

THE WOODSTOCK DISPATCH.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., NOV. 27, 1895.

THE LION'S ROAR.

It seems that in spite of the predictions and assertions of Anglophobists, the British lion is still to the front, and while he is generally a quiet animal, when he thinks it necessary to roar, a profound sensation is caused in European circles.

On Lord Mayor's day, Lord Salisbury made an important speech, in which he left it plainly to be understood that the dismemberment of the Ottoman Empire was quite within the range of probabilities. It appears that the Sultan of Turkey has read Lord Salisbury's speech, and His Majesty proceeded at once to send a letter to the English premier in which he states, "I repeat, I will execute reforms. I will take a paper containing them before me and see that every article is put in force. This is my earnest determination. I give my word of honor. I wish Lord Salisbury to know this. I beg and desire his lordship, having confidence in these declarations, to make another speech by virtue of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. I shall await the result of this message with the greatest anxiety."

Lord Salisbury read this letter at a public meeting a few days ago. He asked his hearers to excuse him for following such an unprecedented course, but he could not abstain from reading it, without showing discourtesy to the distinguished potentate who had written it. But his comment on the letter will hardly relieve the anxiety of the wretched Sultan. Lord Salisbury says, "The mere writing of new provisions and fresh decrees cannot supply the place, especially in eastern communities, of governors knowing how and having the courage and integrity to perform their duty. The powers will doubtless do their best. Do not imagine the deep seated diseases of the empire can be cured by the wave of a magician's wand. The results of long years of error must be paid for. The cruel law is that those who will pay are not those originally guilty of offence."

There is an opinion, held by those qualified to judge, that the Sultan is willing and eager to carry out the much needed reforms. But, unfortunately, he is one of those absolute rulers who, while nominally the supreme power in the country, is actually ruled by scrupulous and faithless advisers.

It is indeed true of the Sultan of Turkey, "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

Miss Taylor's Concert.

The audience which listened to Miss Louie Taylor's concert in the Opera House on Wednesday evening was not so large, as it undoubtedly would have been, had the weather not been so distinctly uninviting. However many lovers of good music, faced by the inclement weather and were well repaid for their fortitude. Miss Taylor plays the violin with a touch of the real artist. She was supported by a talented cast including her sister Miss Taylor, Miss Ina S. Brown, and Mr. Callaghan. Miss Louie Taylor's violin performance was of course, the striking feature of the evening, but the parts of the other artists were thoroughly appreciated. In fact the concert was a refined entertainment, and it will be a good thing for Woodstock when its citizens come to recognize, as they should be recognized, first class musical ability.

Serious Accident.

Charles Clowes of Manguerville, and three of his children had a very narrow escape from death last Wednesday morning. Mr. Clowes was driving a load of hay to the city, accompanied by his three children, two boys and a girl, on their way to school. When the team arrived opposite the residence of Geo. A. Parley, Manguerville, it was found necessary to drive the horses out slightly to prevent these on top the load from being struck by the limb of a tree, which was hanging across the road. After the wagon had safely passed the tree, Mr. Clowes turned his head a moment to see if everything was all right, and as he did so the horses died to the left. At that instant the left and wheels quit the road, which is very narrow at this point, and caused the wagon to overturn, and roll down a twelve foot embankment, horses and all. Hon. A. Harrison, who was driving along a short distance behind Mr. Clowes, hastened to the rescue, and succeeded in extricating Mr. Clowes and his children from beneath the hay where they had been buried. Mr. Clowes and his little girl are both seriously injured, but the two boys escaped without anything more than a severe shaking up. The horses were uninjured. The escape of all the party from fatal injuries is considered almost miraculous.—F'ton Herald.

DISEASED LUNGS

CURED BY TAKING AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

"I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs, and I did what is often done in such cases, neglected it. I then consulted a doctor, who found, on examining me, that the upper part of the left lung was badly affected. The medicines he gave me did not seem to do any good, and I determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking a few doses my trouble was relieved, and before I had finished the bottle I was cured."

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Carleton Co. Agricultural Society was held in the Record office on the 19th inst, the president, C. L. S. Raymond, in the chair. There was an unusually large attendance. Mr. C. R. Carman, secretary, submitted his annual report, showing the society to be in a flourishing condition there being a cash balance in its favor of $171.12. On motion, Mr. Carman was ordered to be paid $20.00 for his services. The president submitted his report, which was highly satisfactory, and a hearty vote of thanks was passed to him for the creditable manner in which he had discharged his duties as president during the past year. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Pres. Robt. Brown, Northampton; Ist V. P., C. P. Bull, Northampton; 2nd V. P., C. L. Perkins, Woodstock; Sec-treas., C. R. Carman, Woodstock; directors, C. L. Smith, M. P. P., Hugh Gallagher, A. Henderson, C. L. S. Raymond, Dr. W. N. Hand, Henry B. Smith, John Connor, Andrew Stevenson, John Shea, John S. Leighton, Jr., Sam'l Watts, Sterling Peapody, J. R. Murphy, Jas. Watts, T. J. Boyer, G. L. Holyoke, G. Allan Bull, C. W. Connell, Thos. Kelly, Stephen Peapody. J. R. Murphy, Jas. Watts and C. L. S. Raymond were appointed a committee to prepare a set of by-laws for the society, and to procure necessary legislation for amending the constitution. J. S. Leighton, C. L. S. Raymond and G. L. Holyoke were appointed a committee to report to the society at its next meeting, as to what shall be done with the trotting park, which is under the control of the society. After other routine business, including the appointment of Mr. Charles McLean, as auditor, the meeting adjourned until Saturday the 30th, at 2 o'clock.

Spools

Practically all the wood used in making spools for thread in this country and Great Britain is cut in Main forests, but so great is the amount of lumber required each year for the making of these seemingly insignificant articles that Main will not be able to supply the raw material much longer. The spools are made of birchwood, and the birch of the Main forests is the best for the purpose. More than two million feet of lumber is shipped to Scotland every year for the use of the great thread manufacturers there, and almost as much is supplied to domestic manufacturers. The business began in Maine twenty-five years ago, and land that was cut over at that time is now well covered with young trees, but not for twenty-five years more will this timber be fit to cut.—Scientific American.

New York World.

THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION.

The twice-a-week edition of the New York World has been converted into the thrice-a-week. It furnishes 3 papers of 6 pages apiece, or eighteen pages every week, at the old price of one dollar a year. This gives 156 pages a year for one dollar and every paper has 6 pages eight columns wide or 48 columns in all. The thrice-a-week World is not only much larger than any weekly or semi-weekly newspaper, but it furnishes the news with much greater frequency and promptness. In fact it combines all the crisp, fresh qualities of a daily with the attractive special features of a weekly.

THE DISPATCH AND THE THrice-A-Week edition of the World $1.75 per annum in advance.
