St. Louis du "Ha Ha" P. Q.

Oct. 19.—I suppose few of the readers of THE DISPATCH could tell where St. Louis du "Ha Ha" is if asked without looking at their geography, and it is doubtful if they could find it then, but if they were to look on a Temiscouata Rye time table they would find it marked forty-eight miles from Edmundston and thirty-two from Rivet de Loupe. It consists of a station house occupied by a section foreman but no station agent, a shingle mill owned by Messrs. Hayes & Boyd, a grist and saw mill owned by a Frenchman with an unpronounceable name, a few half cultivated rocky farms and a blacksmith shop. The farmers here as a rule, only keep one horse; but if they have more they single them out and work them in great heavy two wheeled carts with the load about evenly distributed between the wheels and the horses' backs. They do all their threshing with one horse machines that take the grain of the straw (or pretend to) and afterward they clean it up (the grain not the straw) with the old fashioned fanning mill such as were used in Carleton County fifty years ago. The women and children do about as much work in the fields as the men. Somehow the farmers make a living which is more than one of our C. C. farmers could do if put here.

Guy McCollum the veteran lumberman of Ashland is here with his crew of shanty boys and six pair of horses. He will cut on Blue river a tributary of the St. Francis. He will run three or more camps getting spruce and cedar.

THE DISPATCH is a welcome visitor to us up here and we always greet it as an old and honored friend. We would extend a pressing invitation to the Imp to pay us a visit after the editor-in-chief gets his fall work done and he is relieved of the management of the paper, only we are afraid he would write his musings in French and then we would feel inclined to give him the cut direct.

Oakville.

Oct. 18.—The long looked for rain has arrived at last—more yet please.

The stream is running thick with waste from the starch factory at Monticello, Me. The water must have a splendid flavor—some of our people have to use it too.

School meeting day being a holiday was hailed by the "kids" with much rejoicing. Mr. William T. Bell was elected trustee in place of Mr. Allan McLellan retiring.

Now that the election is over our "hustlers" will be taking a rest. How much they will need it! A shaggy time ago a valuable colt the property of George G. Bell strayed from the pasture and some miscreants hunted it with a dog, cutting its legs very badly. What a pity we have such cruel pre-verse people in our otherwise fair community?

Hallowe'en is coming, be sure and pull your cabbage.

Wonder who our "fish warden" will be?

Southampton.

Oct. 21.—The Southampton cheese factory has been running four months this season. During the first two months June and July, the company paid 70 cents per cwt. for the milk. On account of dullness in the cheese market the company during the month of August paid only 60 cents per cwt; but this causing a good deal of dissatisfaction among the patrons the company paid at the rate at which they began the season, for September milk. They have been obliged to dispose of their cheese at figures much below those of last year and instead of the surplus of last year of some $60 they are compelled to face a deficit of several hundred. The factory has been run very creditably by Messrs. David Schriver and Harry Grant. The company have still a few cheese to dispose of.

The valuations of York Co. Messrs. Campbell, McBeard and McNally passed through here on Saturday. They took the valuation of 15 places in Southampton.

Inspector Bridges is inspecting our school today.

E. Tabor was called to Woodstock on Thursday to hunt for his brother who is reported missing.

Some idiotic and malicious persons have been reporting stories slightly to the detriment of the sale of the cheese made at our factory. Investigation being made into the matter the rumors were found to be utterly false.

Oats are reported to be a fair crop in this section. Buckwheat is about the average. Wheat was not much sown here but I think it was an average yield. Barley was a good crop. Potatoes rotted in most places so that the crop was rather light. Several of our farmers had some fine fields of turnips. Mr. W. S. Tompkins having the finest yield I have seen. I was shown one which weighed 26 pounds.

Richmond.

Oct. 19.—Misses Eunice and Bertha Pritchard are visiting Mrs. Carmont.

Mr. B. B. McIntyre, formerly of Richmond, but now of Houlton, was married on Wednesday to Miss Sarah Porter of Houlton.

The Presbyterians intend holding a farmers' supper on Wednesday, October 30th.

Rev. J. Barker has gone to take charge of his parish of Matapedia.

Miss Ella McNeil was the guest of Mrs. B. D. Hoyt last week.

Mr. Perley McIntyre and Miss Kate Hay spent Sunday in Kirkland.

Misses Lizzie and Muriel Barker have returned from Margerville.

Mr. Sharp, Pembroke, spent Sunday with friends in Richmond.

Mrs. London had a small party on Thursday night.

Mrs. T. Parks went to Boston on Thursday. Harry and Albert Reid are visiting friends in Aroostook county.

