Rodgers, A. J. Machum. The league will meet next week at Mrs. Vanbuskirk's, York street.

Normal School Concert. The concert given in the Normal School yesterday afternoon was most successful. The dumb bell drill by a number of the young ladies was very interesting, as was the music from the merchant of Venice. The vocal, vocal and instrumental was very good. This being the first of the series the committee in charge have every reason to be confident. The Normal Light which will make its appearance Monday will contain a good account of the entertainment.

The Funeral of Mrs. Dr. Harrison. The funeral of the late Mrs. Dr. Harrison took place Monday afternoon and was largely attended. The remains were taken to the Cathedral where Bishop Kingdon performed the usual services, in which he was assisted by Rev. Dr. Alexander and Rev. Canon Roberts. The professors and the students marched in front of the hearse. At the Cathedral the students sang the burial hymn, and afterwards, at the grave in Forest Hill cemetery, "Rock of Ages," Mrs. Harrison just before her death having made this request.

The Snowflake Minstrels. The Snowflake Minstrels were greeted by a big house Tuesday night. The entertainment was a surprise, and pronounced by all a success. Everything was well managed and went with a vim and dash that greatly delighted the large audience. The end men were good, Joe Fox being a whole show in himself. The songs were well sung and received great applause. The singing by the different members of the company was much appreciated. The juvenile song and dance artists, the Leaman brothers, captured the audience and were recalled four times. The clog and gig dancing by Joe Matthews delighted the house. J. C. Wild's performance on the banjo and mandolin was well received and received two encores. The final fare "A trip to the world's fair," was very good, the local hits being excellent. The show, on the whole was good, the only mistake made being the reference to Mr. Crawley which was entirely uncalled for, and was not appreciated at all by the audience. The music by Harrison's orchestra was much appreciated and vociferously applauded.

A number of ladies and gentlemen are arranging for a drive to Keswick Tuesday evening. Mr. Wesley Vanwart will remove his law offices the 1st of May to the premises now occupied by J. G. Gunn.

John Kelly, of Ormoco, while hauling hay upset his load near Mr. Brannen's store and received a severe fall. Pastors are crowing over the fact that they raised a hog that tipped the scale at 1020 pounds and sold for $125.

Howard Trne, of Ormoco, who was taken to the Asylum last fall, has improved so much that it is expected he will soon be around among his friends again. Thursday night at 7 o'clock, a sleigh load of happy young folks started from Long's hotel, for the Keswick, where arrangements were made for a dance and supper at Hawkins' hotel.

The young ladies of St. Paul's Church working hand have every reason to feel proud of the Scottish concert given in the old Kirk under their auspices, Monday night. The concert was certainly a decided success. An interesting entertainment was given at Manville by the teachers and pupils of Christ's Church Sabbath School on Monday night. Rev. H. E. Dibble acted as chairman. Between twelve and thirteen dollars was realized.

Moncton's city council has passed a resolution, moved by Mayor Summer protesting against the transfer of the I. C. R. to the C. P. R. The resolution was addressed to the Hon. Josiah Wood, M. P., and asks him to use his influence against the transfer should it come up in the house. Wm. Wright, of Carlisle, Carleton Co. while working in the woods on the North West Miramichi cut a deep gash in his foot. He was taken with all speed to Hartland, but just as the unfortunate man was being taken into the doctor's office he expired from loss of blood.

Tuesday morning while Dr. Day and his son Fred were driving from Ormoco to St. John, they met with an accident opposite Evandale. Their sleigh struck a log and upset throwing them out. The horse ran as far as Hog's island, where he went through the ice and was drowned. The supper and dance given Monday night at Springhill by a number of ladies, was a most enjoyable affair. The party were driven out by Mr. Geo. I. Gunter, in his mammoth sleigh "Colossus." The F. O. M. W. Club Orchestra furnished the music. The ladies who had charge of the affair have every reason to congratulate themselves upon its success. The drive and dance was not given by the sewing circle of the Knights of Pythias as stated in the other papers.

James P. Wetmore fell from his chair and died at Clark's hotel last Tuesday evening shortly after six o'clock. He was in his usual good health, and was on the street only a short time before he died. Deceased was a brother of the late Judge Wetmore, and was admitted an attorney of the Supreme Court in October 1840. He was never married, and was about seventy-six years old. The funeral took place Thursday afternoon at half-past three from the residence of Mr. John Black.

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 14—Miss Lynch, daughter of Peter Lynch, the well known lawyer and historian was among the audience at a concert given by the Orpheus Club tonight. As she was returning home in company with several other ladies runaway team dashed into them, the shaft of the sleigh catching Miss Lynch under the chin and killing her instantly. Miss Lynch was about 40 years of age, and well known in society circles in this city.

On Saturday night last, Progress Council entertained 12 members from Star Council of this city, 19 from the Upper Magalloway Council of Temperance lodge and several from Banner Council of Gibson. A very enjoyable evening was spent. Among the prominent members of the "outside lodges" were: Mr. Thompson, Mr. Freeze, Mr. Downey, Mr. McFarlane, A. Treadwell, Harry Harrison and others. At the close, refreshments were served.

