

THE BANQUET TO HON. DR. PUGSLEY.

A Brilliant Function Admirably Planned and Successfully Carried Out—Hon. Mr. Blair Presided and There Were Over 200 Guests—Clever Speeches by Well Known Public Men.

Caledonia Springs, Oct. 7.—(Special.)—David Russell made a great contribution last night to the unification of Canada by the remarkable in many respects unique function which he gave at his great hotel at Caledonia Springs.

It was no small matter to bring, as he did, into the heart of the old colony of Canada a representative delegation of one hundred and fifty of the leading men of the maritime provinces, to meet an almost equal number of the mercantile and professional leaders of Ontario and Quebec. It was an enterprise that could only have been carried to success by a man of large ideas and national aspirations. But the success which Mr. Russell achieved was immediate and unqualified.

Even had the dinner done nothing more than introduce to the west in so striking a manner as it did the picturesque personality and lavish enterprise of Mr. Russell himself, it would have been well worth undertaking. It did far more than this. It served also to show the representatives of the larger provinces the extraordinary hold which Hon. William Pugsley has upon the affections of his fellow subjects by the sea, and to enable men of the west as well as the east to consider together the claims that the present Attorney General of New Brunswick, may have upon a wider sphere of action and a more extended public service.

The result was a remarkable demonstration of belief in Mr. Pugsley's capacity to fill any place to which the dominion may call him. His own protestations of anxiety to remain in his present sphere of usefulness found no sympathy among his hearers, and the whole gathering seemed convinced that the public interest would at no distant date require his advancement.

The Hon. Ex-Minister of Railways, himself, both by his presence and by his extremely eulogistic language, lent the full weight of his influence to the cause of Attorney General's admirers. No more perfectly organized act of hospitality has been seen in this section than the entertainment provided by Mr. Russell for his guests. Brought to his palatial hotel by special train, they found that every possible precaution had been taken to make them feel at home. The entire road way from the Station to the Hotel entrance was lined with Chinese lanterns. The three hundred rooms in the hotel were all placed at the disposal of Mr. Russell's guests, and the banquet provided for them was a piece of catering class as has never been seen in Canada, outside of the metropolitan centres. Music was provided by Montreal's best orchestra, and five of her leading vocalists. But even with these attractions, the speaking remained right up to the last minute of the programme, the gathering's chief feature.

Hon. Mr. Blair Presides.

At the table of honor was the chairman, Hon. A. G. Blair, while on his left was the guest of the evening, Hon. Wm. Pugsley, and on his right, the host, David Russell. At the same table sat S. H. Ewing, Sir Alward, C. N. Skinner, Donald MacMaster, Judge Ritchie, Hon. H. F. McLatchey, James Robinson, M. P., Hon. A. A. Thibault, Justice Burbridge, Hon. F. P. Thompson, Hon. Wm. Owens, Col. J. J. Tucker, Hon. F. J. Sweeney, W. T. Whitehead, David MacLean, and J. N. Greenshields.

Somewhat more than 200 guests were seated at the tables. A description of the reception given the party who came all the way from St. John to attend the banquet would be incomplete without reference to the very brilliant illuminations throughout the spacious park surrounding the hotel, as well as along the avenue leading to the station. Electric lights and Chinese lanterns combined to produce an effect of fairy-like loveliness.

Before commencing the toast list, the chairman, Hon. A. G. Blair, announced communications of regret at inability to attend from Lord Strathcona, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. R. P. Montano, Sir William Hingston, R. E. Borden, Sir Adolphe Caron, Sir William VanHorne, Hon. Mr. Tweedie, Senator Wark, Sir W. C. MacDonald, Hon. S. N. Parent, Sir George Drummond, and Sir MacKenzie Bowell, as well as a communication from a largely attended meeting on Wednesday night at Rothesay (N. B.), for many years the summer home of Hon. Mr. Pugsley, expressing the warm appreciation of those present of the high honor conferred by the banquet to be tendered Hon. Mr. Pugsley.

HON. DR. PUGSLEY'S SPEECH.

It was 11.40 p. m. when Hon. Mr. Pugsley rose to respond to the toast. He was received by waving of handkerchiefs and prolonged cheers, and when the ovation had subsided he said:

"You can readily understand how greatly touched I necessarily am by the magnificent demonstration which has been given in my honor tonight. I desire in the first place to say that I shall always cherish the memory of this night as the proudest event of my life. No matter what may be in store for me in the future, there will never come to me any occasion upon which I shall be prouder of the honor done me than that conferred upon me by my friend, Mr. Russell, in tendering me this banquet and bringing together so many distinguished men, not only from my own province, but from the provinces of Quebec and Ontario, for the purpose of doing me honor. (Applause.)

