation, is sold at cost. In every city there are hundreds of men who, with a few hours' leisure each day, spend it at the saloon. By this listless loafing they are put in a way to become drunkards. Because a man is looked upon as having no business in a saloon if he does not drink. Many, with a large measure of manhood left, revolt at this condition. It is a sad condition of affairs, because the various institutions for young men's protection in a large city are practically out of the reach of such as this sketch refers to. To such the coffee-house is a boon and a safeguard. Its well-furnished free reading rooms, its wholesome drinks and food, the price of which is suited to a slender purse, claim their presence, and the thirst producing saloon lunch, with its dangerous accompaniment, the glass of beer or ale, is left altogether, or partaken of but rarely.

Why One Man Stopped Drinking.

Charles E. Johnson writes to the New York Witness: I am a railroad man, and previous to six weeks ago was a hard drinker. Let me tell, for the benefit of other young men, how I came to stop using it. Three companions and myself met by chance in Kansas City, and had been "having a time," when one day a young railroad man was badly injured by the cars. Somebody offered him a glass of whiskey. He said: "No, I promised no!" "promised who?" somebody asked. "My mother," he replied. "Take a little, it may save your life," somebody said. "No, not to save my life—I promised." I thought then what I had promised my own mother when I left home, and then and there I resolved before God never to touch a drop again, and God helping me, I never will. My companions made the same resolve. I think those few words did more good in that crowd than a thousand lectures.

There is a School Ship stationed at Newport, Rhode Island. Previous to the prohibitory liquor law being enforced there, as many as eleven young men have come on board under the influence of liquor in one day. During the year 1888, 5193 apprentices have been granted liberty ashore. We are glad to learn that out of that number, only eleven have, during the whole year, returned on board under the influence of liquor. Mother, think of your boys here under drink temptation and work for prohibition.
