

Correspondence.

For the Colonial Farmer. LETTER FROM CHICAGO.

DEAR FARMER.—After spending several days in Ottawa's frigid temperature, I bled myself to this congenial atmosphere, where springlike weather is enjoyed while you are ice and snow-bound, and I presume expect to be until May next.

The rivers and lake are navigable fully a month earlier than usual. In the middle and southern portions of the State farmers are ploughing and planting, while still farther west the crops are promising finely, so that the Grangers' prospects are looking upward, and consequently they feel happy.

Business is horribly dull in all branches of trade, and failures continue at the rate of more than one per diem; for the past month there have been 39 failures, some of which have been for quite heavy amounts. The Presidential muddle has largely tended to produce this state of trade, as both Merchants and manufacturers have feared to launch out in their usual manner, not knowing what the result would be.

The moral of the City is improved wonderfully. Whether it be to the wonderful change in the hearts of the people, produced by the workings of Moody & Sankey, or to the fact of the people not having so much money to spend on extras, certain it is that Chicago is better to-day morally than ever was before.

The gambling houses are not running, nor are the liquor establishments so well patronized, while on the other hand the Churches of all denominations are full to overflowing, and still the good work continues. Chicago, like all other large Cities, has her poor as well as rich, and to-day there are many thousands out of employment while their families are sadly in need of the necessities of life.

The value of real estate is down to a respectable figure, affording those who desire an investment in that line some rare chances, while those who wish to build or improve have a chance never before presented.

The faith of our people is unbounded, for while the New York press is deploring the loss of her trade, the Chicagoans are getting the gain, as she must eventually be the greatest outlet for the products of the whole Western States and Territories.

The vessel market is well supplied (Americans must live no matter how dull business may be) with all kinds of game and fish and garden products, such as Radishes, Lettuce, Beets, Okras, &c., while fresh Limon, Oranges, Lemons, Bananas, &c., are offered you by almost every corner huckster.

Some informality in the election of Collectors for the South side of Chicago, has been the cause of preventing the collection of taxes in that section, consequently over 1,000,000 of the City's money still remains in the people's hands, as there is no one to collect it. Postmaster MacArthur is a defaulter to the Government for $50,000, and this week his bondsmen have to pay over the rhino.

Chicago, March 1st, 1877.

Ascertaining, unless he can induce one of the clerks in the Secretary's office to show him the rolls of Parliament; when an unsigned and unnumbered roll of written paper, tied with a bit of blue ribbon, will be handed to the enquirer, who must depend upon his own unaided ingenuity to decide whether or not what he gets is the law of the land.

Mr. Tweedie's resolution condemning the Government for granting the subsidy for the connecting link between the N. B. and the N. E. & C. Railways out of Northumberland was defeated by a vote of 22 to 15. There is little room for doubt that whatever is the strict interpretation of the Statute, the intention of the Legislature was that the lands for this subsidy should be taken out of the river Counties.

When the gentleman in charge of the Reporter has been a little longer in harness he will have learned that it is neither polite nor dignified to attempt to guess the name of any person's private correspondents. Moreover, those who do so are apt to make themselves supremely ridiculous.

There was a very warm discussion in Parliament on the fifth instant. Indeed it was even more warm and language of a very violent character was freely used.

The programme for the concert on Monday evening was so successful that the number of people who were present was not only a large one but also a very favorable impression.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition. Since the Government has let them alone they have done admirably.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition. Since the Government has let them alone they have done admirably.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

Chicago, March 1st, 1877.

Mr. Tweedie's resolution condemning the Government for granting the subsidy for the connecting link between the N. B. and the N. E. & C. Railways out of Northumberland was defeated by a vote of 22 to 15.

When the gentleman in charge of the Reporter has been a little longer in harness he will have learned that it is neither polite nor dignified to attempt to guess the name of any person's private correspondents.

There was a very warm discussion in Parliament on the fifth instant. Indeed it was even more warm and language of a very violent character was freely used.

The programme for the concert on Monday evening was so successful that the number of people who were present was not only a large one but also a very favorable impression.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

Chicago, March 1st, 1877.