"I thank him most sincerely, and I thank him from the bottom of my heart for your attendance here tonight and for the very warm demonstration of welcome given me. My friend the chief justice of the railway commission—(laughter)—has been too kind and flattering to me altogether. I recognize a fact to which he referred, that he discovered me, I remember away back in 1885 in rather a singular manner he, as the leader of the government, had approved of a candidate in my own county as a supporter of the government, and my friend Judge Ritchie, the solicitor general under Mr. Blair, and was about going into Kings county for the purpose of electing this gentleman as government candidate. I had been born in that county, in the village of Sussex, one of the fairest spots I may say upon God's earth. (Hear, hear.) I recognized in him a man of great ability, who would discharge with the utmost satisfaction to the people the important duties of premier, and I made up my mind I would support him. I declared myself warmly in support of Hon. Mr. Blair. The result was I was elected by a very handsome majority. That was some fifteen years ago, and from that time down to the present I am proud to be able to say I have enjoyed in a degree somewhat unusual the confidence and support and affection of the people of my native county. Some time after I had gone to the legislature, Mr. Blair approved of my appointment, and it is due in a great measure to him that I occupy the responsible position that I hold today.

"Mr. Blair is out of politics and therefore, I can without impropriety say that you who come from the province of New Brunswick know him as one of the ablest statesmen whom the people of that province have ever honored, and the splendid reception you gave him tonight, the acclaim with which you have honored his name, show that he is still dear to the hearts of the people of Canada. He is occupying a position in which he will be able to do great service to the people of the country, and I trust he will be for many years able to continue to perform the important duties he has been called upon to fulfill by the crown. I am glad that he has honored us by presiding at this gathering, but I am especially glad that upon my right is Mr. Justice Burbridge, (applause), with whom, some thirty-six years ago, when we were boys together, we performed what we thought was an important duty in connection with the legislative work of the day. We were both students at law and were glad to enlarge our slender incomes by taking charge of the legislative reporting, and I think it was not long before we ran the whole house. (Laughter.)

"It is exceedingly gratifying to me that his lordship has found it convenient to come here and honor us. Mr. Justice Burbridge is a judge of one of our most important courts. I seem to have been left behind. (Renewed laughter.)

"I want to say this to you, that while I am only a humble member of the government of one small province of this dominion I do not believe there is any position in this country which is more agreeably pleasant and satisfactory to one who is fond of his profession than that of attorney general of one of the provinces of Canada. I think my friend the chairman would say he never occupied a position which gave him more pleasure and satisfaction than that of attorney general of New Brunswick. Perhaps you will pardon me for being a little bit personal tonight, but I want to say that I am very glad to fill that position so long as the people want me.

"It has been suggested by some of our friends managing the newspapers of the country that I have aspirations to another, a larger and more important sphere. I desire to say to you tonight too much stress has been laid upon my aspirations in that particular, and of the people to continue to occupy that position. I am not looking for any one's old shoes, because I have a very nice fitting pair in the office of attorney general (laughter), and I am quite minded to continue to occupy them."

"In addition to the gentlemen I have mentioned I see around this board senators, members of the legislature from my own province, and I am glad to see on my left two gentlemen occupying distinguished positions in the ranks of the opposition in the legislature who have come to this banquet, which is non-political, to testify their personal friendship for myself and bear testimony, it is possible, for us in political life to fight our battles as fiercely and warmly as possible, and yet at times we can throw off political acrimony and meet like those bearing testimony to each other's worth, and whether in the government or in opposition serve the best interests of our country. (Applause.)

"We have tonight after the remarks I am making some other toasts, one of which is Canada, our Country. I am not going to anticipate of the splendid welcome you have given me this evening."

ELOQUENT BOSTONIAN.

The Hon. J. H. O'Neill of Boston was called on to propose the toast of "Canada." The Speaker, who is the manager of the Federal Trust Co., of that city, made a most witty and captivating speech, in the course of which he alluded to the course of which he alluded to the American emigration into Canada as teaching the American people many things, among them the fact that this country had in it men of youth and force and energy who were waking it up out of the lethargy that had kept it back too long. Twenty years ago Americans had considered Canada as asleep, and the speaker thought rightly, but with men such as Mr. Russell in the country there was no telling what might not be its future development.

Mr. O'Neill referred also to the interest that many of his fellow citizens were beginning to take in Canada, and instanced H. M. Whitney as a man who had the interests of the maritime provinces very much at heart.

RECORDER SKINNER.

Recorder Skinner of St. John replied to the toast in a brilliant after-dinner effort. After dwelling upon the contribution that the maritime provinces had made to the development of Canada he gave utterance to a warm eulogy of Hon. Mr. Pugsley.

"Will you permit me one word," he said, "as to the guest of the evening? He has told us that he proposes to remain where he is. Our own country will be very glad if he does. But I hear from all sides rumors of a call that is coming for the hon. attorney general to go up higher, and perform greater duties for his country than he can do in his present sphere. Now, the country is a very

Brace Up—Vitalize Nerves and Blood with FERROZONE

The Effect is Instant—Makes You Snap and Dance with Vitality.

Your appetite is gone. What little you eat brings no satisfaction. You're getting blue and melancholy—you can't rest or sleep. Nervous prostration is staring you in the face.

