BYE-ELECTIONS.

This is nomination day in four constituencies where bye-elections will be held next Wednesday. The constituencies are Antigonish, Nova Scotia; Quebec West, and Vercheres, in the province of Quebec, and Haldimand, Ont.

Antigonish is the riding represented by Sir John Thompson from the time he entered the Dominion cabinet until his death. Prior to his election the county was Liberal and there is no telling how it will go this trip. As there are a large number of Roman Catholics, the government will look for their support, on the stand it has taken in sending the remedial order to Manitoba, with regard to separate schools. The government also thinks it is safe in Quebec West, and undoubtedly the remedial order will aid the powers that be in that constituency.

Vercheres is not nearly so certain. It was represented by Mr. Geoffrion, a grand old French Canadian, who for a brief period, until failing health interfered, had a portfolio in the McKenzie administration. He died recently, at an old age, and a relative of the same name is now in the field in the Liberal interest.

Haldimand is an historic battle-field. Election after election was fought there between Dr. Montague and Mr. Colter, who, by the way, is a cousin of the member for Carleton. Dr. Montague has been in possession lately, and now goes for re-election having accepted a portfolio in the Bowell administration.

In Quebec Mr. Tarte is very prominent. He contends that the government should have disallowed the Manitoba schools act four ago, and La Patrie, which thinks as Mr. Tarte thinks, says that the action of the dominion government is protective of the Protestant minority in Quebec rather than of the Roman Catholic minority in Manitoba. Says a contemporary: "It points out that while the Quebec legislature cannot destroy the Protestant schools in that province it can so legislate as to materially injure them, as, for example, by withdrawing or reducing the school grant or by placing them under the Catholic Council of Public Instruction. In such an event the only redress open to the Protestants is an appeal to Ottawa. The government, it turns out, according to La Patrie, has heard the Manitoba appeal solely that the protection the Quebec Protestants would enjoy through a like appeal might not be wanting in case of emergency. L'Electeur of Quebec, finds in the procedure of the administration a simple transference of the Judicial Committee to Manitoba for action, with no guarantee on the part of Ottawa that it will act if Mr. Greenway declines to do so."

Thus it will be seen that the action of the government can be regarded just about as you happen to wish it.

THE BURGLAR AT WORK.

Burglars who occasionally visit, or else reside in, Woodstock, are getting bold, as the article describing the Queen street station robbery testifies. They used to choose night for the time of their operations but now they appear to work with impunity in broad daylight.

It would almost be incredible, if it were not amply verified, that such a successful robbery could be made right in the heart of the town. The general opinion is that the burglars are strangers, but they must, certainly, keep in fine touch with monied matters in Woodstock. They must be possessed of information as to who are owners of filthy lucre, where it is stored, and how and when it may be stolen, with the least possible risk. One man could not have done the work at the Queen street station. There must have been accomplices, and probably several characters were in the secret. A constant watch must have been kept on visitors to the station, for had the bold burglar been discovered escape would have been impossible. Whether these robbers were of the desperate stripe, who shoot in night or day time, we cannot determine, but we may rest assured of this that the characters who within the past year have periodically perpetrated most successful robberies, would not shrink at taking human life to save themselves from the conviction and punishment they so richly deserve.

From the frequency of attacks of this kind it would appear that the Ancient Order of Successful Burglars regard Woodstock as a most inviting field for their money taking operations.

Perhaps it would be worth while for the police committee to cogitate on this matter.

VENEZUELA.

Description of the Republic—The Monroe Doctrine.

Leading journals of last week report serious difficulty between Great Britain and the South American republic of Venezuela, with Uncle Sam offended, because the decision of the matter is not left in his hands.

It is hard to keep posted on the political and social condition of all the countries with which Great Britain comes in contact, and many of them would remain unknown to us were it not that every once in a while they come prominently into court.

Venezuela is said to be the first land on the main continent of America discovered by Columbus. It was a Spanish colony, but on July 14, 1810, it declared its independence. A bitter war ensued, in which the Venezuelan patriot, Bolivar distinguished himself. The colony came off victorious in the end, and Venezuela was free. It has a government, founded much on the United States plan. There is an elected president, eight ministers, a federal council, a senate and chamber of deputies. The Venezuelans claim that their country embraces over 600,000 square miles, and right here is where the present difficulty with England lies. On the southwest Venezuela claims a large territory, also claimed by the republics of Columbia and Ecuador; on the east it claims from British Guiana the valley of the Essequibo river, together with all the territory on the left bank of the river following the influx of the Ropini.

