INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY.

According to prophetic accounts in the newspapers, the Canadian Pacific and the Intercolonial Railways will soon merge into one concern—that is to say, the former is to become possessor of the latter upon conditions that the Dominion Government will provide a subsidy for a fast line of steamers which are to cross the Atlantic in three days and land their passengers in Quebec in five days. At first sight objections might be raised to this amalgamation on the grounds that all monopolies of the kind lead to oppressive tariffs—that companies take advantage of their strength and opportunities to restrict traffic by the imposition of undue rates—hence the unwisdom of cohesion in the present case. While there may be some solid argument in this objection there is another view to be taken. If monopolists are too exacting they themselves interfere with their own interests; for although a railroad has become of vital necessity to trade, it is not so potent that people are necessarily compelled to use it—at any rate only the direct necessity will oblige merchants to use it, and much business may be conducted independently of it, especially where water carriage is available. It does not follow that passengers or freight from St. John to Boston are obliged to pass over the railroad at exorbitant charges, when the Intercolonial line of steamers can perform the same services, so that the monopoly fears of an amalgamation of the C. P. R. and the Intercolonial are not such a formidable objection to the scheme.

But again, the Intercolonial has been running behind a quarter of a million every year, which if continued will in a few years increase the burden of taxation enormously. We should therefore get clear of this load if possible. Even if this yearly deficiency is diverted in another channel, viz: to a subsidy for a fast line of steamers, we shall be the gainers over the present dead weight, for rapid transit from England to Canada, means a great influx of Europeans to this part of the world thus bringing Halifax and St. John in the direct line of travel, especially next season during the Chicago exposition. The Canadian Pacific Railway being the owners of the Intercolonial will make the road from Halifax to St. John tell for all it is worth, in speed, comfort, gorgeous fittings, etc., whereas at present this road appears to be so badly managed that there is very little satisfaction in passengers passing over the line. On the whole it is our opinion that if the two lines were united great benefits would result to the Maritime Provinces, with a fast line of steamers in connection.

QUEEN'S COUNTY.

Premier Blair has wisely decided to represent Queen's County in the Local Legislature, and on the 22nd of this month the Attorney Generalship will be located in that county. Poor York! how sorry does it now feel that the recent mistake which it made, cannot be undone and the Premier of the Province—so long representing this constituency—going from its grasp and another county taking him in with open arms. Much sympathy is expressed for York from all parts of the province and the other counties will reap the benefits which the government are sure to bestow.

It is hardly to be expected that any opposition will offer to the return of Mr Blair, but should anyone be found willing to undertake so hazardous a task, it will be merely a shadow, and the individual (whoever he may unfortunately be) will be so completely snowed under that only a few fragments will be left of him, and he will be relegated to political oblivion for all time to come.

No orange or temperance cry can be worked on the intelligent electors of Queen's. So those of the opposition who have been holding out these threats might as well, first as last, make up their minds to that effect, and rest their souls in peace.

The announcement of Mr. Blair's candidature for the suffrages of Queen's will be hailed with delight by the electors, and we can readily see the pride that county will naturally take in being represented by the Attorney General. What is York's loss will be Queen's gain, and we heartily congratulate them on their good luck

POET LAUREATE.

The selection of the English poet Laureat, has developed unexpected difficulties. If the early radical utterances of Swinburne bar him out it will be a great pity, for in genius he is the only fit successor to Tennyson. Personally Swinburne has gained in self-control and conversation during the past ten years, and he could be trusted to discharge in a fitting manner the duties of a position which Tennyson has made honorable in the highest degree. Of course, William Morris, with his socialist ideas is not to be considered. Of the others, only two will probably have their claims seriously regarded. These are Sir Edwin Arnold and Lewis Morris. Arnold is far more widely known than his rival, but in England he does not hold so good a position nor is he so strong at court. Morris is a Welshman of excellent family, who has written very good poetry. His "Epic of Hades" is enough to establish the poetical reputation of any writer, as it gives better than any other modern poem the spirit of classical life. Mr. Morris has written much other good poetry, such as his "Songs of Two Worlds" and "Songs Unsung," but his strongest claim to the laureateship rests upon the fact that at the time of the public anniversary he was requested, owing to the illness of Tennyson, to write the ode, which pleased the Queen. Despite all that is said about the lack of influence of Queen Victoria, she seems to have much to say in regard to a matter like this, and if she gives her vote for Morris he will get the coveted honor.

