DR. THOMSON'S MED. CO.—Dear Sirs: My wife having been a sufferer from indigestion and languor, was induced to try your Sarsaparilla. The result is miraculous. She was relieved by one bottle. Her appetite the best for years. As an alterative and tonic it has no superior. This statement, for the benefit of suffering humanity, we give freely.

TO HAVE SEWERS. Opinions Expressed at the Recent Citizens' Meeting.

Judging by the tone of those who spoke at the meeting on Tuesday evening of last week, and the complete failure of anything in the shape of an opposition, the streets of Woodstock will soon experience an upheaval, and the death rate of the town will no longer be at the high figure, which it is said to be at present.

There were about one hundred citizens present, all of them, as the orders have it, in good standing. His Worship Mayor Saunders presided. He said that doctors had informed him that there were certain houses in Woodstock where there were cases of typhoid fever every year. It was plain that this sad state of affairs resulted from the lack of a proper sewerage system. Two ways were suggested for carrying out this plan. The first was to have a vote taken by the people, and if they approved of the idea, the town to issue bonds for $10,000, placing in sewerage to that amount. Another way was to vote a certain amount each year—say $3,000. Very few were found to advocate this latter course. He, himself, was in favor of having a complete system put in at once. The mayor referred to the action of the board of health in recommending that this system be put in.

Donald Munro made an extensive and detailed statement as to the amount of pipe which would be necessary on both sides of the bridge with the cost of laying the same. An act was passed in 1886, providing for certain loans being effected, not exceeding $10,000, on a vote of the ratepayers who are assessed on the greater amount of property in the town. He outlined a scheme. On the south side of the bridge he would have the outlet in quick water below Davis' mill. It might be advisable to have a catch basin for the heavier sewerage. This would be a matter to be decided on at a later period. On the north side of the bridge he would have the outlet near the ferry wharf. He estimated that in Wellington ward there would be 7,350 feet of pipe laid, and it would cost $4,292. In Kings and Queens ward the number of feet required would be 10,875 at a cost of $5,305, thus making a total of 18,225 feet of sewerage at a cost of $9,597. It was proposed to make entrance to the sewers compulsory and to charge, say $3.00 a family. There were 96 dwellings in Wellington ward, meaning 116 families. At $3.00 a family that would mean an income of $348.00. In Kings and Queens wards there were 155 houses, and 189 families, which meant an income of $567.00.

Major Vince asked if Mr. Munro knew the death rate in Woodstock. Mr. Munro said he did not, and the major said that in towns in England the average was twenty while here it was estimated at about forty per thousand.

J. T. A. Dibblee, M. P. P., said he was in favor of the system. A competent engineer should be employed to make an estimate. He believed in having it done all at once, and as soon as possible. (Applause.)

Samuel Watts said this was simply an advisory meeting. The council should get all the necessary information at the earliest possible opportunity, and submit it to the rate payers as required by law.

Wm. Dibblee thought the system should be adopted as rapidly as possible. He was in favor of laying down as much at once, as the town requires at once. He favored a popular instead of a property vote on the question.

John Connor endorsed all that had been said with regard to putting in sewers at once. A. Henderson was in favor of the proposed system. It was as necessary as were the waterworks.

A. B. Connell thought the sewers should have been put in when the waterworks were laid. We were in danger of standing convicted of the greatest negligence with respect to the health of the town.

P. McAnna was strongly in favor of the idea. He was for a popular vote being taken. James Watts moved the following resolution. That in the opinion of this meeting the town council should procure at once the services of a competent engineer, who shall make a thorough survey of the whole town and submit that survey, with plans for an entire system of sewerage for the town, with an estimate of the cost, and that when said report is submitted to the council, they submit the information to the people, and proceed to take a vote of the rate payers on the question whether to adopt the system or not.

H. Paxton Baird seconded the motion. Geo. L. Holyoke spoke in favor of a popular vote. The property owners according to the present arrangement would decide the question, and then all the people would have to pay for it.

Major Vince said he was in favor of sewerage, and he was in favor of making it perfectly free, as the highway roads are free. (Applause.) He would get an act put through the legislature, if, even at the point of the bayonet to have sewers. He believed the death rate in Woodstock was higher, proportionally, than it was in the city of London. He would have the sewers free to every man woman and child in town.

On the chairman calling for a vote on the resolution, everyone present stood up. Before the meeting broke up Samuel Watts moved and Wm. Dibblee seconded the resolution to the effect that steps be taken at once to secure such an amendment to the act, as to make the vote on this question, a popular instead of a property vote. This was carried without opposition.

Not a Divided Family.

