

GUY FAWKES' DAY.

THE ORANGEMEN'S CELEBRATION OF THE

Frustration of the Gunpowder Plot.

Turned into an Opposition Committee Meeting.

Last Saturday evening being the 5th of November, and Guy Fawkes' Day, the Orangemen of this city met at the York Street restaurant to celebrate the frustration of the gunpowder plot. Mr. Lindsay, the popular proprietor, who is noted for his ability as a caterer, excelled himself on this occasion; handsomely decorated tables, laden with an abundance of all the delicacies of the season, greeted the eye of each person as they entered the large dining room, which was also tastefully decorated. After all had partaken liberally of the edibles, County Master Pitts arose and in a few appropriate remarks proposed a toast to the Queen. Mr. George Parker, one of the oldest members of the Order, was then called upon by Bro Pitts for a few remarks, but, being still busily engaged disposing of the good things spread before him, declined to respond, and

Mr. C. W. Beckwith a guest, was called upon. Mr. Beckwith began his address by remarking that it was the first time he had had the pleasure of meeting with the Orangemen in any of their celebrations, and he felt it a great honor to be there. He, as a member of the Sons of England, and holding a high position in that society, a society with principles similar to those of the Orange Order, felt proud of the action taken by the Orangemen in the late election—but perhaps politics are not in order! Gleaser reporter—Go on, go on.

County Master Pitts—Let her gush. Mr. Beckwith having received the consent of the County Master and Gleaser reporter, proceeded to do up the Blair government in one round and sat down, after proposing a toast to the representatives of York, amid thunders of applause from the chairman and a number of his supporters. Some of the party refused to drink to this toast and remained seated.

J. K. Pinder, M. P. P., also an invited guest, rose to respond, and after several preliminary movements in the shape of whipping off his chin and pulling down his vest, managed to ejaculate that "he was too full for utterance," (a remark he borrowed from Mr. Geo. Parker) and sat down with the expressed intention of "sticking to the Orangemen."

County Master Pitts followed, and immediately took up the political question. In his remarks he stated that the stars cast upon him, the representative of the orangemen, were an insult to the orangemen as a body.

A voice—Oh no, not at all. An an-and gentleman, I tell you the little circulars did the business in York and will do good service in Queens, and don't you forget it, and, and, and we'll bury Andrew G. Blair so deep that he won't ever come up again, no sir ree-bob, he won't, not by a jugful and don't you forget it, either. I tell you we are the people, ain't we Nat, eh, old boy!

Nat—Of course we are. You bet we are, and we'll show them that Pitts is not quite so crazy as they take him to be.

And now, gentlemen, I will call upon County Master Neales, of Queens.

Mr. Neales, upon rising DID mention the fact that the lodges had met for the purpose of celebrating the frustration of the gunpowder plot, but immediately drifted into the same channel as the previous speakers. He informed the meeting that although he held three government positions in Queens he was willing to sacrifice all for the cause, and trust to Providence. He, as County Master of Queens, felt sure that if the orangemen of Queens could be worked as they had been in York, Mr. Blair would stand a very poor show of representing the county of Queens.

Mr. J. DeVeber Neales might have, but did not, enlighten the meeting as to his reasons for so suddenly becoming so bitterly opposed to the government. He refrained from telling them how he had been ambitious enough to aspire for nomination, and desired to represent Queens as a government supporter in the late election. He did not tell them that his partner, Mr. Ebbitt, had secured the nomination he so much coveted, but declined to accept it, the understanding being that in case Mr. Ebbitt declined Mr. Neales would be the nominee. He did not tell them that the people absolutely refused to have him as their representative in the stead of Mr. Ebbitt. He did not tell them how he then sought nomination as a representative of the opposition in that county, and was refused. He did not tell them that he was, at the time he was addressing them, seeking nomination at the hands of the orangemen.

All these facts Mr. Neales failed to tell his listeners, and are the facts that are generally known.

Mr. Neales was followed by Ald. Walker, N. Smith, and H. McLeod, who, it must be admitted, endeavored to make their remarks lean somewhat more to orangism, and less to politics than the former speakers.

The celebration of the frustration of the powder plot was a decided farce, some of those present going away disgusted with the County Master for allowing the celebration to be turned into nothing more or less than an opposition committee meeting.

The party broke up at 12 o'clock by singing "God Save the Queen."

The United States had grown sick of McKinleyism and evidently were pining for a change as can clearly be seen by the result of the election of Tuesday last. With the new administration at Washington in favor of freer trade relations with the world, and a similar one at Ottawa the future of this North American continent is brighter than ever before.