The presidential election in the United States will take place on Tuesday the 8th of November. This election is being watched with a great deal of interest by large numbers of Canadians, as upon the result depends, in a great measure, whether or not our future trade relations with the United States will be so strained as in the past. Mr. Cleveland, the standard bearer of the Democrats is confident of securing his election, while the Republicans are equally confident that President Harrison will continue to hold office for another term. The death of Mrs. Harrison, will in all probability, create a sympathy for the President that will be the means of turning a large number of votes that would otherwise go to the leader of the Democrats.

The speed contest between Nancy Harts and the bicyclers continues, and the wheelmen are gaining all the time. It is hardly too much to say that within a very few years the flying wheel will push the running horses as well as the trotters, and that only a locomotive can be guaranteed to go a mile faster than an expert on a bicycle.

D. L. House has a colored student. Mr. E. J. Glave will give a descriptive lecture of his travels in Africa on Monday night at the city hall.

Howorths double show and Irish tourists will appear at the city hall on Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

John Aikens Of St. Mary's, Ont. A Great Sufferer from

Dyspepsia

Perfectly Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla

The best stomach tonics known to medical science are so happily combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla that it cures Indigestion, and Dyspepsia in its severest forms, when other medicines fail. In many cases Hood's Sarsaparilla seems to possess a magical touch, so quick and so gratifying the relief. Read the following from an aged and respected citizen of St. Mary's, Ont.:

I am very glad to give this testimonial as to what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I suffered very much with dyspepsia. I have been taking medicine for some time, but it has done me no good.

For 25 Years and I never had anything do me as much good as Hood's Sarsaparilla. Every symptom of the dyspepsia has entirely disappeared and I feel that I cannot praise the medicine too highly.

Eat Better, Sleep Better and feel stronger than I have for many years. I have taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla bought of Mr. Sanderson, the druggist. JOHN AIKEN'S.

CORDIAL ENDORSEMENT. From Mr. Sanderson, the Druggist. "I know Mr. Aikens to be a strictly honest, straightforward man, and take much pleasure in testifying to the truth of the testimonial he gives above." F. G. SANDERSON, Druggist, Queen Street, St. Mary's, Ontario.

NOTES AND NOTIONS

Running Comments on Passing Events.

Sundry Ebulitions in Prose and Rhyme.

How the Domestic, Social and Literary World is Wagging.

The following is a comparison of European navies: Great Britain 370; France, 306; Russia 261; Germany, 175; Italy, 163.

The American 'Brewers' Journal' gives the present aggregate amount of British capital invested in American breweries at £18,311,698 sterling.

In London a number of ladies of late have had their back pockets cut out while travelling on the top of omnibuses; the seats being open at the back.

One of the last of the English tithes-barns, in which the abbots were wont to collect the tithes of those who owed them rent and services, has been demolished. It was located at Peterborough, and was built in 1307.

Last year 27,240 articles left in public vehicles were taken to the lost property office, Scotland Yard, by cabmen and bus conductors. Some 12,000 of these, many of them valuable, were never reclaimed, and became the property of the finders.

The marriage rate for the first three months of the present year in England fell to 117 per 10,000 of the population. This was 20 below the rate for the same quarter of 1891. In the Metropolis the matrimonial rate was above the general average, being 123 per 10,000.

In India and South America there is a beautiful little tree which bears rough leaves and very sweet scented flowers, that open in the evening and fall off at the break of day. This has caused the tree to be looked upon as the sign of mourning, and to be given the name of the "Sorrowful Tree." It seems very sad that the pretty sweet flowers should bloom only for a night, and should fall off before the day comes to show their beauty.

Maggie's Amusement.

There is a story told of a tame magpie, which was seen busily employed in a garden gathering pebbles and, with much solemnity and a studied air, dropping them into a hole about eighteen inches deep, made to receive a post. After dropping each stone it cried "Currauck!" triumphantly, and set off for another. On examining the spot a poor fool was found in the hole, which the magpie was stoning for his amusement.

A New Railway Carriage Seating.

