THE RING.

Ferguson and Hageby. (Portland Express.)

There is every indication of a big crowd in the Army on Thanksgiving afternoon to see the bout between the big fellows, Sandy Ferguson and Chas. Hageby.

Ferguson as is well known, and belongs to Moncton, N. B. is perhaps the only man in sight just now who is a possibility for an eventual match with Jim Jeffries. Ferguson is big, fast young and clever with a hard punch and plenty of sand.

In his opponent, Hageby, he will have a man not as large, but very clever, a good ring general and able to stand lots of punishment.

Ferguson is taking no chances and is training hard at Hampden. When he goes into the ring on Thursday afternoon he will be in the pink of condition.

Hageby will arrive today. He has been training faithfully, and is said to be in fine condition.

There will be a fast preliminary. The main bout will be called at 8.30. Ferguson and Hageby are to fight this afternoon.

Littlejohn Matched.

Dan Littlejohn will go to Sydney, C. B., on the 2nd of December to box an unknown. Dan is in good condition and is taking the best of care of himself.

Jack Twin vs. McCoy.

Although reports come from the east that Jack ("Twin") Sullivan, of Boston, and Kid McCoy will not meet for a second time, the match has already been made and probably the men will face each other the first part of next month in Los Angeles.

A number of local clubs are after the bill, but as yet the fighters have not decided which one to accept.

Sullivan has gone to Sheehan's Road House to train, while the Hoosier boxer is putting in light training licks about this vicinity. McCoy says that he is in fairly good condition and that it will take him less than a week to round himself about to meet the baldheaded fighter from the east.

Sullivan is confident of swimming, and has several times remarked that he will surely knock McCoy out. On the other hand, McCoy says he will put Sullivan away in short order when they face each other for the second time.

A Fake Fight.

Philadelphia, Nov. 23.—The fight between Tommy Ryan, the middle-weight champion and Jack Root, of Chicago, the light heavyweight, which was scheduled to go six rounds at the National Athletic Club tonight, was ended in the middle of the fourth round by the referee, Jack McGuigan, pronouncing it a fake.

It was one of the most unsatisfactory pugilistic affairs ever held here and the spectators long before the referee stopped the bout, showed their disapproval. Trouble was averted by the prompt work of the police in jumping into the ring and protecting the fighters and in clearing the hall. The managers of both fighters vehemently protested against the action of the referee, but they found few sympathizers in the crowd.

Referee McGuigan said the men were guaranteed $2,500, which they insisted upon getting before entering the ring. As they had the money he could do nothing but stop the exhibition. He declared the club lost $1,800 on the venture.

ATHLETICS.

Cross Country Runners.

New York, Nov. 23.—The annual inter-collegiate cross-country championship was won today by the team representing Cornell University, four of her men finishing in the first five.

The time of the first man, E. T. Newman, was 32:35. Cornell was first with 12 points; Pennsylvania, second with 41 points; Yale third with 51 points; Harvard fourth with 52 points, and Columbia fifth with 73 points.

The course measured a little over six miles.

FOOTBALL.

Was a Good Player.

"Have you heard from your son?" "Yes, got a letter this morning."

"How does he like college?" "Great. He's on the football eleven already."

"Is he a good player?" "I should say he was. He wasn't on the team two days when he had a rib cracked, and to-day's letter informs me that he broke his leg in Saturday's game. I guess that's going it some. Why, Jones' boy has been at college two years, and has never had his hair matted."—Albany Journal.

Hard on Players' Brains.

Football players, according to Jere Delaney, trainer of the Northwestern University eleven, are subject to an ailment similar to softening of the brain, which leads not only to the making of peculiar statements but causes strange actions which sometimes are amusing.

The exact cause of the trouble, Trainer Delaney said he is unable to fathom. He declared, however, that it results more from the long continued physical and nervous strain to which the men are subjected during the three months of rigid training which they are forced to undergo, than from the blows, kicks and blows they receive on their skulls during the games.

