Lawson and Greene Are Face to Face Today

READY FOR FIGHT.

Boston Capitalist and New York Copper Said Nasty Things to Each Other...

Boston, Dec. 16.—Thomas W. Lawson, the Boston speculator, whose active campaign in the advertising columns of the newspapers against Amalgamated Copper shares has attracted much attention called at the Hotel Touraine here this forenoon to meet Colonel William C. Greene, of New York.

When introduced that Col. Greene was at breakfast. Mr. Lawson sat in his chair. The colonel continued his meal and sent word to Mr. Lawson that he would see him as soon as he had finished eating.

How do you do, Mr. Lawson, exclaimed Col. Greene with a smile, as he extended his hand to greet his financial adversary.

Mr. Lawson said that he did not receive word from Col. Greene that the latter was in Boston.

POLICE COURT.

John Fairbanks, charged with drunkenness and impeding foot-passengers on Mill street, last night was in court this morning.

Officer Crawford stated that about seven o'clock last night Fairbanks and four others were putting people off the sidewalk and taking possession of the street generally.

The "Etolio" goes from here to South Africa.

His honor lectured the prisoner severely. In the course of his remarks he observed that there had been altogether too much of this sort of thing in the city and it should be put a stop to.

Mone Guillim is at the I. C. R. station and according to all reports is liable to stay there for a day or so. He is an Italian and has for some time been working at Sydney.

What next is to be done with him? There is no Canadian detention hospital here. Presumably he will be allowed to roam wherever he wills on Canadian soil.

A SAILOR MAN.

Whose Woes Were Aired in the Police Court Today.

Cwen Newell, who was given in charge by Captain C. E. Harvey, steamer "Etolio" for refusing to be an artful seaman, was before the magistrate this morning.

Newell is a native of England and signed articles for a term of two years, which will expire on the 24th of December, 1905.

The captain stated that Newell shipped at fifteen shillings a month. He had been acting badly, and his pay was reduced to ten shillings and later to five.

According to Newell's own statement he had on all occasions done his best, but the captain had invariably found fault with his work, and he had only refused duty because he "could not get on".

Among other charges recorded against him in the log is one for refusing to obey the officer's commands.

Captain Harvey, when asked by the magistrate if he would take the young man back aboard the ship, said that would be of no use, for he would not work, and that he had no place to put him.

Newell, who was warned that he was liable for a term in prison, was remanded until the ship sails.