Your unstrung nerves can only be nourished back to health by a nerve tonic like Ferrozone. It cures weakness of the inner nerves, gives vitality and strength to the blood and nervous system, makes all the organs work in harmony.

The following experience of Mrs. D. P. Campbell, Myrtle groves the prompt action of Ferrozone.

"I had no nerve strength. My appetite was poor and my system was out of order. I felt weak and dispirited, was tired out the whole day long. Ferrozone accomplished wonders. It gave me a strong nervous system, a good appetite, and abundance of health."

Ferrozone contains concentrated nourishment you can't get in any other way. No other medicine benefits so quickly. 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers in medicine, or Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

jealous mistress. If the call that she gives once is slighted, she is very apt never to come back again. Therefore, I would beg the attorney general to bear in mind what I am saying. In that I speak not only for my country by the sea, but for the whole of Canada."

SENATOR OWENS.

Schator Owens was then called upon to propose the toast of "Bench and Bar." He was about to describe himself, he said, as a very old resident of Caledonia Springs. That would hardly be accurate, for he had never lived there; but he had for many years paid an annual visit there and that was, he believed, his whole doctor's bill. He deeply regretted that the visitors would not have time sufficient to enable them to see what Mr. Russell had done for Caledonia Springs. If they could see what he had effected in a few months they would scarcely believe it possible. He hoped they would all return later to find out the real value to the health and welfare of the country of the work. Mr. Russell had achieved.

MR. JUSTICE BURBRIDGE.

Mr. Justice Burbridge, who replied for the bench, received enthusiastic applause, when he announced himself as a childhood friend of the guest of the evening. He strenuously protested against Mr. Pugsley's description of himself as having outdistanced Mr. Pugsley in the race of life. Mr. Blair himself was on the shelf now that he was a railway commissioner. And the speaker had been put out of the way many years before, while Mr. Pugsley was still in the thick of the fight, still in the most active part of his life work. He had been of the first to recognize in the Attorney General the capacity for hard work, and for good work at the same time. That he foresaw would lead him to the highest positions in the public service.

DONALD MACMASTER.

Donald MacMaster, K. C., replied for the bar, with a collection of epigrams and anecdotes. It had been frequently asked that evening what was the object of that vast assembly of the Wise Men from the East (laughter), the coming of the Magi to the Great Magi Springs. If in time their deliberations should lead to a real discovery of Caledonia Springs, he thought it would be a great contribution to the health of Canada.

Mr. MacMaster said he had not had the honor of meeting Mr. Pugsley in court, but he could testify to his noble qualities as a friend. He had known him for many years, and had found him unwaveringly loyal and unchanging. Speaking of the contribution of New Brunswick to the National life, Mr. MacMaster said that Mr. Blair though he was the chief justice of what was perhaps the highest court in Canada, he was still, he was proud to say, a member of the bar, and he would venture to term him the Nestor of the Canadian bar. Mr. Russell was one of those men of wit and wisdom, of whom Walter Scott said: "Here's to the man who has the wit to plan and the strength to execute." He felt that the presence of that large maritime delegation was not merely a compliment to the Attorney General but also a proof of confidence in the host of the evening.

J. N. GREENSHIELDS.

J. N. Greenshields proposed the toast of the host of the evening saying that we all recognize in the west what the East had done for the country. We all recognized that they had sent to the centre of this Canada of ours the brightest intellects in politics, in commerce and in law (hear, hear).

Miss Alice M. Smith, of Minneapolis, Minn., tells how woman's monthly suffering may be quickly and permanently relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have never before given my endorsement for any medicine, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has added so much to my life and happiness that I feel like making an exception in this case. For two years every month I would have two days of severe pain and could find no relief, but one day when visiting a friend I ran across Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,—she had used it with the best results and advised me to try it. I found that it worked wonders with me; I now experience no pain and only had to use a few bottles to bring about this wonderful change. I use it occasionally now when I am exceptionally tired or worn out."—Miss ALICE M. SMITH, 804 Third Ave., South Minneapolis, Minn., Chairman Executive Committee Minneapolis Study Club.

Beauty and strength in women vanish early in life because of monthly pain or some menstrual irregularity. Many suffer silently and see their best gifts fade away. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps women preserve roundness of form and freshness of face because it makes their entire female organism healthy. It carries women safely through the various natural crises and is the safeguard of woman's health.

The truth about this great medicine is told in the letters from women published in this paper constantly.

Mrs. C. Kleinschrodt, Morrison, Ill., says:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have suffered ever since I was thirteen years of age with my menses. They were irregular and very painful. I doctored a great deal but received no benefit. A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and after taking a few bottles of it, I found great relief. Menstruation is now regular and without pain. I am enjoying better health than I have for sometime."

How is it possible for us to make it plainer that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will positively help all sick women? All women are constituted alike, rich and poor, high and low,—all suffer from the same organic troubles. Surely, no one can wish to remain weak and sickly, discouraged with life and without hope for the future, when proof is so unmistakable that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will cure monthly suffering—all womb and ovarian troubles, and all the ills peculiar to women.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.
