MR. EDITOR,-I notice in your last issue a

He says on Wednesday night there was a strong smell of gas in his hotel, and in looking for the cause, it was found that rats had eaten out quite a space in the leaden pipes. Hoyt says I have a store underneath his hotel, and I refused when requested to turn off the gas, which I most emphatically deny. In place of Wednesday, it was Tuesday, when first discovered, and I reported the same to my Landlady, Miss Spahan, on Wednesday Mr. O'Brien, the gas fitter, was employed to hunt up the leak and repair it, which he did, (and it was not an easy job,) and on Friday he said all was right, and I might light up. which was done by my son. Now, mark, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday I had my shop closed at sundown, in consequence of the leak, and did not light up until authorized, but it appears even on Friday it was found the rats had renewed the attack on the piece of new pipe, and there was another hubbub by the Landlord of the hotel, as if 1 could prevent the rats from destroying the pipes. On that evening, Friday, Hoyt in a blustering manner ordered my son to close clined to do, as the gas fitter said all was right. But the rats would not be stopped by any one, as after repairing it once more, behold you, on the Monday following it was discovered that the rats had made another attack. All I have to say about this rat more than Mr. Hoyt can afford to put up let him state facts, and facts only. THOMAS MORRIS.

To these the Publisher wishes to say that although the amounts town-all of which, if settled, would be suptheir respective accounts is small, the aggregate is large, and that he cannot undertake to present each one of them with an account. There is really no good reason why every dollar due him, except where the parties are dead, insolvent or absent from the country, should not be remitted within a very few days. Under these circumstances no doubt will prosper, but the indications those who do not respond promptly are that the towns we have named will outto this notice must not be offended they are put to costs. It is unpleasant why Grand Falls should take a second place to be obliged to make so peremptory a demand, which the Publisher desires his patrons to understand is rendered necessary by an unforeseen emergency.

FREDERICTON, N. B., MAY 21, 1877.

We make no apology for again directing the attention of the people of Fredericton the great importance, in a business point view, of the speedy settlement of the agri cultural districts on the Upper St. John Indeed our merchants, who are not by any means blind to what is going on around them. other points along the Western Extension Railway. Whether the speedy communication now made between St. John and the inland Counties will not divert more business from this City the near future will determine even now thousands of dollars worth of freight pass in front of this city both en route to the sea and the interior and our people profit not a dollar from the traffic. What the result will be, if there is not a change for the better, it is not difficult to foresee. The character of business done in this city has not altered proportionately to the altered condishows us that if a locality does not progress is apt to stagnate; and stagnation in trade ures. It means shrinkage in values of real estate and in time, at least, partial depopulation. At present rents are high, and one can find very few vacant houses in the city. although a very large number of building have been erected during the past five years Fredericton has certainly improved very much since the departure of the military and the advent of the first railway train, for the were nearly contemporary; although many claim that the business of the place is not any more solidly established than it was then.

A town is killed. fast springing up there; business establishments more or less extensive, are being opened: in short a competitor is in the field for the trade of the eastern part of York County and ultimately of the up-river country. It is no use to shake our heads and say it can't be so. "The unexpected always of experience when he arrived at that conclusion, and we tell the business community both sides of the river more prosperous than they now are. Between Fredericton and St. Francis, the Province of New Brunswick, and without going into the North Shore Counties, there is room for half a million people. There is now a population in this district of about the shop once more, which he positively de- 70,000. If the present population were increased seven-fold would not the business at the head of tide water and the nearest shipping point, that is at Fredericton and Gibson, be completely revolutionized? It is only reasonable that it should be; therefore we repeat what we have so often urged, that the prosstory is this, that iron pipes must be put in, perity of this city depends on the opening up as I cannot afford to pay these leakages, no of the interior Counties. We think that my observant man will agree with us that in the event of the country we have referred to becoming settled, two points along the railway, Peel and Grand Falls, will become portant business centres. Other places strip all others except Woodstock above Fredericton. And there is no valid reason even in comparison with the Shiretown of Carleton. From these two points we think the work of improvement should begin. In
