For the Colonial Farmer. "FREDERICTON REGATTA." WOODBOAT JUDGES ON THE MCLARREN

The weather on Wednesday was all that boating men could have wished for, a very met they would have done some good; now Purse, lengths when half way home. Here the Pratt crew gave a spurt and were gradually particulars: closing up the gap, -but the spurt came to late; the Hilderbrand crew were already across the line, the winners by about three lengths. It is said a return race will take place between these two crews in a few

The next race, the Professional four oared gunwale race, seemed to create the greatest interest among boating men. After the Mc-Larren crew and that very consistent man "Harned" considered the "Allen Craig" crew had remained long enough in the ho sun-(only about 50 minutes) they, the Mc- be arrested without a Judge's order. Both boats were ordered to and not publishing them. back up and get into line again, when the AllenCraig crew honest to the back bone, and feeling confident of victory, turned their boat out of its course, thereby allowing the "Mc-Larrens " to make up their lost half length. The race from this to about 3 of a mile further down was a splendid one, the boats being bow and bow. Here Bob called on Jim for another spurt, and got a 47. This sent their boat about six feet to the front, but only to remain for an instant, as Craig spurting a little, actually rowed this celebrated McLarren crew down, making them change paper their song from "Good-bye, boys," to "Fe God's sake don't upset us." Here the race as far as the Fredericton crew were concerned was over. They backed their boats clear the McLarrens, greatly disgusted to think that men holding such high positions in the Aquatic world as they do, would practice such mean; low, contemptible tricks. The Mr. McPeake the evening before the race. that any boat leaving its own water and fouling would lose the race, turned their boat and rowed quietly home. Allen on behalf being fouled. The Judges seemed to think before they could decide they would have to go and hear what their friends on the wood drunk Indian. When asked if they thought the boats were outside of their stake boats, he, the cross-eved man innocently replied that he did not know what a stake boat was Other brilliant questions were asked, an other brilliant answers received. It is sai that the Indian was heard to say that the men without shirts run their boat into the other. Upon this valuable information the Judges decided the race to be rowed over ,notwithstanding Allen was prepared to bring 50 or 100 people, if necessary, who are willing to take their oath that the McLarren crew

Judges. What is the good of a man that only knows how to row and eat?

The Fredericton correspondent of the Telegraph states what is not true, when he says the "McLarren Crew" challenged the "Allen Craig" Crew to run the next morning for $500. It is also false about Wallace Ross and his brother wanting to row Elijah Ross and any other man a double scull race. The challenge came from Elliah Ross, stating that he and Jim Belvea would row Wallace and any man he could produce a pair oared race, and Wallace squaked.