In August last the young men of Richmond founded a lodge and soon found if they wished to continue their meetings they would have to provide themselves with a hall, as the old one is valuable only for the good it has done and for the lumber used to prop up the floor. The members of the lodge took advice one of another and decided to have a supper. They held a meeting and appointed a committee consisting of Wm. Elze, Guy Purinton, G. Whitehead, O. Toms, J. McLean, and all members of the lodge to do what they could. On Saturday last they called up their most beseeching look and scoured the country far and near in quest of chickens, eggs, butter, etc., and on Monday and Tuesday cooked their provisions, though where they learned to cook none can tell, probably it is one of the secrets of the society. Accordingly on Tuesday night the little village of Richmond Corner presented a lively appearance. A stranger on his approach might fancy the main street lighted up by myriads of fire flies on the wing, but on their arrival if his olfactory nerves were in good order and not afflicted by the prevailing cold, he would at once detect the well known odor of tobacco, and last, the idea would dawn upon him that some of the members of the lodge aided by their friends in the desperate efforts to be of some use had converted themselves into veritable candlesticks. Near the hall stood a building well lighted, and judging from the smoke coming out of the doors and the number of fire flies just outside the door, a person would at once conclude that this was where they got their fuel, and if he looked in the window (as none but a lover of the weed would think of going to the door) he would see that one room had been converted into a temporary store presided over by Messrs. S. Eddy and Perley McIntyre. On entering the sense of hearing would be first affected. The clatter of dishes and the hum of voices could only be equalled by the machinery in the Woodstock woollen mill. The members of the lodge could easily be found by their rosettes and by the eager expectant expression on their faces, and the way in which they held their hands gave one the impression that whatever their hands found to do would be done with all their might. The hall was half filled by three long tables which fairly groaned under their load of provisions. The waiters were attentive, and everybody pronounced the supper a good one. After the cravings of the inner man were satisfied, Messrs. Hipwell, Stevenson and Hay entertained the audience by a few remarks. Many expressed a wish that the lodge would entertain there again in the near future. The receipts amounted to $125.

[The picnic editor was present and fully endorses the above.—Ed.]

Bristol.

Oct. 21.—There will be a basket social at the residence of Mr. A. J. McLean on Wednesday evening 30th inst. Proceeds for the benefit of the Rev. D. Fiske.

Dr. G. W. Somerville has moved his office and residence into the post office building formerly occupied by W. A. Sherwood.

Mrs. Spaulding and Miss Guida Lovely left on Friday last for Lowell, Mass.

The remains of Mr. Wm. Tompkins of Glassville arrived in the train on Saturday from Marysville, and were taken to his old home for burial. He was 21 years of age, and the son of Albion Tompkins.

As Rev. Mr. Lepage was in attendance on the Provincial S. S. Association at Chatham, last week his pulpit was vacant on Sunday.

The C. E. Society continue to hold interesting meetings. Last Tuesday evening was election, and Mrs. Geo. Davis was chosen president and Othneil Merritt Secretary, and the usual committees were appointed.

Porth Centre.

Oct. 21.—Alexander Dewey, Red Rapids, who attempted to commit suicide on the 9th inst., is dead.

The Municipal election held here on the 15th resulted in the election of David Curry and Albert Brymer of Tobique.

The people of Kilburn were shocked to hear on Tuesday that Oscar Kilburn was suddenly killed by the explosion of a can of powder. On Monday night at a late hour Oscar Kilburn and his friend James Paul undertook to have some amusement by themselves, so they got a can of powder. Oscar Kilburn attempted to apply the match. As he did it exploded in his hand striking him in the face and killing him almost instantly. He was a promising young man about 21 years of age, and the son of John Kilburn who is dead. He was interred in the Methodist cemetery at Kilburn Thursday morning. Rev. A. Gibson preached the sermon. The funeral was largely attended.

The temperance people of this town have taken a prominent part in doing away with licensing liquor here and have several petitions largely signed by the parish rate payers.

Bedell Settlement.

Oct. 21.—A little rain has fallen to gladden the hearts of the farmers.

Mrs. S. Valase is visiting her mother, Mrs. Montgomery.

Mrs. Alex. Benn spent a week with her mother, Mrs. Montgomery.

The Orange supper held at Richmond Corner, proved a grand success.

Some of our young folks enjoyed the dance given by Mrs. Delong.

Another picnic is to be held at Mr. George Kennedy's.

Rev. Mr. Bleakney will preach in the Bedell Settlement church next Sunday evening at half past six.

I am glad to learn that Mr. Hiram Kirkpatrick is able to go to work again.

Upper Woodstock.

Oct. 22.—It has been a very dry season. All but two wells in the place are dry. The steam drill has had a snap deepening wells.

Messrs. Sharp & Dugan have just finished a large root house and filled it with young trees.

The annual school meeting passed off harmoniously. W. R. Wright was elected trustee in place of John Walton, retiring. Messrs. Good and Hipwell were the other trustees. They voted $475 for school purposes. Mr. Crawford, the teacher, was highly commended for his work.

A large crew is at work framing the new span for the C. P. R. bridge. One new span has already been placed.

Messrs. Pit, Ketchum, Everett and Smith are each making large shipments of hay from this place.

The steam factory is humming away at a good rate. The boys are using their new blacksmith shop. They are anxious to satisfy the public and are here to stay. They deserve a liberal patronage.