British Guiana is a British colony and Great Britain refuses to acknowledge this claim of the Venezuelans. It is not the first time there has been difficulty with the republic, but until recently the understanding has been that neither Britain nor Venezuela shall occupy the disputed territory.

Uncle Sam has been anxious to arbitrate between Great Britain and Venezuela, but the former has some doubt as to the fairness which Uncle Sam would display in such a case. Just at present the United States should, it is thought, say very little on the matter of arbitration. Now Uncle Sam comes along with his "Monroe doctrine," and asks England to halt before going any further. But latest reports are that England refuses to be scared.

An explanation of the "Monroe doctrine" may not come amiss. Jas. Monroe was president of the United States in 1823. About that time several European powers formed what has been called the "Holy alliance." The alliance showed a disposition to assist Spain in subduing her South America colonies. Great Britain was as much opposed to the holy alliance as was the United States. Backed by Great Britain, Monroe, in his message to congress, in 1823, initiated the doctrine implied in these words:—"We could not view an interposition for oppressing them (the South America States) or controlling their destinies by any European power in any other light than as a manifestation of an unfriendly disposition towards the United States." The doctrine has become very popular in the United States and now implies that she will view with disfavor an attempt to form any but a republican form of government on the American continent.

Great Britain does not regard her matter with Venezuela as coming under the Monroe doctrine.

The Easter Youth's Companion.

The Youth's Companion, always good, has a way of outdoing itself! The Easter Double Number just received is an issue of rare excellence. Its handsome and appropriate cover is a fitting introduction of its contents. "Dorothy's Easter," and "A Corner in Eggs," in this number, are two Easter stories charmingly told, stories to be read and enjoyed by every member of the family. "The Story of a Statue," by the Marquis of Lorne, prepared for The Companion in collaboration with the Princess Louise, is an article of unusual interest. "The Romance of a Shoal," an adventure story by W. Clark Russell, is one of the best from the pen of this noted writer.

The reader will find in this Easter Number of The Companion a rich treat of the very best stories, poetry, practical information and miscellany for which The Companion has become famous the world over, and this number alone is well worth the cost of the paper for an entire year.

The Social Economist.

The Social Economist, a journal of applied economics, has found its way to the editorial desk. In view of the keen interest in economic questions prevailing everywhere, this journal is particularly timely just now. The article on "English drift toward municipal socialism" summarises the political and economic teachings of Dr. Shaw's work on municipal governments in England, showing that city governments are more pure in politics, and more efficient in administration than in American cities. Articles on "British wheat production under free trade" and "The no-profit line in wheat raising" are particularly interesting from the farmers point of view.

The post office department issued a warning to the public not to pretend to enclose money, in letters then endeavor to blame the postal service for cash not reaching its destination. Last week an Ontario man was sentenced to sixty days with hard labor for having written a letter pretending to remit money to a certain firm, and then purposely withholding the cash.

and numerous other goods which will be sold fine to the trade. We find on making comparisons that our jobbing business is increasing each year, and if our health permits we propose to make the season of 1895 surpass all former seasons both in price and quality of goods. There is no getting over the fact that perseverance, honesty of purpose and honorable dealing with your fellow men, and more especially with the ladies, must bring reward here on this earth and give a man a fair start for the kingdom above.

Respectfully yours,

A NEW DEPARTURE.

Being determined that the working men of the Carleton Co., shall know more about the sterling value, and reliable quality of the cloth made from our own wool, we have adopted a new plan. We are making the cloth up into trousers, the cut and finish is stylish and they are well made, and we have no hesitation in saying they are the best value ever offered in the county.

Think of all wool trousers—good solid heavy goods—well made up, selling for $2.55. Union goods wear a year for $2.18. Call and see us—and learn all about it. It doesn't make any difference whether you work in a saw mill—or foundry, bank or bakery—grocery store, or on a farm, you want good serviceable trousers—and you can find them at the

CAN'T HOLD A CANDLE TO OURS.

But in trying to do so it (the other fellow's clothing) shows ours up in a finer light, (the light of high quality and low price, just the light you are looking for).

Why should a man pay $20.00 for a 3-Button Cut-Away Dress Suit, when he can buy of us for $12 and $14 (of equal quality of course.) Or $15 for a Dress Overcoat, when we dispose of the same for $10. These are questions for you and your friends to answer if you can.

Clothing is one thing and prices is another, and a combination of the two is still a third, which makes our store the best place to buy.

The same argument applies to everything in the Gentlemen's Furnishing line in our store.
