CORRESPONDENCE.

Hartland.

Aug. 1.—Hartland is daily enlarging her borders. Time would fail to tell of all the new enterprises, new buildings, new fashions and new people, who have recently come to Hartland. There was a time when Fredericton was considered the hub, but now our people go there to rusticate, and many of the old settlers are sure the spokes start out from here.

Mr. Waugh, the new beer man, has done good practical work, since coming here. His presence has been felt in a number of ways. He has, however, offered to sell out his saloon, beer and all, to G. C. Watson, undertaker. To a less scrupulous man than Mr. Watson, whiskey and undertaking would make a thriving business.

Each day the walls of C. H. Taylor's fine brick building are towering upward under the supervision of Mr. Harrison, of St. John. It is decidedly the finest site in Hartland for trading, and very pleasantly situated for a dwelling. Mr. Taylor employs from ten to fifteen men.

The Becaguic buckwheat mill has suddenly emerged into a fine saw mill. An extensive lumber business is now going on. A track is laid from the main railroad line carrying away immense quantities of fine sawed lumber. An estimate will be made soon and forwarded to the DISPATCH.

Business has been almost suspended in consequence of the drought, holding the lumber up the stream. About forty men are employed. A fine store is also run—just the place to make a good bargain.

Mr. Baker's variety store promises to receive a liberal patronage.

The new tin shop is a bright and shining business. The young man who runs it secured a good boarding place, and is doing a good business—a square business—so people say.

The need of a bridge here is inexpressible. The drought has brought the bar to the surface all the way down to the ferry landing. Last week teams forded from the bar to the other shore.

A number of persons are suffering from throat trouble, calling "over," "over," until their voices sound like the last despairing shriek of distress.

There are two things Hartland modestly requests, viz., prohibition and a bridge.

The bells, sweet bells, ring out from three different hotels, calling the weary and hungry to eat, drink and rest. And the hash is served in the same fashion as of old, and what matter, whether hash, beef steak, or lemon pie, so that true hearts and sweet faces, angel faces, bend over you with the pie or pudding.

The shoes kindly left at Mr. Flemming's store at Peel were too large for him. They must have been "liberal" shoes.

Grafton.

Aug. 2.—Our village has awakened once more in the building line. Frederick Bowles is building a blacksmith shop.

Farmers are nearly through haying and report the crop very light this year.

The busy hum of the saw mill makes us realize the fact that there must be a great demand for lumber. The mill gives employment to about 14 men.

J. J. Hale is building a large tow boat. The County Convention meets here Aug. 13th. Retta Henderson, daughter of Dr. Henderson, of Philadelphia, is the guest of the Misses McElroy.

A stray Campbell is sometimes seen in our village. However, we will not drive him away.

Burton Kerr, of Debec, paid us a flying visit one day this week.

On Tuesday, July 30th, a number of young folks from different parts of the village started for a half day's outing. They drove down this side of the river until they arrived at Wallace Gibson's. Here they halted, stabled their horses, and were joined by others, and a happy company started for the falls which is about two miles distant from Mr. Gibson's. After a lively walk they reached the place they were bound for, and were well rewarded for their toil, as the falls were very beautiful. Several of the young men carried fishing tackle and caught a few eels. They then wended their way to the house where delicious supper awaited them. After partaking of supper they all started for home. All expressed themselves much pleased with the trip.

Bath.

Aug. 5.—There was an ice cream party given at the residence of Samuel W. Barker's in honor of his daughter's birthday, and a very enjoyable evening was spent by the young people.

Dr. R. R. Colter, M. P., of Woodstock, paid us a flying visit on Wednesday, meeting lots of his old friends who were glad to see him.

Dr. Atkinson's funeral was largely attended by the people of Bath, showing the high esteem in which he was held.

A large number went to the circus on Friday last and all were well pleased.

Miss Julia Dugan while visiting Miss Corcoran, was taken ill, but is again recovering. James Haley, of Lynn; also Stephen McNichol, of same place, are here on a visit.

W. R. Gillen, of Hartland, was here on business today.

Miss Francis McGuire, of Fredericton, is visiting friends here.

It has been an exceptionally dry season, and John Giberson, our oldest inhabitant, says he never remembers seeing the river so low.