There was a certain barrister in Sydney well known by reason of his padded chest and the bluish dye on his whiskers. His services were generally called into request when there was no hope of getting a prisoner acquitted by ordinary means of defence. Holding a brief one day in such a case, he made an eloquent appeal to the jury, urging them not to blight the future of the young prisoner by committing him and sending him to jail. He proceeded to draw a harrowing picture of two gray-haired parents in England looking very anxiously for the return of their prodigal son to spend next Christmas with them, and he asked: "Had they the hearts to deprive the old couple of their happiness?" The jury, however, being heartless men, found the prisoner guilty.

Before passing sentence the judge called for the prisoner's jail record, after examining which he blandly remarked that "the prisoner had some five previous convictions against him, but he was glad to say that Mr.—'s eloquent appeal would not remain unanswered, for he would commit the prisoner to Maitland—New South Wales—Jail, where his aged parents at the present moment were serving sentences respectively, so that father, mother, and son would be able to spend the ensuing Christmas season under one roof."—Household Words

A Serious Mistake.

The farmers of Aroostook are making a mistake in depending nearly altogether upon the potato crop, to the neglect of many other profitable lines connected with farming. As sure as the sun rises, will there be, in the future, a year when at least a partial failure of the great staple crop of Aroostook must be encountered. It may be next year, and it may not be for several years. In view of such a disaster as has always overtaken a farming community dependant upon one single crop for its prosperity, would it not be well for Aroostook farmers to bear this fact in mind and not place "all their eggs in one basket." Would it not be better for them, in the long run, to raise more grain, hay, horses, hogs and sheep and plant a less acreage in potatoes? It is a grand mistake for anyone to incur debts which cannot be paid without having a good crop and a fancy price for potatoes. It is not safe to count on receiving more than $1.00 per barrel. Figure your expenses accordingly and take no chances where not only yourself but your creditors will suffer because realization falls far short of expectation. In diversified farming only may be found the safeguard for a failure of the potato crop in Aroostook County.—Ee.

An Indian's Retort.

Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota, says that the Dakota Indians once held a war-dance near a mission house. He went to Wabasha, the chief, and said: "Wabasha, you asked me for a missionary and a teacher. I gave them to you. I visit you, and the first sight is this brutal scalp-dance. I knew the Chippeway whom your young men have murdered. His wife is crying for her husband; his children are asking for their father. Wabasha, the Great Spirit hears his children cry. He is angry. Some day he will ask Wabasha, 'Where is your red brother?' The old chief smiled, drew his pipe from his mouth, and said: 'White man go to war with his own brother in the same country; kill more men than Wabasha, can count in all his life. Great Spirit smiles; says 'Good white man! He has my book. I love him very much. I have a good place for him by and by.' The Indian is a wild man. He has no Great Spirit book. He kills one man, has a scalp-dance. Great Spirit is mad, and says 'Bad Indian! I put him in a bad place by and by.' Wabasha don't believe it!"

The Railroad Kidney.

This complaint is now recognized by medical men. It is caused by an artificial stoppage of the pores of the skin, the dirt of the railroads being responsible for such stoppage. If any person will examine his hand after riding for two or three hours in a train—and this is especially true if he be perspiring—he will find his hand is dirty. But a closer examination will show that the existence of a fine grime, the particles of which, as soon as the perspiration ceases, act as minute corks stopping up the orifices of the pores. How deeply this grime works into the skin is shown by the fact that after a railroad trip one washes one's hands and face two or three times before they become clean. It is this grime which produces railroad kidney. Of course, it is not to be supposed that an ordinarily healthy person will contract this disease in any trip of a day or two. But where a person is already a sufferer from chronic disease of the kidneys, it is possible that a week on railroad trains would aggravate his malady to an appreciable extent.—Ee.

Capricious Young Queen.

A pretty little story about Wilhelmina the girl Queen of Holland, has just found its way into the Dutch papers. The Queen is at present only 14 years of age, and she is credited with even a larger measure of caprice and precocity than is usually granted to less exalted young ladies at that interesting period of life.

Her mother, the Queen Regent, therefore thinks it well at times to deal somewhat severely with Wilhelmina's little ways. Late-ly the young Queen, desiring to speak to her mother, knocked—not, perhaps, in the most dignified fashion—at the door of the room in which the Queen Regent was engaged.

"Who is there?" "It is the Queen of Holland!" (imperiously.) "Then she must not enter" (peremptorily.)

At this rebuff the little Queen suddenly changed her tactics, and, softening her tones, said winningly: "Maama, it is your own little daughter that loves you and would like to kiss you."

"You may come in." And so Wilhelmina wins her way into the hearts of the most phlegmatic of Dutchmen.
