WONDERS OF THE BICYCLE.

On September 9th, at Springfield, Mass., a bicycle rider named Zimmerman, smashed the records of bicycle riding into smithereens by making a mile in 2.6 4-5. On a previous attempt on the same day and track, he made a half mile in 1. 1-5. These records put Zimmerman so conclusively at the head of the procession of the world's bicycle riders that his time must be compared with something else to show just how fast it really is.

Nancy Hanks is probably the fastest trotting horse in the world, and yet Zimmerman on his bicycle has made a mile in one-fifth of a second less than she has trotted a mile on a regulation, that is an elliptical track. It seem hardly possible that a man mounted on a seat between two wheels in the same plane should be able to propel himself faster than the speediest trotter in the world has gone, but the record is indisputable.

The size of the bicycle in its present shape, that is the kind known as the "safety," would be a very interesting study. A few years ago we were accustomed to see boys and young men perched above a high wheel with a smaller one trailing behind it, but the sport was not in the best of repute. There was too much danger attendant upon climbing so high, and the frequent "header" was a thing not to be despised. Now, nearly every corner we turn we come across safeties ridden by all sorts and conditions of men. Indeed, in the American cities, ladies are among the most delighted and enthusiastic riders of safeties, and children learn to ride them almost as soon as they can walk alone.

Safety bicycles have been tried in military manœuvres, in the mail carrying service and in a variety of ways, until their usefulness has become an established fact. It is always fortunate when a thing can be made useful and pleasurable at the same time, and this is preminently the case with the safety bicycle. All riders cannot be Zimmermans, but all can derive a vast amount of healthful and pleasurable exercise from the wheel.

THE EXHIBITION.

As the time approaches for the holding of our exhibition people are beginning to take quite an interest in it and it is expected that this year's will be a greater success than that held last year by the Agricultural Society. Upon the success of an exhibition depends very largely the state of the weather which if it be fine adds two thirds at least to a successful show. It is to be hoped therefore that the gods will favor us on October 5th, 6th, and 7th and the sun will shine forth in all its glory on those days.

The management of the exhibition will have everything arranged in the best of order and the programme of amusements already drawn up promises to surpass anything in the amusement way heretofore presented for the entertainment of our visitors. It is expected that several thousand people will be here during exhibition days. We predict success and hope to see our predictions verified.

THE ELECTIONS.

Another week has gone by but no official announcement of a prorogation of the Legislature has yet been made. Both government and opposition supporters are beginning to get puzzled and decidedly unsettled regarding the probabilities of facing their constituents in the near future. It may be taken almost for granted that there will be a general election before another session. The opposition are apparently preparing themselves for any immergency and already a number of tickets have been formed. It is, we are informed, the intention of the opposition to contest every constituency in the province. The government are as confident of success as ever and a hard determined fight will be the result.

The committee appointed at the recent Board of Trade Meeting have been canvassing the town during the past week and have met with fairly good succes. There does not appear however, to be that confidence in the undertaking—on the part of some of our merchants, that one would expect for so good an object. A rumor has been in circulation during the past few days that the International Steamship Company had made a proposition to secure the right to run a line of steamers on the St.. Jonn River and their idea would be to make connection with their line at St. John and bring Americans up the river, selling tickets direct from Boston to Fredericton and return. Such a move would be an admirable one and the benefits to be derived from such an arrangement would be great. We only hope that some definite plans will be decided upon and that next seson will see a superior line of steamers bringing hundreds of american tourists to our beautiful city.

The sentences passed upon the desperadoes "Buck" and "Jim" by Judge Fraser, at Dorchester, on Thursday were such as the circumstances of the cases would call for, and although the extreme penalty of the law was passed upon both prisoners they richly deserved it and could not expect it to be otherwise. There is no doubt that both "Buck" and "Jim" have been desperate characters for years past and dangerous ones to be at large. They have come to that end which all such characters must come to sooner or later and their fate should, and undoubtedly will be, a warning to others who are following in their footsteps.