E. F. Shaw has his new store nearly completed. The second storey is to be fitted up for a hall. It adds considerably to the looks of our village.

H. B. Miles has gone on his vacation. His position is being filled by Mr. Harmon, of Peel.

Miles McCrea has gone north on a hunting trip. Mrs. M. Welch, of Milltown, is the guest of Mrs. Thos. Bohan.

Mrs. Wm. Bart Cox gave a birthday party on the 31st ult.

John McCready has a fine colt which is showing phenomenal speed. Mr. McCready would like to meet some of our local flyers.

Knowlesville.

Aug. 6.—Last week Rev. E. B. Gray and wife paid a visit to this place and Sunday evening preached in the Free Baptist church to the largest congregation that has assembled in that house for some time. He was pastor of this church for three years but has not been here for two years.

W. S. Swim from Houlton paid a visit to his relatives on Saturday last. He rode his bicycle and made better time than most of the horses.

Mrs. Crowl Gayton is visiting friends here.

S. L. Gayton and wife are visiting his brother C. H. Gayton.

We were blessed with a rainy day last Sunday. Almost everything was suffering for the want of rain but our wants have been supplied. The farmers are mostly through haying, the crop is a very light one. With some it is almost a failure. Grain is good. Some have commenced cutting grain. The weather has been poor for haying this week.

Mrs. Joseph Whitehouse is sick and the doctor thinks she will not recover. She is 76 years old and was the first woman that moved into this place.

Richmond.

Aug. 6.—Mrs. Chandler and Miss Lucy Carvell, Minn., are visiting Mrs. Geo. Parks.

Mrs. Rich, Moosehead Lake, has been visiting in Richmond.

Miss Giberson, Wicklow, is staying with Mr. Kinney.

Miss Anette Hull is visiting at Fort Fairfield. Mr. Tupper, of Massachusetts, is visiting friends in Richmond.

Lorne McLeod, Houlton, spent his holidays in Richmond.

Miss May Tibbitts, Andover, is visiting Miss Alice McIntyre.

Dr. Jamieson and Mrs. Jamieson, of Philadelphia, are in Richmond.

Miss Nettie Barker, Toronto, is staying with her parents at McKenzie Corner.

The annual Sunday school picnic will be held in Chester Carpenter's woods on Wednesday next.

Bristol.

Aug. 4.—W. A. Sherwood has moved into Daniel Bell's new store at the end of the bridge, which he has leased for a number of years, and is now prepared to serve his many customers at his new stand.

Mrs. W. M. Wetmore has returned from an extended visit to friends in York county.

Miss Dawson, of Albert Co., a music teacher, is visiting Bristol, and has a number of pupils to whom she is giving lessons in instrumental music.

Mrs. Whelpley returned on Saturday from a fortnight's visit to St. John.

Sherry Murphy went to Andover on Thursday on account of the serious illness of his sister, Mrs. Parker.

John Rogers has so far recovered from his attack of typhoid fever, as to be able to walk out a little.

Grand Falls.

Aug. 6.—Mrs. J. S. Porter, of Caribou, is at home now visiting her mother Mrs. W. B. West.

Quite a number of our folks attended the circus at Woodstock last Friday and came home well satisfied with their trip.

Miss Susie Smith has gone to Woodstock, to spend a few weeks with her friend Mrs. A. G. McGibbon.

Jim Howard, of Aroostook Junction, spent Sunday in town.

Mr. J. L. McCluskey has been laid up for a week with erysipelas, but I am pleased to hear he is better today. Mr. Mc. has been making quite a change in his store. He has had the hall over the store changed into a ladies' department and has put in a fine new stock of ladies' goods including wrappers and ready made suits. The new department presents a very fine appearance.

Miss Speer, of Benton, is in town the guest of Mrs. Geo. West.

Oakville.

Aug. 5.—Grafting horses seems to be about the latest fad that has taken the people of this place.

We had a fine display of sports a few nights ago. Three flyers were out. During the proceedings, what might have been a serious accident took place. Mr. Greenbush Lonelon turned his horse too short and overturned his cart, but being something of an athlete he soon got things straight.