A sad story comes from Waverly, N. S. Some days ago, says an exchange, James Edwards, who lives there had a quarrel with his wife, which ended in the latter deserting her husband and going to live with her father. The wife tried to persuade the husband to allow her to take their two little children, aged four and six years respectively. The father thought too much of the little ones to part with them, and strenuously opposed the wishes of the mother. He succeeded in retaining them and commenced housekeeping on his own account. Saturday persons passing the house noticed no signs of life about the place. The windows were covered with frost, and no smoke was issuing from the chimney. They knocked but received no response. Thinking all was not right they forcibly entered the place. To their horror Edwards was found in his bed dead. The little ones were huddled beside their dead father three days.

What the Gossips have to Remark about

The Trend of Matters Political Parliamentary or Otherwise.

Some Touch-and-Go notices of all Mentionable Manner of Things.

It is humiliating to the Minister of Militia to read the report lately laid before the House of Commons by Major General Herbert, showing the rottenness of the militia system here in vogue, and we hope that a policy of retreatment in the expenditure, improvement in the country at large will be the outcome.

Those who persist in asserting that there is not much business carried on in New Brunswick should look for an instant at the statement made in Thursday's Telegraph to the effect that there will be 7,000,000 of lumber cut during the present lumber season in the York Keswick waters due within 25 miles of Fredericton. So large a cut would indicate that the lumber business at least, is not languishing in York County, and will give some color to the statement made by President Van Horne of the C. P. R. to the effect that the Maritime Province people have fortunes lying under their very noses. The revival of business in the Upper Keswick waters is due, however, to the intervention of American capitalists, and only proves more strongly than ever that New Brunswick would benefit very much under a system of free commercial intercourse with the people of the States.

The Snowflake Minstrels acquitted themselves with great credit and were given a good hearing by the Fredericton people. Only on one occasion was there any expression of disapproval from the audience, namely when the name of Mr. Crawley was so lightly referred to among the "Local Hits." It is understood, however, that that unfortunate allusion to the scandal so malignantly sought to be connected with Mr. Crawley's good name by one of that gentleman's inveterate enemies, was inspired, not by any malicious desire on the part of the management to perpetuate the memory of that affair, but by misrepresentations made to one of the members of the company by a citizen who shall be nameless, and who apparently has no excuse for indulging in a little cold-blooded amusement at the expense of a minister of the Gospel in good standing.

The particular member of the company who was thus indirectly responsible for the "Hit" referred to, had no idea of the real position of affairs, and was guided entirely by the statements made to him by the citizen spoken of. Had he had any suspicion that he was referring to an affair which is regarded here as nothing short of a piece of persecution, he would not, we are sure, have made the slightest allusion to it; but as it is the people of Fredericton cannot justly lay the blame on the shoulders of the company.

Dr. Pungley and C. W. Weldon, Q. C., and Messrs. W. A. Ewing and I. Allen Jack, of St. John, are among the arrivals at the Queen this week.

Dr. F. M. Brown having removed to Centreville, Carleton Co. Dr. McLaren will occupy his premises on the corner of Queen and Regent street, and not Dr. Lann, as stated in other city papers. Dr. Lann will also remove to Centreville shortly.

Married. Wednesday evening the Rev. F. D. Crawley united in marriage Mr. Charles Williams and Miss Blanche DeLong. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride, King street. The boys gave the happy young couple a rousing chi-vari.

An "Ardent" lover, of Mungerville, went to Ormoco where he became greatly infused. On his return he commenced to abuse his landlady, whereupon a domestic stepped in and gave him "two lovely black eyes."

A Graphic Description of a Trip across the Continent in Winter.

By a Frederictonian.

We have been running for the last three hours through a more level section of the prairie, covered with stunted sage bush or bunch-grass, and tenanted for the most part by cattle and coyotes, and now have again reached a more hilly section. I can compare the country hereabouts to nothing that more nearly resembles it than the major position of Sugar Island above Fredericton, in the late autumn, and entirely deprived of its trees. It is here perhaps more hilly than that island, but generally speaking it is very similar. We are making good time, and will be at Calgary before long, but as I am growing sleepy, I think I will come to a full stop and say goodnight. I will write again from Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, B. C. Jan. 25th.—We reached Medicine Hat about 7.30 Sunday night, and stopped and had some supper. The evening was very warm, with a fine new moon shining in a clear sky. There had been a warm chinook wind blowing over this part of the prairie all the last few hours and the snow was melting on every side.

We had seen many herds of cattle and small ponies in-yards and corrals, all feeding on the short bunch grass growing up through the snow, and now and then we would see a coyote scot away over the snow with that remarkable gliding speed which Mark Twain so humorously and truthfully describes. Medicine Hat is situated in the midst of the Rolling Prairie and on both sides of the railway, like all these prairie towns.

This place and Moose Jaw are the two largest places which we have sighted since leaving Regina, the capital of Assiniboia. You may perhaps be surprised to know that the ordinary railway station town in this country, of which so many are marked on the C. P. R. Folder map, consists of merely the station house and other incidental buildings, a railway switch and a couple of buildings presumably tenanted by railway men of some kind. In some, and perhaps in nearly all of them, there may be a small variety store supplying the country round about with the necessaries of life at pretty high figures.

