We beg to call the attention of intending purchasers to the UNEQUALLED QUALITIES OF THE DOHERTY ORGAN, As the following testimonial will show.
MESSRS. THOMPSON & CO.
Gentlemen:—After a thorough examination of several organs manufactured by Messrs. Doherty & Co., for which you are the General Agent, I have much pleasure in stating that the result has been most satisfactory. The tone is good, and the touch faultless, and I have no hesitation in saying that they are deserving of the high reputation they have already attained.

A GREAT MASTER OF MEN.
A MIGRATORY WESTERN WIDOW WITH A GREAT FUNERAL RECORD.
A weather-beaten woman, of melancholy and discouraged mind, sat in front of a drummer on a railroad train. She was clad in rusty mourning and her appearance indicated that her loss was recent. When near Chicago she turned to the drummer and asked:
What place are we coming to next?
Chicago, madam.
Lemme see; that's in Illinois, ain't it?
Yes—certainly.
I'd ort to know, but had forgot I ben in Illinois. I buried my first husband there 'bout 20 years ago.
Indeed!
Yes and from Illinois I went to Iowa. I buried my second man out in Iowa and I ain't been there since. That was 18 years ago. Went down to South Carlmly from Iowa.
Oh! did you? I've been there.
You hev? Ever been to a place called Black Snake Forks? No? Well, Hen Dodson lays there.
Who was Mr. Dodson?
My third man and a right smart fellow he was. He had a cousin named Hi Hagget. Ever run across Hi?
I think not.
You'd know if you had. Everybody liked Hi. Him and me were married in Georgy, and he is buried nine miles from Atlanty.
Oh! indeed! And do you live in Georgia now?
Land, no! Ain't set foot there for mor'n a dozen years. I went from Georgy away up to Minnesoty, and I met Tom Hixon up there.
Tom Hixon?
Yes, him and me lived most a year there after we were married, when a blamed old white mule we had kicked Tom so fatally, that I had to bury him under the snow one cold day near St. Paul, and sold off and went to Kansas, near Atchison, and tuk up a quarter section o' land jinin' a real smart man named Dill.
And you—
Yes, I married Dill, and he tuk chills and fever fore three months and left me a widdier fore the year was out. I can tell you I've had mighty bad luck.
I should think so.
That's what I have. There was Ben Barber; after me and him was married out in Californy we got along splendid and was making money fast, when all of a sudden Ben goes head first down a 900 foot shaft, and of course I was a widdier fore the poor fellow ever struck bottom.
Then you left Californy?
Yes I stayed there eight or nine months and then Bob wanted to—
Bob who?
On, Bob White! He was Ben's partner and never gave me no peace till I married him. He is buried in the Black Hills.
Great Cesar! cried the drummer, do you make a business of going around the country burying husbands?
The widdier put her handkerchief to her eyes and said in keen rebuke;
That's a purty way to talk to a lone widdier, that's got her husband's cawpee in a baggage car ahead, a takin' him out to Dakoty to lay him aside his kinfolks. You ort to be ashamed to be so onfeelin'!

Household Hints.
Vegetables are best stored in a room by themselves.
Sweet, light, fine-grained bread, twenty-four hours old makes the best sandwiches.
Never send to the table the same food for three meals in succession, unless varied in some way.
A cool cellar aired on a warm day will gather moisture. To avoid this open the windows in the evenings.
Half a teaspoonful of common table salt, dissolved in a little cold water and drank, will instantly relieve heartburn.
One pound and a half of copperas dissolved in a gallon of water makes an excellent disinfectant for the kitchen sink.
Scraps are a regular savings bank for the good cook. The greatest possible variety of good things can be made out of them.
Fruit that has been canned or preserved can be dried by skimming it out of the liquid and treating the same as tomato figs.
After cleaning lamps and wiping them dry, turn the wick down below the top of the burner. This prevents oil on the outside of the burner.
A good cook throws away nothing. Every piece of bread, every inch of meat, every particle of vegetable can be turned into something palatable.

