LONDON, March 28.—The House of Lords was very crowded this afternoon. Many members of the Lower House were present. Lord Derby entered soon after five o'clock, and took a seat below the gangway, instead of on the Treasury Bench. He rose almost immediately and announced his resignation as Secretary of Foreign Affairs, which, he said, had been accepted by the Queen, and he only continued to hold office until the appointment of his successor. He regretted that under the circumstances it would not be justifiable for him to follow the customary course of explaining in detail the difference which led him to resign. The Cabinet had arrived at certain conclusions in which he was not able to concur. To prevent needless alarm he would say he did not consider those measures as necessarily tending to bring about war. He gave the Cabinet credit for sincerely desiring European peace, but he could not regard the measures which had now been resolved upon as prudent in the interests of peace or necessary for the safety of the country, which the concurrence of Parliament is asked. For the measures of which he had spoken he would vindicate his opinion. He would state, however, that he did not dissent from the Cabinet's views of the conditions upon which Europe might go into the Congress. He counted the obstacles to the meeting of the Congress, but the fault did not rest with the Government of this country. Lord Beaconsfield said that he would willingly refrain from noticing the reasons which had influenced Lord Derby to resign until a period when those reasons might be legitimately considered by the House. So that mischief might not occur from unnecessary mystery, it was his duty to say that in consequence of the belief of the Government that the Congress would not be held, and that the hopes of rectifying the disturbed balance of power in the Mediterranean had ceased, it was the duty of the Ministers to consider what steps should be taken to prevent impending mischief. They had, therefore, advised Her Majesty to avail herself of the service of Her reserve force. A message to that effect would be laid before Parliament.

The Press Association says, Lord Lyons is mentioned as the possible successor of Lord Derby, but nothing definite is yet known. In the House of Commons to-night Hon. Gathorne Hardy, Secretary of War, in replying to various questions said that it was necessary to call out the first class of the Army Reserve numbering about 13,000, and Militia Reserve which was between 25,000 and 26,000. The Queen's Message to that effect would be presented probably on Monday. This would be followed by a proclamation calling out such of the Reserve forces as might be required. Mr. Hardy pointed out that this is not the embodiment of the Militia which would not take place until it was necessary to send Regulars abroad. During the last few days an order was received at Portsmouth that all troop ships, including five Indian troopships, must have their hatchways enlarged and other alterations made, so as to allow horses, ambulances and baggage wagons being lowered. Besides carrying a complete battalion, each troop ship will be required to convey about twelve wagons and sixty horses. The Telegraph has a Vienna despatch saying a sudden and unaccountable change in the Government's attitude is reported. It is said that Andrassy has only been feigning concurrence with the Court party, and he is now preparing to oppose Russia openly with the entire Hungarian party at his back.

 We have recently published a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Inactivity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.
 Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.
 The celebrated author in this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured, without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
 This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.
