Halifax, N. S., Oct. 26-(Special). Halifax, N. S., Oct. 26—(Special).

—News has been received here of a boy's miraculous escape from death at Bay Roberts, Nild. His name was Jacob Mercer, aged nine, and he, with a number of others was on "Big Head" watching a steamer going out of the harbour. He went too near the edge, lost his footing, and fell over the cliff, which at that place is 220 feet high. The little chap reached the bottom without receiving any injuries and was picked up by a boat, which had put off when the accident occurred.

ren is disturbingly large, but it is happily, the case that the great staple trade, of the district, the potting industry, is only partially responsible for this state of affairs.

Owing to the disruption of trade caused by the presidential election in America, trade with the United States is bad, and the good time which some boasted was coming at the Cape when the war was over thems as far off as the millennium. Local trade with South Africa is alarmingly bad, but, despite this, employment in the potting trade, as a whole, is fairly good. It is in the coal and iron trade which give employment to many thousand bread, winners in the district, that trade is so bad. Undercutting from other parts of the country has taken many promising iron and steel orders from the Potteries, and the open weather.