SPEED OF TRAINS.
Inquiry is frequently made as to how the speed of a train may be estimated. Railway Review suggests three methods, as follows:
1. Watch for the passage of the train by the large white mile posts with black figures upon them, and divide 3,600 by the time in seconds between posts. The result is the speed in miles per hour.
2. Listen attentively until the ear distinguishes the click, click, click of the wheel as it passes a rail joint. The number of clicks upon one side of the car in twenty seconds is the speed in miles per hour, where the rails are thirty feet in length, and this is the case generally.
3. Count the number of telegraph poles passed in two minutes, if there are four or five wires to a pole, and in two minutes and twenty seconds if there are only one or two lines per pole. The number of miles per hour at which the train is travelling.

Cardinal Manning recently delivered a remarkable discourse, in which he gave a very gloomy picture of London and the disintegration of human society in these latter days; London is a desolation beyond that of any city in the christian world. Four millions of human beings of whom 2,000,000 have never set foot in any place of christian worship; and among these 2,000,000 God only knows how few have been baptized and how few have been born again of water and of the Holy Ghost. London is a wilderness. It is like Rome of old—a pool into which all the nations of the world streamed together and all the sins of all the nations of the world were continually flowing. Such is London at this day.

UNCLE ESEK'S WISDOM.
The man who knows most himself is the best judge of his neighbor.
What mankind wants is mercy. Justice would ruin most of them.
Habits, reputations and opinions are very changing, but character is always the same.
There are heroes in every department of life,—a faithful servant is one of them.
He who is a fool and knows it can very easily pass himself off for a wise man.
The man who has a little more to do than he can attend to has no time to be miserable.
It may be possible for three persons to keep a secret, providing two of them are dead.
Metaphysics seems to be the science of knowing more than we can tell, and at the same time telling more than we know.
Whatever we get in this world we not only have got to ask for, but to insist upon; giving away things is not a human weakness.

NIPPED IN THE BUD.
Husband (first night after going down from wedding tour)—I am going down to the club to-night, love, and, as I haven't seen the boys for a long time, I may be late, so you needn't wait up for me.
Wife (who had been warned by her mother that this crisis in the matrimonial history was sure to arrive sooner or later)—As you have never left me alone before, dear, since our marriage, I am afraid I would feel very lonely in your absence, so I think I will go to the theatre. If you are home before me you need not wait up, or I can let myself in with the latch key.
H—But you cannot go to the theatre unattended my love.
W—I will not go unattended. Cousin Jack is home from his yachting cruise. I will call on him and ask him to be my escort. If he isn't in, I will find somebody else. You needn't worry about me.
H—(who used to be dreadfully jealous of Cousin Jack)—Your cousin Jack is home then?
W—Yes and you needn't fear that I shall be dull in his company. Jack is very entertaining you know.
H (after pondering a while)—On second thoughts I don't think I'll go to the club, love.
W. (demurely). On second thoughts I don't think I'll go to the theatre, dear.

DEVELOPING THE FATHERLY INSTINCT.
Miss Willard says that the boys should be encouraged to play with dolls as well as the girls. And I agree with her. The fatherly instinct needs more developing in the men than the maternal instinct in the women. Perhaps if little boys played with dolls and nursed them through lurid complications of fell disease as girls do, labored over their support and bent their backs and pricked their fingers fashioning their wardrobes and darning their rent garments, we would hear of fewer cases of desertion of flesh and blood families by good for nothing fathers. Do not be afraid of making your boy effeminate and a "Miss Nancy" by encouraging him in gentle ways and play. Would you not in the end prefer a developing that should stand high among good men and angels to a development like that of the John L. Sullivan type or the modern baseball player? The boy that is taught to play with dolls will seldom, if ever become a bruiser or a bully—"Amber" in Chicago Journal.

MANHOOD.
How Lost How Restored.
JUST published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure of Spermatorrhea or incapacity induced by excess or early indiscretion.
The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of early error may be radically cured pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself chiefly, privately and radically.
This lecture should be in the hand every youth and every man in the land.
