The Rise in the Stock, and the Security's Position as Regards the Future.

(New York paper.)

The advance in the common stock of the United States Steel Corporation has been striking enough to call for some discussion of the stock's real position. The price touched 27½ last Wednesday, in May it sold at 8½. This week's price is the highest reached since July 15. 1903; it compares with a high price of 46½ in 1902 and of 55 in April 1901, the maximum of its history. This recovery of 19 points, in the past six months, is not, it is true, as large as the rise in steel preferred which has gained no less the "lambs" to Wall street.