The roadmaster has been having a number of our shade trees, on the different streets, trimmed this week and good judgement has been used in the removal of those branches which hung too low and in many cases spoilt the appearance of these beautiful elms. We are glad to see that an interest is taken in our trees as they are the greatest attraction that Fredericton has to boast of.

Wisdom in a Nutshell.

First, keep cholera away from you by establishing a quarantine cordon that will not be fooled and which makes no exceptions to its rules for safety. It must hold suspected ships and their crews and their cargoes until they have been cleaned before a peradventure of infection. This is the first and great rule, and the second is like unto it.—

You must keep yourself away from cholera. To do this be clean, be sober, be calm. Do not run away at the first whisper of danger, for fright is one of the best conductors of disease known to the doctors. See not only that your own property is in a condition to delight the sanitary inspector but your neighbor's also. If the latter's bed is not so send in a complaint by the first mail to the Board of Health. By this means you will be showing that you love your neighbor as yourself.

Look to your plumbing. Better a big plumber's bill in the house than Asiatic cholera. Do not overload your stomach. Eschew trash. Drink no water which is suspicious. But don't drink whiskey on the plea that it is a preventive. If you must disinfect your insides take carbolic acid plain. It is a quicker death and a more decent one than drunkenness.

Do not derange your digestion. It is opening the door to cholera, as any good doctor will tell you.

What the Choir Said.

Singers in church and elsewhere are not always as careful as they ought to be to articulate their words distinctly. A little girl entered the meeting house not long ago—as related in the New York Tribune—just as the choir was singing the anthem.

"Hallelujah! Hallelujah!" said the singers; but the little girl, whose thoughts were somewhat preoccupied, we may imagine, did not catch the words correctly. After getting home she startled her aunt by saying:

"I never saw such a nice choir. They stopped right in the middle of an anthem and spoke to me."

"Why, my dear," said her auntie, "I didn't notice it"

"But they did. You know I wore my new cloak, and as soon as I came in the choir said: 'Hardly knew you! hardly knew you!' two or three times."

"Whar Am She?"

The latest story regarding the New York Central's Empire State express was told at the Albany Press Club a few nights ago. Three colored men employed in one of the large brickyards on the Hudson River had never seen the famous train pass, as before they could get in position to see it go by it would be gone, and all that was visible was a glimpse of the rear signal flags. One day recently they arranged to stand one at the north end of the yard, another at the south end, and one in the middle, and as the train approached each would notify the other, so as to secure a good look at her at the appointed time. The train appeared in sight a few minutes later. The man at the south end called out, "Here she comes;" the one at the north end, "There she goes!" and the one in the middle cried: "Whar am she?"—Albany Journal.

At dinner one evening, Miss Jay was, most amiable to a young captain who sat next to her. He was mightily pleased at being on such nice terms with a live actress. Suddenly she said, in her artless, pretty manner.

"I am to take a boy's part in a new play, and I have been watching you ever since we were introduced. You don't mind do you?"

"It made a fellow feel such a fool don't you know," remarked the captain as he told the story in confidence.

An average waltz takes a dancer over about three quarters of a mile. A square dance makes him cover half a mile. A girl with a well filled programme travels thus in an evening: Twelve waltzes, nine miles; four other dances, at a half-mile apiece, which is hardly a fairly big estimate, two miles more; the intermission stroll and the trips to the dressing-room to renovate her gown and complexion, half a mile; grand total, eleven and a half miles.

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

Running Comments on Passing Events.

Sundrv Ebullitions in Prose and Rhyme.

How the Domestic, Social and Literary World is Wagging.

The early Celts worshipped the dawn and the sunrise. It is more than probable, therefore, that their liking for the color green, which we see in their flags, sashes, etc., arose from a mistake among those who had lost a thorough knowledge of the Irish language. The Sun, in Celtic, is called by a word pronounced exactly like our word "green," and it is likely that the Irish fondness for that color arose through the striking similarity of the two words. In the same way when we talk about a greenhouse we think they are so called because plants are kept green in them during the winter; yet it is far more probable that the word is derived from the old Celtic word for the sun, because greenhouse are so built as to catch the rays and heat of the sun and store them for future use.