A steel wire railway carriage seating, made by a Warrington firm, is, it is said, fast taking the place of the padded and volute spring seats. The new seat is composed of minute steel wire rings, compactly knit together, over which only a very thin layer of hair or a pad of felt is necessary. The London and North-Western Railway has already fitted 653 to their carriages and saloon berths, while the Great Eastern Railway has—the 'Railway News' says—in use nearly 5,000.

The Origin of Lynch Law.

The action of a merchant of the town of Galway, Ireland, in 1526, gave rise to the expression "Lynch Law." His name was James Lynch Fitz-Stephen, and he was mayor or warden of the town when his son committed a foul murder. He had the young man arrested and brought before him, heard the evidence, sentenced him to death, and, fearing a rescue from the prison, had him brought home and hanged on the doorstep. Summary justice has ever since been known by the name of this Brutus-like father.

A TU-LIP OF A LOVE LETTER.

Which Accidentally Fell in the way of the Editor.

KINGSTON, Nov. 3rd 1892.

MY OWN DEAR DARLING—

How has the world been using you since I saw you twenty-four years (or was it hours) ago? Ah! that was bliss; this is blister. When I arrived home last night or rather this morning—the governor, metaphorically speaking, fell on my neck and kissed me, and informed me I was a second edition of the prodigal son and the calf rolled into one. You know, I forgot my latch-key. He found it, and so waited up.

Oh, that last dance! That heavenly conservatory! Blessings be upon thee, oh, conservatory! Beneath those leafy palms, two other palms exchanged mute greetings; and tu-lips met tu-lips in the silent moonlight, and under the shadow of the electric light plant.

Sweetest! what a walk it was home, when the man in the moon looked down upon us with his kindly glance, and seemed to say: "Be happy while you can, dear mortals. Don't mind me! I shall count the spoons after you have gone."

How can I exist for the next week? Don't be away long. Write every day to your own Jack.

When thou art far away I love thee more than ever. Each moment seems a day, This image fadeseth never.

When thou art far away, Thy spirit haunts me still; My thoughts ne'er from thee stray, 'Tis absence makes me ill!

Oh! come back to me soon, My own dear little pet; I live for thee, and thee alone— On thee my love is set.

If you have fully recovered from the effects of reading the above effusion, you will doubtless be agreeably surprised to learn that the above lines are absolutely original. You possess, as the phrenologists say, strong natural sense, and will therefore be able to discover fresh beauties, fresh charms, and a refreshing absence of conventionality every time you do me the honor of perusing them.

Well, dear, the elections are over. Of course I can't see you with your usual sanctities. "That's news!"

Well, dear, we'll dismiss politics—I would however, just remark that since we became acquaint, I have become a strong Unionist, and yet advocate Home Rule! If you think very hard, you may perhaps be able to discover my meaning, dear.

How is your dear mother!—my mother soon to be! Give her my love and duty.

With fondest love, I beg to move We now adjourn. I must depart, Then hast my heart, And I have thine, A fair return! So, sweetest pet, Do not forget That thou art mine.

A BAREFACED FRAUD.

The following clipped from the columns of the Toronto Globe, Oct. 29th, is of sufficient importance to newspaper readers to warrant its reproduction in these columns:

To the Editor of THE GLOBE,

SIR,—I am sure you will agree with me when I say that something ought to be done to stop the barefaced swindling (no matter what it will do) which is going on in certain directions in our midst, and I have no reason to doubt that my experience in this city is the experience of others in many parts of Canada. I have read so much of the great success of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People that I determined to give them a trial for nervous troubles. I accordingly went to a drug store to procure a supply. On asking the druggist for the pills he took down a glass jar and proceeded to take out the quantity, "But," said I, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not sold in bulk, and that cannot be them."

