A SLIGHT FIRE

In the Residence of D. J. Purdy This Morning.

A fire, which is thought to have started from the furnace, was discovered in D. J. Purdy's house, Main St., this morning. Mrs. Purdy smelt smoke in the dining room, and thinking there was a fire in the house called for her son, who was down stairs waiting in the store.

He immediately went up stairs and found that the fire was confined between the walls of the dining room and the kitchen. An alarm from box 125 brought the north end firemen to the scene, and in a short time two streams of water were being poured upon the fire.

Most of the furniture in the rooms were removed, and very little damage was done.

The water soaked through the floor and came down into the shop causing some destruction to the goods. Mr. Purdy is at present in Halifax.

OUR FRUIT IN ENGLAND.

Apple Exports Increasing But Price Is Low-- Nova Scotia Sanitarium--General News.

Kings County, N. S., Jan. 18--The death of Elizabeth Chute, wife of S. Chipman Parker of Berwick took place at her husband's residence this morning. Mrs. Parker had been for some weeks ill at her mother's residence in Kentville, but had recovered sufficiently to return to her home, and on last Friday was driving about Berwick apparently in good health. On Monday she appeared quite ill, and Dr. Stewart of Halifax, and Dr. Webster of Kentville were summoned. They pronounced her disease rheumatic fever, and thought there was every prospect of recovery, but on Wednesday morning she came. She was twenty-four years of age. Much sympathy is shown to the bereaved husband, a to the mother, Mrs. Margeson, whose husband and only child have passed away within three weeks. Mrs. Parker was a student at Mt. Allison and had many friends in the maritime provinces.

Whether because the Kings county men have announced their intention to look into the apple export business, or whether the English fruit is becoming exhausted, "let doctors tell," but the English brokers are certainly sending more encouraging reports of the market, and the hopes of the shippers are correspondingly going up. Fourteen thousand barrels left Halifax last night by the steamer Florence, and there are many thousands of barrels yet held in the warehouses and cellars ready for the market. The average price this year has not exceeded $1 per barrel, and many who had fruit on the ill-fated steamship Loyalist were heard to remark that the insurance companies were the best markets to be had this year.

The appointment of Chief Justice Weatherbe has caused much satisfaction in Kings county where the gentleman is well and favorably known. His residence, St. Eulalie, is situated near historic Grand Pre, and is a beautiful spot. Here the justice with his family resides the greater part of the year, and Judge Weatherbe devotes his summers to horticultural work in which he is greatly interested. He has had set out about nine thousand fruit trees, which in a few years will be in bearing, and his judicial mind carefully weighs the pros and cons of any improved methods which come to his notice before he proceeds to make use of them.

The Provincial Sanitarium at Kentville is proving a most popular resort for those affected with the dread white plague and a large number of the patients have gone away if not completely cured, at least greatly benefited by the treatment. The rooms are all taken at present and when one views the sick ones wrapped in furs, seated on the piazzas, where every breath of the zero air with which we have been lately favored, can get at them, one feels as if every germ of disease might be frozen, and wonders how the invalids themselves keep warm. They seem to manage it though, and a few weeks of the treatment often changes the emaciated one into a healthy looking individual. The government has seen fit to lower the price of board, and the sanitarium is proving a success in every way.

Mrs. (Rev.) David Freeman, Halifax is visiting Dr. and Mrs. Trotter at Wolfville.

Rev. H. DeWolfe of Acadia Seminary is expected to preach in the Baptist church Canning on Sunday next. George Kerr of the militia Department, Ottawa is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kerr, Canning.

The death of Miss May, daughter of James Brady, Esq., Canning, occurred at her father's residence yesterday.

W. D. McLean, Mahone Bay is the guest of Rev. F. Triggins at Grand Pre. Miss Mills is also a guest at the parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Fairn, Middleton, have been visiting Wolfville and Halifax this week.

Col. Shippy Speen of Melville Square, has been visiting Wolfville this week. Colonel Spurr has two daughters attending Acadia Seminary.

Captain George W. Murray whose death occurred on Monday January 16 at Victoria B. C. was well known in King's County as an employee of the firm Sheffield and Wickwire of Canning, N. S. In 1864 in connection with the firm he took part ownership in the barque Sheffield and commanded her in her many trips between United States and European ports. He had afterwards charge of several other vessels and continued Wickwire in the employ of the firm until about eight years ago, when he went into the Pacific trade between British Columbia and Honolulu. He has lived in Victoria about eighteen months and was 67 years of age.

Miss Schurman of Truro who has been the guest of Mrs. Lily Webster Kentville has returned to her home. Conductor J. Ritchie of the D.A.R. is very ill at his home in Kentville, with la grippe. D. McIver has charge of his train during his illness.

THIS IS OUR MR. MACLEAN.

The Philadelphia Record of recent date devotes a great deal of space to a school of naval architecture being conducted in that city. "The Franklin Institute Night School of Naval Architecture." The Record says, in part--

"The school is under the direction of Professor Alexander J. Maclean, who is also professor of naval architecture in Webb's Academy, New York; director of the Cooper Union School of Naval Architecture and Naval Architect for the city of New York and for the city of St. John (N. B.). Professor Maclean has been in the work practically all his life on both sides of the Atlantic. He started the Belfast Institute, at Belfast, and the Elswick Institute, at Newcastle-on-Tyne, and is a member of the American Society of Naval Architects."

MARVELLOUS WORK

Done by Pauline the Mind Reader at the York Last Night.

Pauline's, greatest of all mind-reading tests, the mock murder trial was given last night at the York Theatre by the great hypnotist. While Pauline has surprised his audiences with his wonderful work during the first two nights of his engagement that of last evening astonished them beyond all expectations. The mock murder trial was the masterpiece of the renowned hypnotist Bishop, who whilst in the act of performing it dropped dead upon the stage. Pauline gave a step farther than Bishop in that after finding the murdered man, the murderer, the weapon and the book in which the sentence is written, he also produces the sentence upon a black board. This latter the great Bishop did not undertake.

Any who missed seeing this wonderful feat of Pauline's last evening missed some of the best things in the line ever offered a St. John audience. After getting a committee of well known citizens upon the stage Pauline selected one to go to the audience and take a gentleman out of the building and hide him. This was the supposed murdered man. Another member of the committee was asked to go to the audience and hide away the supposed murderer. Another was asked to get a weapon, supposed to be the weapon with which the deed was committed, and hide it also. Then the fourth member of the committee, who acted as judge, took a book, wrote in it the sentence of the court, and hid it away also.

Immediately upon returning to the stage the committee blindfolded Pauline when he proceeded to find the murdered man, the murderer, the weapon and the book. Rushing down through the audience and out of the building the great hypnotist was not long in bringing back the supposed murdered man, whom he found down in Manager Armstrong's private office. The murderer he started after next, and captured him sitting among some twenty other gentlemen down in the lower floor of the building. The weapon he found in the pocket of a gentleman sitting in the audience, and the book he soon located under a person in one of the orchestra chairs.

Returning to the stage Pauline within the short space of two minutes turned to the page on which the sentence was written. At this stage the great hypnotist was so overcome that it was quite impossible for him to go further with the work for some minutes, and with the assistance of the committee he was taken outside the wings where he soon revived.

The great hypnotist's pulse on the completion of this test indicated 108 a fact almost beyond comprehension. Members of last night's committee shook Pauline by the hand and stated that his work was the most wonderful and interesting they had ever witnessed.