At Moose Jaw we are informed that 50 new buildings have been put up during the past season. The name Moose Jaw seems peculiar, and we are told is an abbreviation of the English translation of the Indian name, which in full means "The-creek-where-the-whiteman-mended-the-cart-with-a-Moose-Jaw-bone." I can see some sense in abbreviating the name of this town, but had rather some of the other prairie stations in this country would pay less attention to the size of the name and more to the size of the town itself. Medicine Hat appears, as far as we could see from the station in the moonlight to be a town of considerable population and importance. Its site is a commanding one in the prairie, falling away on every side but the Southern West. On the right hand or Northern side of the railway is an attempt, I presume on the part of the town corporation, to constitute a public park and gardens. A fenced enclosure contains a nursery of several hundreds of small thrifty looking spruce trees, transplanted at considerable expense from the foothills of the Rockies, laid out in regular patterns, and jealously guarded from the encroachments of irreverent strangers.

It is a praiseworthy undertaking; will, if it prospers, form quite an oasis in this treeless and comparatively waterless region.

We find an excellently good meal of venison at the leading restaurant for 35 cents and purchase a bottle of good rich milk for the ride through the Rockies. We heard some whispers even out here of a big snow storm in the selkirk range, and all hands consequently provide sufficient nourishment against any considerable delay. We post some letters here, and are off again straight west, heading now for the foothills of the Rockies, which we will reach about 5 o'clock to-morrow morning. We have disembarked a sick man at Medicine Hat, who came here from some point a short distance east to be admitted into the government hospital there. The moon rises higher and higher and hangs almost over our head, like a golden scimitar. All round and about us lies the white crusted snow glistening under the moon's rays, and extending away on every side, flat and ghostly. We slide away along over the wide plains, hour after hour with hardly a stop; passing now and then huge jets of natural gas burning near some habitation, or close beside the railway. These issue out of iron pipes 3 feet high, driven into the ground over the gas vein, and burn with a high, leaping, blue coloured flame. There are very many of these passed during the evening, and we cannot imagine for what purpose they have been lighted, unless it be the childlike interest which simple settlers such as I presume tenant these farms along here, have in watching the bright flames against the black night. At Langevin, however we are informed that this gas is used for pumping water for the supply of the railway. Nothing else of interest occurs until bed time, when there is the usual stir incidental to the making up of the berths and going to rest. One gentleman remarks that he is somewhat doubtful whether or not he is going to roost or "roast," so warm has the weather become. In the meantime we have passed the South Saskatchewan on a high iron bridge, shortly after leaving Medicine Hat. The river is here quite broad, and is navigable for steamers some distance above and for 800 miles below to Lake Winnipeg. We pass Star and Suffield, Langevin, Telley, Lutram, Crowfoot, the course of the railway line gradually ascending to meet the altitudes of the Rockies.

In August the prairie country around here is seen at its best advantage, and is a remarkably fine sight, resembling a billowy ocean of grass. The entire country hereabout is underlaid with two or more beds of coal, from the boring for which the natural gas occurs. Bow River can be seen from here in occasional glimpses. From Langevin, on a clear day the higher peaks of the Rockies, 150 miles away, may be seen and again at Crowfoot. Crowfoot is on the border between Assiniboia and Alberta. Near Crowfoot and to the south of the railway, is a large reservation occupied by the Blackfoot Indians. At Namaka is situated one of the most productive farms owned by the Canadian Agricultural Company. Of these farms there are a number in various districts in the whole aggregating about 105,000 acres. The company has imported a number of thoroughbred stock. Each of their farms contains about 10,000 acres, and they intend ultimately to have fully 4000 acres under cultivation at each point. The principal points are Pilot Butte, Rush Lake, Swift Current (this a large sheep farm) Crane Lake, Gull Lake and Kin-cord, these latter principally devoted to stock-raising. At Namaka the company has many other stock, a large herd of grade and pedigree Hereford cattle, and some heavy brood mares. Beyond Gleicher in the day time, we are told that a full view of the magnificent line of snow peaks and the Rockies can be obtained. Of course, as was our usual luck, we passed all these interesting places in the dead of night and all of us asleep. I had been looking forward to this far view of the Rockies, about which I had read and heard so much as one of the most enjoyable incidents of the trip, and here we were hustling along right end on towards the Rockies, and we all asleep. I did not even dream about it. I knew nothing at all until I awoke at 5 o'clock, and found on looking through my shutter that we were already entering the mountains. In the early morning I suppose we must also have passed Calgary the handsomest and most important town between Brandon and Vancouver. There is here a population of 4,500, handsome buildings and many good business houses a fine hotel run by Mr. Henry F. Perley of New Brunswick, a mounted police and Hudson Bay Company's Station and to crown all, the country hereabout is remarkably beautiful, and is overshadowed by the peaks of the Rockies. But we did not see it at all. We found that we had not seen the Rockies until we were right here among them. However, we got up and hastily dressed and sallied out without even washing our faces, expecting to see the sun soon rising in a clear sky, as we had been accustomed to all the way out.