"O, yes it is," said the dealer. "We always get them in bulk and sell them that way." I had read the caution of the proprietors to the effect that these pills were never sold in bulk, and thinking they should know best, I declined taking them, and left the store. My next experience was no more fortunate. Again pills pink in color to imitate the genuine were offered me. When I remonstrated this dealer admitted the pills were not supplied by the Dr. Williams' Co., but declared that they were just the same. And yet, for the sake of a little more profit he would have imposed them on me for the genuine Pink Pills had I been less cautious. As I left the store, I thought the repeated warning against imitations given by the Williams' Co. must be the result of bitter experience on their part. But I did not expect I would meet with three dishonest dealers (do you think the term is too strong?) in succession. My next experience proved the third dealer little better than the other two. When I asked for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills he said he had them, and then produced a package which I saw at a glance bore another name, and which he insisted were just as good. I declined taking them, and turned to leave the store, when the druggist offered to give me the genuine pills. But I did not feel that I ought to patronize a man who would have imposed something on me had I been less guarded, and declined buying. I almost despaired getting the genuine pills unless I sent to head quarters; but on my visit to the fourth drug store I was more successful and was at once handed the genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. No doubt, Mr. Editor, my experience is that of many others, and no doubt hundreds less cautious are constantly being deceived. I think the newspapers ought to do something towards protecting their readers from frauds of this kind. We frequently read of reporters doing clever detective work, etc., visiting churches in the garb of the lowly, and then writing up their reception. Here is a new field for them. Let some clever reporter travel the length and breadth of this city in humble guise, and see how many dealers are honest enough to give him what he asks for without trying to impose a substitute upon him.

I trust, Mr. Editor you will give this a place in your columns, as it may serve to prevent some one else from being cheated.

6TH HALF-YEARLY COMPETITION.

The Most Interesting Contest Ever Offered by the Canadian Agriculturist.

One Thousand Dollars in Cash, a pair of handsome Shetland Ponies, Carriage and Harness, and over two thousand other valuable prizes for the Agriculturist's brightest readers! Who will have them! According to the usual custom for some years past the publishers of THE AGRICULTURIST now offer their Sixth Half-yearly Literary Competition. This grand competition will, no doubt, be the most gigantic and successful one ever presented to the people of the United States and Canada.

One Thousand Dollars in cash will be paid to the person sending in the largest list of English words constructed from letters in the words "The Canadian Agriculturist."

Five Hundred Dollars in cash will be given to the second largest list.

A Handsome Pair of Shetland Ponies, Carriage and Harness, will be given for the third largest list.

Over one thousand additional prizes awarded in order of merit: One Grand Piano; $300 organ; $400 piano; Dinner Sets; Ladies' Gold Watches; Silk Dress Patterns; Portiers Curtains; Silver Tea Services; Tennyson's Poems, bound in cloth; Dickens in 12 volumes, bound in cloth, etc.

As there are more than 1,000 prizes, any one who takes the trouble to prepare an ordinary good list will not fail to receive a valuable prize. This is the biggest thing in the competition line that we have ever placed before the public, and all who do not take part will miss an opportunity of a life time.

Rules—1. A letter cannot be used oftener than it appears in the words "The Canadian Agriculturist." For instance the word "egg" could not be used, as there is but one "g" in the three words. 2. Words having more than one meaning but spelled the same can be used but once. 3. Names of places and persons barred. 4. Errors will not invalidate a list—the wrong words will simply not be counted.

Each list must contain one dollar to pay for six months' subscription to "The Agriculturist." If two or more lists, the largest list which bears the earliest postmark will take the first prize, and the others will receive prizes in order of merit. United States money and stamps taken at par.

The object in offering these magnificent prizes is to introduce our popular magazine into new homes, in every part of the American continent.

Every competitor enclosing 30 cents in Lamps extra, will receive free, by mail, postpaid, one to "The Canadian Agriculturist's" Elegant Souvenir Spoons of Canada.

Prizes awarded to persons residing in the United States will be shipped from our New York office free of duty. All money letters should be registered.

Our Former Competition.—We have given away $25,000 in prizes during the last two years, and have thousands of letters from prize-winners in every state in the union and every part of Canada and Newfoundland. Lord Kilcourse A. D. C., to the Governor General of Canada, writes: "I shall recommend my friends to enter your competitions." M. M. Branden, Vancouver, B. C., "received $1,000 in gold" and he holds his receipt for same. A few of the prize winners: Miss J. Robinson, Toronto, $1,500; J. J. Branden, Fenelon Falls, Ont., $1,500; David Harrison, Syracuse, N. Y., $835; H. Beavis, St. Louis, Mo., $300; Jas. Baptist, West Duluth, Minn., $500; Miss Georgia Robertson, Oak St., Brookline, $1,000; Fred H. Hills, 359 State St., Bridgeport, Conn., and thousands of others.

Address all communications to THE AGRICULTURIST, Peterborough, Ontario.