The Telegraph gave the startling information that Mr. Wm. Smith of Lancaster, dug from his garden a turnip weighing 11 1/2 lbs. If the Telegraph reporter will take the trouble to call on Mr. T. H. Boyd, North End, St. John, he can see a turnip that weighs 15 lbs., 11 oz., and a cabbage that will tip the scales at 15 1/2 lbs. dug from the garden of that gentleman.

People are warned to look out for a counterfeit U. S. $2 bill of the issue of 1886 of the $2 silver certificate. A difference from the genuine is that the upper loop in the J in James in the signature W. Hyatt points directly between the D. At the Tory nominating convention at St. John on Monday night they appear to have had a dog and a cat sort of a time. Unseemly threats were indulged in; unbrotherly expressions employed towards each other; and one faction appeared to be more determined to vanquish the other than the wicked Platinists who belong to the Liberal party. We congratulate Mr. George Robertson the nominee that he escaped alive.

General Herbert, it appears, while inspecting the C. R. I. here this week, made it rather unpleasant for several of the officers, and particularly for the surgeon. On Tuesday morning he happening to be late, and having apparently hurriedly dressed, appeared on the grounds, as the General termed it, "in a slovenly condition," and was sent back to barracks. According to all accounts the Colonel did not escape censure.

The Progress, St. John, has undergone the ordeal of a strike by the compositors, the men having been ordered out by the executive committee of the Typographical Union, owing to the fact that two girls, who of course were not members of the Union, had been employed in the office. The world's record for trotting stallions was lowered last Saturday at Nashville, Tenn., by the young horse Kremlin, owned by Wm. Russell Allen of Pittsfield, Mass., at Cumberland Park.

The son of Lord Russell and Eventide started against his record of 2.11 1/2. Ed. Bither, who gave both J. A brilliant wedding took place at Queensbury on Thanksgiving day at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dyke-man, being the marriage of their daughter Blanche, to Mr. J. W. Hart, of Sussex.

DEAD ON THE TRAIN.

Mrs. Harold Allen of Leominster Dies of Consumption.

FITCHBURG, Nov. 9.—Passengers on the train which arrives in this city over the Fitchburg railroad at 5 p. m. were treated to a sensation yesterday afternoon, when the train arrived here, by a strange case of death.

The train is express to Ayer from Boston. At the latter place among the passengers to board the train were a man and woman.

The former was not a person to attract particular attention, but his wife, for such the woman proved to be, was noticeably pale and haggard looking.

They dropped into a seat, and nothing of an unusual nature occurred further to cause any attention being given the two until the train pulled into the station here, when the startling discovery was made that the woman was dead.

The husband became aware of the fact when he made an effort to arouse her, as she had apparently fallen asleep.

The couple proved to be Mr. and Mrs. Harold Allen of Leominster, formerly residents of this city.

From Mr. Allen it was learned they had been to Nashua, N. H., on a visit and were returning home by way of Ayer Junction, intending to reach Leominster from this city on the electric cars.

The body of the dead woman was viewed by Medical Examiner Kiely and afterwards taken to the morgue. The deceased was about 47 years old.

Dr. Kiely pronounced death to have been due to natural causes. It is his opinion that she was a consumptive.

A BASTARDLY DEED.

An Unknown Man Deliberately Shoots a Boy.

Two boys named Roy F. Wood and Chas. Doyle were in a wooded shed near the house of Fred Capen in North Stoughton Mass. the other day when an unknown man came out of the wood with a gun on his shoulder. On seeing the boys he took aim and fired shooting young Doyle, instantly killing him. The man then escaped into the woods.

Catarah, Not Local but Constitutional.

Dr. Dio Lewis, the eminent Boston physician, in a magazine article says: "A radical error underlies nearly all medical treatment of catarrh. It is not a disease of the man's nose; it is a disease of the man, showing itself in the nose—a Local exhibition of a Constitutional trouble." Therefore, he argues, the use of snuff and other local applications is wrong, and while they seem to give temporary relief, they really do more harm than good. Other leading authorities agree with Dr. Lewis. Hence, the only proper method of cure for catarrh is by taking a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, reaching every part of the body through the blood, does eliminate all impurities and makes the whole man healthier. It removes the cause of the trouble and restores the diseased membrane to proper condition. That this is the practical result is proven by thousands of people who have been cured of catarrh by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Then another mob dragged her about and finally beat her to death. All the prisoners stoutly maintained that they had a right to kill a witch. The prisoners were sentenced to imprisonment and others to lose their civil rights.
