ARMY WORK IN CANADA.

Commissioner Eva THE WINTER'S Booth Talks of the Salvation Soldiers.

AND BIDS FAREWELL

To the Dominion Where ... A Story of Progress.

Speaking of the advance of the army work in Canada, during her regime as commissioner, Miss Booth said—'One of the features of our progress is in our properties, we have built a great many valuable properties, lodge rooms, meeting latter being for children. During the past five years, we have built 138 properties. That would be at a cost of $1,000,000. This amount necessary for the meeting of $1,000,000. This amount necessary for the commissioner referred to the conditions that the could not say "have another: that he could not say "have another: the could

The commissioner also explained the Salvation army immigration project and how successfully it is working out. She also referred to the marked advancement of the army in the eastern provinces. "Our own soldiers" contributions, for the support of their corps, have' she said, "increased $14,000 per year. The general income increased $83,000. The contributions from the general public reached $480,000."

Miss Booth also referred to the presion fund and to the great work accomplished by the army in Newfoundland.

Asked, where she was going from Canada, Miss Booth answered, that she could not say officially, nor could she say who her successor would be.
