for me to stay in the house. Day and night with every thought intent on solving a ruldle to which there seemed no key, I should soon be as crazy as the rest of the household had been. No, there must be an end of it! Idealistic dreams are very beautiful, but they did not suit my constitution. I resolved to quit the castle and return to Pesth, and either rent the estate or leave it the hands of the steward. Accordingly I called the servants togeth. er and told them my plan. For a year after my departure I would continue their wages in addition to the allowance made them by the late Count. I then dismissed them uncermoniously, for was getting into that state of mind in which I did not wish to see any face about me. All departed except the foolish door keeper. Of course he was going to to tell me that "a master is master, even in hell!' To my great surprise the man put off his military manner, approached me, kissed my hand, and began to speak in an entirely changed and nnaccustomed voice.

"Why will you leave this place? Does the poor girl annoy you?' I was astonished beyond measure.

The man, then, was not mad. 'It seems to me that a great change has come over you," I retureed.

This Sarsaparilla is a combination of vegetable alteratives - Stillingia, Mandrake, Yellow Dock - with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and is the most efficacious medicine yet known the diseases it is intended to cure. Its ingredients are so skilfully combined, that the full alterative effect of each is assured, and while it is so mild as to be harmless even to children, it is still so effectual as to purge out from the system those impurities and corruptions which develop into loathsome disease. The reputation it enjoys is derived from its cures, and the confidence which prominent physicians all over the country repose in it, prove their experience of its usefulness. Certificates attesting its virtues have accumulated, and are constantly being received, and as many of these cases are publicly known, they furnish convincing evidence of the superiority of this Sarsaparilla over every other alterative medicine. So generally is its superiority to any other medicine known, that we need do no more than to assure the public that the best qualities it has ever possessed are strictly maintained.