Mr. Tweedie's resolution condemning the Government for granting the subsidy for the connecting link between the N. B. and the N. E. & C. Railways out of Northumberland was defeated by a vote of 22 to 15.

When the gentleman in charge of the Reporter has been a little longer in harness he will have learned that it is neither polite nor dignified to attempt to guess the name of any person's private correspondents.

There was a very warm discussion in Parliament on the fifth instant. Indeed it was even more warm and language of a very violent character was freely used.

The programme for the concert on Monday evening was so successful that the number of people who were present was not only a large one but also a very favorable impression.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

Chicago, March 1st, 1877.

Mr. Tweedie's resolution condemning the Government for granting the subsidy for the connecting link between the N. B. and the N. E. & C. Railways out of Northumberland was defeated by a vote of 22 to 15.

When the gentleman in charge of the Reporter has been a little longer in harness he will have learned that it is neither polite nor dignified to attempt to guess the name of any person's private correspondents.

There was a very warm discussion in Parliament on the fifth instant. Indeed it was even more warm and language of a very violent character was freely used.

The programme for the concert on Monday evening was so successful that the number of people who were present was not only a large one but also a very favorable impression.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

Chicago, March 1st, 1877.

Mr. Tweedie's resolution condemning the Government for granting the subsidy for the connecting link between the N. B. and the N. E. & C. Railways out of Northumberland was defeated by a vote of 22 to 15.

When the gentleman in charge of the Reporter has been a little longer in harness he will have learned that it is neither polite nor dignified to attempt to guess the name of any person's private correspondents.

There was a very warm discussion in Parliament on the fifth instant. Indeed it was even more warm and language of a very violent character was freely used.

The programme for the concert on Monday evening was so successful that the number of people who were present was not only a large one but also a very favorable impression.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

Chicago, March 1st, 1877.

Mr. Tweedie's resolution condemning the Government for granting the subsidy for the connecting link between the N. B. and the N. E. & C. Railways out of Northumberland was defeated by a vote of 22 to 15.

When the gentleman in charge of the Reporter has been a little longer in harness he will have learned that it is neither polite nor dignified to attempt to guess the name of any person's private correspondents.

There was a very warm discussion in Parliament on the fifth instant. Indeed it was even more warm and language of a very violent character was freely used.

The programme for the concert on Monday evening was so successful that the number of people who were present was not only a large one but also a very favorable impression.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

Chicago, March 1st, 1877.

Mr. Tweedie's resolution condemning the Government for granting the subsidy for the connecting link between the N. B. and the N. E. & C. Railways out of Northumberland was defeated by a vote of 22 to 15.

When the gentleman in charge of the Reporter has been a little longer in harness he will have learned that it is neither polite nor dignified to attempt to guess the name of any person's private correspondents.

There was a very warm discussion in Parliament on the fifth instant. Indeed it was even more warm and language of a very violent character was freely used.

The programme for the concert on Monday evening was so successful that the number of people who were present was not only a large one but also a very favorable impression.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

We are glad to learn from more reliable sources that the public reports, that the Colony is now doing a happy and flourishing condition.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

The Speaker said he would see that the Sergeant at Arms was prepared to receive them. Present to notice Mr. Pickett moved resolution in public accounts, etc.

Chicago, March 1st, 1877.

For the Colonial Farmer. Mr. Editor.—We must say after plain way in which we would our communication, which appeared in your last issue, and the remarks which the Editor of the Reporter had made on "Morality" communication, (which was not published), we were not a little surprised when we read the unimportant article which has since appeared. In answer to "Morality" we would say that although we do not represent the Y. M. C. A., we do not think ourselves in any way inferior. It is not that we are not hypocrites. We have never held a prayer meeting in our rooms, but anything which has ever happened there we are not ashamed of.

For the Colonial Farmer. Mr. Editor.—I had made up my mind not to trouble you again with a communication, while the Legislature was in session, because I find that the Government have it all their own way, and will have, until there is a new election; but my attention was drawn to some remarks you, Sir, made in the last Farmer, which I here quote. You say of Mr. Kelly that— "He has to 'step down and out,' and that is a very good thing for him, and for this country, so far as this session is concerned. His defence has fallen upon his colleagues, notably upon the Secretary, the Chief Minister, and the Opposition members of the Assembly to attack the Chief Minister this session, with all the force they can. It is not too late for the Government to carry out their understanding of 1874 and put him up stairs; but whether he is sent to that political elevation or not, we are very far from our calculations if the session of 1875 finds him with a portfolio.