There was a good deal of running and pacing. Mr. T. S. Briggs' "grey Bessie" did some very square work.

Most of the people here took in the circus.

Miss Estabrooks, Florenceville, is visiting friends here.

The long talked of camp meeting came off here last Sunday. Preaching Saturday night by Elder Denton, followed by similar services Sunday morning and afternoon. When the question was put, "How many want to be saved?" a large number stood on the Lord's side. In the evening Mrs. Saddle conducted a gospel meeting in a very masterly manner in which a goodly number took part. On the whole the meetings were quite successful, and it is hoped much good will result. At the close the Rev. Elder complimented the people on the perfect order and attention displayed throughout. One feature which all must have appreciated was the singing of Messrs. Harry and Albert Reed, which was excellent indeed.

I heard that some people said it must have been T. S. Briggs that requested people to bring their baskets. Let me say it was no such as the aforesaid person but just as people always do they speak before they know what they are talking about.

Meeting in town on the evening of the 6th inst.

Dr. Atkinson's Funeral.

Dr. Atkinson's funeral, which took place at Bristol, last week, was attended by a large number of people. The remains were placed on the lawn outside the house in order to allow all to join in the services. The first lesson was read by Rev. Mr. Bearisto, the second by Rev. A. H. Hayward; opening prayer, Rev. Jno. Home; 1st hymn "Jesus Lover of My Soul"; 2nd hymn, "There is a Land of Pure Delight"; 3rd hymn, "Rock of Ages." The sermon was preached by Rev. D. Fiske, who took for his text St. Matt. vi. 19: "Lay not up for yourselves, etc." After the sermon appropriate remarks were made by Revs. Mr. Kirkpatrick, Geo. Sellar and Dr. Chapman. Among the floral tributes was an anchor from the members of the local house, St. John; a bouquet from I. O. F.; a cross from friends of the deceased. The chief mourners were: Dr. Atkinson, of St. James; and two other brothers of the deceased. Dr. Sprague, Dr. Ross, Dr. Somerville, J. A. Lindsay, D. W. Kyle and H. C. Phillips were the pall bearers. Following the mourners were, Hon. A. Blair, Hon. Jas. Mitchell, M.P.P., Colter, M. P., and J. T. A. Dibblee, M.P.P. There were over one hundred Foresters in the procession, gathered from Court Sterling of which deceased was a member, Court Waldoostook, Florenceville, Regina, Clearview, Carlton, Glassville and Andover. The services at the grave were most impressive. Dr. Atkinson had $4,000 insurance; $1,000 in the Foresters, and $3,000 in other companies.

Another Montreal Murder.

Montreal had hardly got over talking of the Demers tragedy, when a most shocking case of murder was reported to have been committed in the heart of the city. Azrie Gauthier killed his intended wife Celina Costigny. They were in a room together when the deed was committed. Gauthier gave no reason for his action. He was at once arrested.

At 2 o'clock on Friday morning, while occupying a cell in murderers' row, Montreal jail, Gauthier tore his bed quilts into strips and tried to hang himself with a cord thus made, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon Judge Desnoyers formally committed the accused to stand his trial at the September term of the court of Queen's Bench. Had the guards not rushed in and cut him down, Gauthier would have been dead in short order, and when he came into court and faced the reporters, he drew his right forefinger across his throat to indicate what he had been about. Being questioned as to the attempt upon his own life, Gauthier smiled a ghastly smile and remarked that it was better to die that way than to go out of the world standing up before a big crowd of people.

The murderer is apparently quite indifferent to his fate, and a broad grin spread over his face when Mr. St. Jean, his lawyer, was instructing the prisoner to plead not guilty. Gauthier seemed to think that his trial was over when he had been committed and he said to his counsel "You have handled my case very ably, and I am very grateful, and as for the pay we will see about that later on." In another end of the city a sadder portion of the drama was being enacted. It was learned earlier in the day that although the parents and friends of the murdered girl, Celina Costigny, had made every possible effort to have Christian burial accorded their child but the ecclesiastical authorities would not hear of it and the funeral cortege proceeded to that part of Cote Des Neiges Cemetery reserved for those suddenly deprived of the last rites of the church, and for children who die without being baptized.