"It is known," said Delaney, "that every player of the game fights his game over and over again in his dreams, but only by the men who are in closest touch with the players is it recognized that they are given to day dreaming during which they make strange motions as if struggling with an imaginary opponent."

According to Delaney the athletes are given to almost childish methods of play when at rest. An instance related by the trainer was of a man who during more than an hour pored over a map of the United States, drawing lines with his index finger and imagining he was traveling over the country which his finger crossed.

Paterson, N. J., Nov. 23.—When Homer J. Merton and Miss Sophia G. Wilson, both of Plainfield, N. J., were married Saturday, they went through a ceremony which they believed had been performed legally three years ago. The wedding occurred Saturday afternoon in the office of Justice of the Peace F. J. Canning, on Grand street, this city, three years almost to the day from the time that the pair had been legally married, as they believed.

The affair between the twain had its inception a few evenings after the fall election of 1901. They had been attentive to each other for some time, and it was natural that both should be invited to a party that was given in their neighborhood. Among the guests, as well, was a young man who had been elected a justice of the peace for Plainfield, and when the merriment was at its height some one suggested that he should celebrate his elevation to judicial honors by holding a mock trial.

The suggestion was met as being too tame, and one young woman, in her enthusiasm said: "Don't talk about mock trials, but let us have a marriage—not a mock one, but the real thing."

The suggestion took like the proverbial wildfire, and soon there were many busy eyes scanning the room for an eligible couple. The gaze centered upon Merton and Miss Wilson. Their attention to each other was well known among the merry-makers, who also knew that they were shortly to be united. There was a general acclaim for their marriage instant, and as the embryo justice declared himself ready to break himself into one of the more pleasurable duties of his office, the request for the performance developed into a persistent demand.

"If you can only persuade the lady," said Merton, "I'm willing."

As a matter of course Miss Wilson objected to such undue haste, pleading no preparation of her trousseau, but after a consultation with Merton that was replete with whispers, smirks and blushes, she consented, and the wedding was performed amid gleeful congratulations.

With his supposed bride, Merton established a household and they lived together until this week in blissful ignorance of their never having been made man and wife. They noticed that the man who had pronounced them a justice of the peace but they them as one never followed the vociferous dreamer for a moment that it was because he had not qualified for the office by having his commission sworn out. Neither were they aware that at the time that the supposed marriage took place that the justice was unable to fulfill the duties of his office until the following May, as the New Jersey law prescribes. It was not until this week that the truth of their position dawned on them.

A friend of Merton who had some knowledge of public affairs took him aside and informed him that the man who thought that he had married him and Miss Wilson had never any right to attempt such a ceremony, and that Merton was no more the husband of the young woman, than was he, the friend.

Merton imparted the startling information to the supposed wife, and the latter demanded that a proper ceremony be performed. He was equally anxious to have the matrimonial tangle straightened and Saturday the pair journeyed to this city and were married by Justice Canning.

STEAMER KILKEEL SOLD. (Yarmouth Herald, Nov. 22.)

The steamer Kilkeel has again changed hands and is now the property of Mr. Novins, Parrsboro. The Kilkeel recently lost her propeller and was docked at Bathurst for repairs, which have been effected and she has left for a Nova Scotia point, her first trip under her new owner's management. Just what route the Kilkeel will go on is not known, but is thought that she will be kept on the north shore. This steamer has had rather a hard time since she was booked for service on this side of the water. She was purchased in England some few years ago by a Nova Scotia company and after several unsuccessful attempts finally reached this side of the water. Since then she has been engaged on various routes and a little time ago it was intended to run her between Amherst and St. John. An old wharf was rebuilt near Amherst, but the deal fell through and the steamer went into the coal business between Cape Breton and the north shore.

THE SILENT HOUR. The clarion in the distance fades. The echoes of the full mouthed pack Painter and fainter travel back: The western sky gleams through the glades; The shadow grows more deep and black.

The vesper bell its gentle call Sounds through the ever whispering shades; The space of twilight all pervades, While here the blue hills rise and fall The far off horn, forgotten, fades.
