

THE WOODSTOCK DISPATCH.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., NOV. 20, 1895.

ST. JOHN'S OPPORTUNITY.

The province generally will rejoice with St. John in that an opportunity is afforded that city of showing that it is a suitable winter port for Canada. The subsidy granted to the Beaver Line is $25,000 for this winter—not an exorbitant sum certainly. The Lake Superior, the largest steamer of the Beaver Line, will leave Liverpool on the 23rd inst., next Saturday. The service between St. John and Liverpool will be fortnightly. The stipulation on which the subsidy is granted provides that preference is to be given to all freight coming from the western provinces, that the rates shall be as low as from any port in the United States, that the steamships shall be able to carry each trip on an average of 400 head of cattle or the equivalent in horses and sheep. The vessels of the Beaver Line are in every way first class. The S. S. Lake Superior has accommodation for 1200 passengers, steerage, and 120 first-class.

To have these fine steamers between Liverpool and St. John must surely be an excellent thing for the latter city. Portland, Me. owes much of its prosperity to the fact that it has been practically the winter port of Canada.

While St. John is to be congratulated, it yet remains to be proved that it will be in every way a success as a winter port. We see no reason why it should not be. Of course the political papers are working this new departure for all it is worth. The government journals treat it as a great favor conferred by the party in power, while the opposition press sneers at it as a bribe, in view of the coming elections.

The people of St. John probably don't care what the party organs think so long as they have the service.

This paper thinks the Board of Trade of St. John is probably entitled to a good measure of credit for the successful outcome of the Beaver Line's proposition. Of late the St. John Board has been wide awake and progressive. They have advertised St. John as St. John was never advertised before, and everyone knows advertising pays—that is every one except antique fossils, now rarely to be found, thank heaven.

Aside from the convenience in sending and bringing freight to and from the old country, it will be a decided advantage for passengers to England from any part of the province, to be able to embark from the commercial capital, on a line of steamers where the accommodation is all that anyone can reasonably desire or expect.

The Hull, P. Q., Dispatch of a recent date contained an editorial headed, "A Hint to Judges." Our illustrious namesake complains of Judges in whose demeanour raises the suspicion that their particular seats have been decorated with tacks, and who display much ill-temper and impatience. We go our namesake one better, and assert that a court is not by any means, at all times the place of courtesy.

The Judges may well profit by such hints, and lawyers who make a practice of browbeating witnesses might also consider whether the ends of justice are served by treating a witness for the other side as if he were a hardened criminal. It is said that great lawyers, treat witnesses with courtesy, and that only the lesser lights regard incivility as a proof of ability.

The bicycle will no longer be a deadhead. At a recent meeting of the Passenger Committee of the Line Association, held in New York, the matter was discussed and it was agreed that each railway should take such action as the officials should deem desirable. It was generally conceded that, within a fortnight, bicycles will be charged for as freight.

Foster Brown's Funeral.

Can't Have The Park.

At a meeting of the Carleton Co. Agricultural Association held recently an application from the Athletic Association, for a lease of a portion of the Park for five years was read, when on motion of J. R. Murphy, seconded by S. Peabody, the secretary was instructed to acknowledge receipt of application and notify the Association, that the Directors could not consistently grant their request, as to lease a portion of the park for the purposes named, would be a serious interference with the track.

CANCER ON THE LIP

CURED BY

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"I consulted doctors who prescribed for me, but to no purpose. I suffered in agony seven long years. Finally, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a week or two I noticed a decided improvement. Encouraged by this result, I persevered, until in a month or so the sore began to heal, and after using the Sarsaparilla for six months, the last trace of the cancer disappeared."—JAMES E. Strength of the Army.

According to the annual return of the British Army for last year, the actual strength of the Imperial regular forces on the first day of this year was 222,151, the average strength during 1894 having been 219,121. Of the 221,151 with whom the year began, 107,810 were at home, 5,066 in Egypt, 31,783 in the Colonies, and 77,492 in India; and of the total number 19,674 were cavalry, 3,891 horse artillery, 14,397 field artillery, 1,477 mountain artillery, 17,471 garrison artillery, 7,591 engineers, 5,948 foot guards, 138,895 infantry of the line, 5,042 colonial corps, 3,479 army service corps, 862 ordnance store corps, 307 armourers, 2,563 medical staff corps, and 552 army pay corps. The number of recruits raised in the United Kingdom during the year was 33,441—26,763 in England, 3,232 in Scotland, and 3,446 in Ireland; 23,352 of the recruits are stated to have been under twenty years of age. The number of men discharged was 10,480, 1,792 died, and the net loss from desertion was 2,125. In all, 16,229 men were transferred to the first-class army reserve, which on January 1 numbered 82,804, or 1,496 less than the total voted in the Army Estimates, but satisfactorily higher than the 80,340 of twelve months previously, and placing the reserve, in fact, higher in numbers than it has ever been before. The militia on the inspection days last year numbered 121,677, or 13,172 below its proper strength; the yeomanry cavalry had 10,014, or 1,559 deficient; and the volunteers had enrolled 231,328, or 59,827 less than their establishment of 291,155.

Parisian Sanitation.

The conditions of life of the Paris poor are said to be now almost as perfect as legislation can make them. Under amended public health laws, the construction, sanitation, and letting of houses for the poor are subjected to so close and continuous a scrutiny that insanitary conditions are well nigh impossible. Two departments, the Bureau de Salubrite and the Bureau des Garais, are charged with the supervision of such dwellings, and they carry out their functions with great strictness. This perfection of sanitation is, however, purchased by the community by the imposition of all sorts of grievous limitations and impediments and endless annoyances upon the owners of tenement property, so much so that capitalists hesitate to put their money into house property, consequently the rents are steadily rising. Thus the tenement lodgers have to pay in increased rent for the sanitation of their dwellings, and the house owners are aggravated beyond measure by the sanitary persecution to which they are subjected. The Chief Secretary for Ireland at Leeds.

Mr. Gerald Balfour was present at a conversation in Central Leeds on Wednesday evening. Replying to an address, he said that his task in the office of Chief Secretary might prove easier than some of his predecessors has found it. He saw no sign that tactics of obstruction would revive in Ireland. He had everywhere been cordially received, and thought he discerned an important change in the spirit of the Irish people. Without abandoning their desire for Home Rule, they were becoming tired of political agitation, and he hoped for some co-operation even from those who had formerly been most hostile.

The Swiss government, which owns all the telegraph and telephone lines within its realm, has recently established telephonic connection between the towns of Quinten and Murg, across the Wallenstadt Lake. It is believed that the wire crossing this lake is the longest single wire span in the world. It is 2,400 metres long, which is equivalent to 7,800 feet. The wire is fastened at an elevation of 1,000 feet on the Quinten side, while on the other it is less than 400 feet. The best steel wire obtainable, only 2 millimetres thick (about one-sixteenth of an inch), was used. It sags in the centre so that it is but 120 feet above the surface of the lake.