For the Colonial Farmer. Mr. Editor.—I had made up my mind not to trouble you again with a communication, while the Legislature was in session, because I find that the Government have it all their own way, and will have, until there is a new election; but my attention was drawn to some remarks you, Sir, made in the last Farmer, which I here quote. You say of Mr. Kelly that— "He has to 'step down and out,' and that is a very good thing for him, and for this country, so far as this session is concerned. His defence has fallen upon his colleagues, notably upon the Secretary, the Chief Minister, and the Opposition members of the Assembly to attack the Chief Minister this session, with all the force they can. It is not too late for the Government to carry out their understanding of 1874 and put him up stairs; but whether he is sent to that political elevation or not, we are very far from our calculations if the session of 1875 finds him with a portfolio.

For the Colonial Farmer. Mr. Editor.—I had made up my mind not to trouble you again with a communication, while the Legislature was in session, because I find that the Government have it all their own way, and will have, until there is a new election; but my attention was drawn to some remarks you, Sir, made in the last Farmer, which I here quote. You say of Mr. Kelly that— "He has to 'step down and out,' and that is a very good thing for him, and for this country, so far as this session is concerned. His defence has fallen upon his colleagues, notably upon the Secretary, the Chief Minister, and the Opposition members of the Assembly to attack the Chief Minister this session, with all the force they can. It is not too late for the Government to carry out their understanding of 1874 and put him up stairs; but whether he is sent to that political elevation or not, we are very far from our calculations if the session of 1875 finds him with a portfolio.

For the Colonial Farmer. Mr. Editor.—I had made up my mind not to trouble you again with a communication, while the Legislature was in session, because I find that the Government have it all their own way, and will have, until there is a new election; but my attention was drawn to some remarks you, Sir, made in the last Farmer, which I here quote. You say of Mr. Kelly that— "He has to 'step down and out,' and that is a very good thing for him, and for this country, so far as this session is concerned. His defence has fallen upon his colleagues, notably upon the Secretary, the Chief Minister, and the Opposition members of the Assembly to attack the Chief Minister this session, with all the force they can. It is not too late for the Government to carry out their understanding of 1874 and put him up stairs; but whether he is sent to that political elevation or not, we are very far from our calculations if the session of 1875 finds him with a portfolio.

For the Colonial Farmer. Mr. Editor.—I had made up my mind not to trouble you again with a communication, while the Legislature was in session, because I find that the Government have it all their own way, and will have, until there is a new election; but my attention was drawn to some remarks you, Sir, made in the last Farmer, which I here quote. You say of Mr. Kelly that— "He has to 'step down and out,' and that is a very good thing for him, and for this country, so far as this session is concerned. His defence has fallen upon his colleagues, notably upon the Secretary, the Chief Minister, and the Opposition members of the Assembly to attack the Chief Minister this session, with all the force they can. It is not too late for the Government to carry out their understanding of 1874 and put him up stairs; but whether he is sent to that political elevation or not, we are very far from our calculations if the session of 1875 finds him with a portfolio.

For the Colonial Farmer. Mr. Editor.—I had made up my mind not to trouble you again with a communication, while the Legislature was in session, because I find that the Government have it all their own way, and will have, until there is a new election; but my attention was drawn to some remarks you, Sir, made in the last Farmer, which I here quote. You say of Mr. Kelly that— "He has to 'step down and out,' and that is a very good thing for him, and for this country, so far as this session is concerned. His defence has fallen upon his colleagues, notably upon the Secretary, the Chief Minister, and the Opposition members of the Assembly to attack the Chief Minister this session, with all the force they can. It is not too late for the Government to carry out their understanding of 1874 and put him up stairs; but whether he is sent to that political elevation or not, we are very far from our calculations if the session of 1875 finds him with a portfolio.