At a cricket-match played in the park of a well-known baronet in Sussex there was a scarcity of available tallent. It was necessary, in consequence, to secure the services of one of the footmen of the hall as umpire. In due course the baronet his master, went in, and the village bowler was put on. The second time he bowled, the baronet stopped the ball with his leg, and the cry of "How's that?" was raised.

It was the footman who had to answer, and, turning to his master, he exclaimed, in a half-apologetic tone, "I'm afraid I must say 'Not at home,' Sir George."

"Not at home!" cried the baronet, "What do you mean?"

"Well, then, Sir George," James made answer, "If you will have it, I mean that you're hout!"

The fact that people lost on a desert or in a forest invariably walk in a circle is due to slight inequality of the legs. Careful measurements of a series of skeletons have shown that only 10 per cent. had the right limb longer than the left, while in 55 per cent. the left leg was the longer. The result of one limb being longer than the other will naturally be that a person will unconsciously take a longer step with the longer limb, and consequently will trend to the right or left, according as the left or right leg is the longer, unless the tendency to deviation is corrected by the eye.

The left leg being more frequently the longer, as evinced by the measurement of the skeleton, the inclination should take place more frequently to the right than to the left, and this conclusion is quite borne out by the observations made on a number of persons when walking blindfold. Further, on measurements of the arms it is found that in 72 per cent. the right arm is longer than the left, while in 24 per cent, the left arm is the longer—showing that a considerable majority of persons are right handed and left legged. The inequality in the length of limbs is not confined to any particular sex or race, but seems to be universal in all respects.—Peterson's Weekly.

6TH HALF-YEARLY COMPETITION

The Most Interesting Contest Ever Offered by the Canadian Agriculturist.

One Thousand Dollars in Cash, a pair of handsome Shetland Ponies, Carriage and Harness, and over two thousand other valuable prizes for the Agriculturist's brightest readers! Who will have them? According to the usual custom for some years past the publishers of THE AGRICULTURIST now offer their Sixth Half-yearly Literary Competition. This grand competition will, no doubt, be the most gigantic and successful one ever presented to the people of the United States and Canada.

One Thousand Dollars in cash will be paid to the person sending in the largest list of English words constructed from letters in the words "The Canadian Agriculturist."

Five Hundred Dollars in cash will be given to the second largest list.

A Handsome Pair of Shetland Ponies, Carriage and Harness, will be given for the third largest list.

Over one thousand additional prizes awarded in order of merit: One Grand Piano; $300 organ; $400 piano; Dinner Sets; Ladies' Gold Watches; Silk Dress Patterns; Portiere Curtains, Silver Tea Services, Tennyson's Poems, bound in cloth; Dickens' in 12 volumes, bound in cloth, etc.

As there are more than 1,000 prizes, any one who takes the trouble to prepare an ordinary good list will not fail to receive a valuable prize. This is the biggest thing in the competition line that we have ever placed before the public, and all who do not take part will miss an opportunity of a life time.

Rules—1. A letter cannot be used oftener than it appears in the words "The Canadian Agriculturist." For instance the word "egg" could not be used, as there is but one "g" in the three words. 2. Words having more than one meaning but spelled the same can be used but once. 3. Names of places and persons barred. 4. Errors will not invalidate a list—the wrong words will simply not be counted.

Each list must contain one dollar to pay for six month's subscription to "The Agriculturist." If two or more tie, the largest list which bears the earliest postmark will take the first prize, and the others will receive prizes in order of merit. United States money and stamps taken at par.

The object in offering these magnificent prizes is to introduce our popular magazine into new homes, in every part of the American continent.

Every competitor enclosing 30 cents in Lamps extra, will receive free, by mail, postpaid, one to "The Canadian Agriculturist's" Elegant Souvenier Spoons of Canada.

Prizes awarded to persons residing in the United States will be shipped from our New York office free of duty. All money letters should be registered.

Our Former Competiton.—We have given away $25,000 in prizes during the last two years, and have thousands of letters from prize-winners in every state in the union and every part of Canada and Newfoundland.
