
when the Duke of Newcastle's turn came, he when the silver locks of Lord St. German was touched by the showman's pole H.
H. broke into a broad smile, and was fore to bow his head lest he should loose con over himself altogether and burst